STATEMENT OF FACTS

11. Plaintiffs on or about June 7, 2007, were patrons and/or business invitees of a club known as Bliss located in Clifton, NJ at which time Plaintiffs photographs were taken by a company known as Defendant, CLUBITUP. Plaintiffs were not provided with or requested a consent/authorization form. Thereafter, Defendant JAY LOUIS, through Defendant, CLUBITUP, came into possession, by events unknown to the Plaintiff, of these photographs through CLUBITUP.COM and included these photographs in a book known as Hot Chicks with Douchebags, and was published by Defendant, SSE, a division of Defendant, Simon & Schuster, Inc. with a copyright date of 2008 and placed on retail shelves in August 2008.

12. After this book was published and sold commercially the Plaintiffs immediately were made aware of their likeness and photographs being included in this book. The photographs has resulted in the commercial exploitation of the Plaintiff's likeness.

13. Plaintiffs' privacy has been invaded, as the Plaintiffs are not public figures and the authors depict these Plaintiffs as females who date dubious men. This belief and/or depiction is not open for public observation, but is rather a private matter. In addition, the depiction is false, harmful, vulgar and obscene. Plaintiffs have a reasonable expectation of privacy which has been violated.

14. The Defendants have sought to capitalize and have capitalized on Plaintiffs' likeliness for purposes other than the dissemination of news or information. The Defendants, as set forth above, have used the Plaintiffs' likeliness for trade purposes. The Defendants have used the Plaintiffs' photographs to promote and sell this book.

15. As a result of the publishing of the Plaintiffs' photographs in this vulgar and negative book, the Plaintiffs have suffered damages, which have resulted in the Plaintiffs undergoing medical treatment, psychological therapy as well as financial damages, as Plaintiffs have been rejected in job applications and opportunities as a direct result of being included in this offensive book. The long term effect of this book on Plaintiffs cannot be completely known except to say the damages are extensive.

16. Plaintiff JOANNA OBIEDZINSKI, had applied for a position as Matre'd/Captain at a very well known and prestigious country club known as the Westmount Country Club located in NJ. On or about August 4, 2008, Ms. Obiedzinski was notified that her application and interview, although had gone very well, was going to be rejected and the club had chosen to hire another interviewee based on her inclusion in the book at issue. Westmont Country Club went on to state that "as you know the job as Matre'd Captain is a serious one. Dealing with brides, grooms and their families becomes personal and is built on trust. You have worked for us many years in the past. There has been some speculation of a book you are in. A lady explained the book to me after I mentioned hiring you. Although you would be a immense candidate for the job, we cannot have things like this floating around...I do encourage you to apply for another job if you feel you may be interested. I regret you were not selected. But the offensive book seems to be well known and we cannot have the image represent us". The manager of the Westmont Country Club, Thomas Del Gatto authors this letter and stands by his decision.

17. The Plaintiffs JOANNA OBIEDZINSKI and PAULINA PAKOS, are also college students wherein Paulina Pakos is currently a 4th year student at Ramapo College located in Mahwah, NJ seeking a bachelor of arts degree in Psychology and is scheduled to graduate in December 2008. Ms. Pakos, based on the fact of her major and desire to do social work and counseling has serious concerns of the damage to her name and reputation in seeking a career in this field that being included in this book shall continue to follow her for the rest of her life. Plaintiff, Paulina Pakos was dating a person who broke up with her as a result of Plaintiff's appearance in the book. Ms. Pakos' nephews, who are 7 and 5 years old, who have become aware of the book, question why Plaintiff is in it. Plaintiff's personal life has been affected adversely.

18. Plaintiff Yvette Gorzelany is employed currently in a family business engaged in commercial and residential cleaning, whose clients include many Bergen County customers. This business requires the trust of customers in allowing access to homes and offices.

19. Ms. Joanna Obiedzinski is currently a student at Montclair University located in NJ with a major in Psychology and Dietetics, and has similar concerns as Plaintiff Pakos.

20. On or about August 2008, Plaintiffs were shocked to discover that their photographs were displayed in the book at issue as a result of being contacted by friends who saw and/or heard of the book being sold in such companies as Barnes and Nobles.

21. When Plaintiffs discovered their photographs in this book, they immediately protested and sent a letter dated August 14, 2008 to SSE, a division of Simon & Schuster. In that letter, Plaintiffs requested that the unauthorized circulation of Plaintiffs photographs and inclusion of Plaintiffs photographs and this book be terminated immediately. Defendant, Simon & Schuster responded back in a letter dated September 8, 2008 by Vice-President Senior Counsel, Jennifer K. Weidman, which in pertinent parts concluded that "as there can be no dispute that the use of the pictures of your clients is of a non-commercial nature and there is a significant relationship to the editorial context in which it appears, that your client cannot establish falsity and that the statements in the book are constitutionally protected opinion, we deny that your clients have a cognizable claim and/or are entitled to any damages".

22. When Plaintiffs discovered the extensive and large scale dissemination of the book, Plaintiffs protested and immediately voiced their concerns which were rejected by the Defendants. There has been internet dialog through the website www.lasvegasweekly.com, by individuals who have found themselves similarly situated to the Plaintiffs in this Complaint have began to discuss the issue of the Defendants' profiting from the defamation of character of the Plaintiffs and the fact that they have found themselves included in this book which they had no knowledge about. The individuals who have found themselves included in this book have described themselves as victims which author Jay Louis seeks to gain from. There is no gain to be had by any of the individuals who have found themselves included in this book. On these internet websites there is also being discussed that the book's publicist SSE has not provided information about whose name is actually on the contract for allegedly selling the photos.

23. The Plaintiffs find it disturbing that a person can take another's photograph without their consent and write derogatory remarks about the subjects in the picture and make money off belittling the people.

24. The author Jay Louis has been quoted as saying that he doesn't know anyone pictured in the book. He says he would be really surprised if anyone turns out to be upset. "It's part of the douchebag persona-if you can't take lumps and get called out and then be cruel about it, you look so much better instantly heroic". Louis states "ditch the skank", referring to the women in the book, if you as a man do no want to be a "douchebag".
