SUPERIOR COURT

JUDICIAL DISTRICT

OF HARTFORD

SEPTEMBER 7, 2018

MEMORANDUM OF LAW IN SUPPORT OF DEFENDANT’S MOTION TO DISMISS

The Defendant, Governor Dannel P. Malloy, hereby submits this Memorandum of Law in support of his Motion to Dismiss. For the reasons set forth below, the Court must dismiss this case for lack of jurisdiction because Plaintiff lacks standing, and also because sovereign immunity bars his claims.

BACKGROUND

This action is an effort by a single legislator, State Senator Joe Markley (“Plaintiff”), to impede and enjoin legitimate executive action by Governor Malloy. As alleged in the Complaint, the Executive and Legislative Branches of government recently have been debating whether and how to implement an electronic toll system in Connecticut. Plaintiff alleges that three bills related to that issue were proposed during the last legislative session: H.B. 5391, which would have required the Department of Transportation (“DOT”) to conduct a National Environmental Policy Act (“NEPA”) study regarding electronic tolling; and H.B. 5393 and S.B. 389, both of which would have created quasi-public agencies to construct and implement an electronic toll system in the state. Compl., ¶¶ 4, 6, 8.

The General Assembly failed to vote on all three bills before the legislative session ended, and the bills therefore did not become law. Id., ¶¶ 5, 7, 9. The only relevant upshot of that failure to act is that the legislature did not affirmatively require DOT to conduct a NEPA study related to tolls. However, Plaintiff does not cite any statute or other legal authority that in any way prohibits DOT from conducting a NEPA study, or from taking other preliminary planning steps related to tolls.

As the head of the Executive Branch of government, Governor Malloy of course has independent authority to direct the operations of DOT. The Governor exercised that authority by issuing Executive Order No. 67 (“the Executive Order”), which requires DOT to: (1) “[p]repare a proposal for consideration by the General Assembly” regarding the implementation of electronic tolls in Connecticut; (2) conduct a NEPA study and any other studies required by law before implementing any toll system; and (3) “[e]ngage a program manager and other consultants or experts as needed to prepare a comprehensive plan for electronic tolling for the General Assembly’s consideration.” Id., ¶ 10.

Importantly, nowhere in the Executive Order did the Governor direct DOT to actually implement a toll system in Connecticut. Rather, on its face the Executive Order merely requires DOT to take preliminary planning steps and to prepare a toll proposal “for consideration by the General Assembly.” Id. (emphasis added).

Prior to the Governor's issuance of the Executive Order, the General Assembly passed Public Acts 2017, No. 17-2 ("P.A. 17-2"), excerpts of which are attached hereto as Exhibit A. In relevant part, the Act expressly authorizes the State Bond Commission ("Commission") to issue bonds to pay for various DOT projects. See P.A. 17-2, §§ 421-26. Included in that general bonding authorization is $13,000,000 for the Interstate Highway Program, and $44,000,000 for the Intrastate Highway Program. Id., § 422(a)(1) and (3). The Act does not specify which specific activities within those projects may be bonded. Rather, the Act provides a block bonding authorization for each project, and leaves it to the Commission and DOT (through the Secretary of the Office of Policy and Management ("OPM")) to determine the particular activities that should be bonded.

In response to the Executive Order, the Secretary of OPM utilized the authorizations and procedures provided in the Act and requested bonding on behalf of DOT to carry out the Governor's directives. As reflected in the Minutes from the Commission's meeting on July 25, 2018, which are judicially noticeable, the Commission voted to approve the Secretary's request in the amount of $13,000,000 "[t]o finance the Interstate Highway Program, including tolling studies pursuant to Section 422(a)(1) of [P.A. 17-2 Act]," and in the amount of $12,030,548 "[t]o finance the [Intra]state Highway Program,¹ including tolling studies pursuant to Section 422(a)(3) of [P.A. 17-2 Act]." See Exhibit B at 30-32; Compl., ¶ 15.

¹ Section 422(a)(3) of the P.A. 17-2 authorizes bonding for the Intrastate Highway Program. The reference to the Interstate Highway Program in the second approval for $12,030,548 therefore appears to be a scrivener's error.

Plaintiff—a single State Senator—apparently disagrees with the wisdom of the Executive Order and with the General Assembly’s authorization of bonding to pay for it. He therefore seeks the extraordinary remedy of a temporary and permanent injunction enjoining the Governor and DOT from implementing the Executive Order. In seeking that extraordinary relief, however, Plaintiff does not allege a single fact to demonstrate whether or how he personally has suffered a legally cognizable injury that differs from that of the public generally. Nor has Plaintiff alleged any facts or cited any legal authority to demonstrate that the Governor acted in excess of his statutory or constitutional authority by issuing the Executive Order and seeking legislatively authorized bonding to pay for its implementation. For these reasons, as discussed more fully below, the Court must dismiss this case for lack of standing, and also because sovereign immunity bars Plaintiff’s claims.

ARGUMENT

I. PLAINTIFF LACKS STANDING

Plaintiff cannot invoke the Court’s jurisdiction unless he demonstrates that he has standing to do so. Keller v. Beckenstein, 305 Conn. 523, 535-36 (2012). To establish standing, Plaintiff bears the burden to allege facts demonstrating that he is either statutorily or classically aggrieved, that he satisfies the significantly higher standard for taxpayer standing, or that he has legislative standing as a State Senator. For the reasons discussed below, Plaintiff cannot establish standing under any of those theories.

A. Plaintiff Is Not Statutorily Or Classically Aggrieved

To have standing, litigants typically must demonstrate that they are either statutorily or classically aggrieved. Soracco v. Williams Scotsman, Inc., 292 Conn. 86, 91 (2009). There is no statute by which Plaintiff can claim statutory aggrievement here, so the classical aggrievement analysis governs.

To establish classical aggrievement at the motion to dismiss stage, Plaintiff bears the burden to allege facts demonstrating that: (1) he has “a specific, personal and legal interest in [the challenged action], as distinguished from a general interest, such as is the concern of all members of the community as a whole;” and (2) his own specific and personal interest “has been specially and injuriously affected” by the challenged conduct. Mayer v. Historic Dist. Comm'n of Town of Groton, 325 Conn. 765, 781 (2017). To satisfy those requirements, Plaintiff must demonstrate that the personal interest that allegedly has been injured is “unique” to him, and that it is “different from that suffered by the public at large.” Andross v. Town of W. Hartford, 285 Conn. 309, 324-31 (2008).

Plaintiff has not satisfied either requirement. Indeed, the only purported injuries that Plaintiff identifies in the Complaint are his abstract and conclusory assertions that spending public funds to implement the Executive Order will “impact residents of the state” generally by “increasing government debt service payments,” “reduc[ing] government services,” and “worsening . . . Connecticut’s transportation infrastructure.” Compl., ¶¶ 17-18. Such purported impacts plainly are not enough, for two reasons.

First, Plaintiff has not alleged any facts to demonstrate that the alleged consequences discussed above have in any way impacted or injured Plaintiff personally. Indeed, the fact that the State may incur marginally higher debt service obligations in and of itself will have no direct or tangible impact on Plaintiff at all. Compl., ¶¶ 17-18. And although Plaintiff abstractly suggests that higher debt payments may result in “reduce[d] government services,” he does not even allege what those hypothetical services are, much less that he will be personally impacted by any theoretical reduction in them. Id. Similarly, although Plaintiff suggests that DOT merely conducting a NEPA study and submitting a toll proposal to the General Assembly will by itself somehow impair Connecticut’s transportation infrastructure—a claim that is implausible on its face—he once again does not allege what aspects of the state’s transportation infrastructure conceivably may be impaired, or how any theoretical impairment will impact him personally. Id.

Second, even if Plaintiff had alleged that he personally has been harmed by the impacts that he identifies, he expressly concedes that such injuries are not unique to him and will instead apply equally to “all residents of Connecticut.” Id., ¶ 18 (emphasis added). Whatever interest Plaintiff has in avoiding those purported injuries, therefore, that interest is not sufficient to establish classical aggrievement because it is not “unique” to Plaintiff and “is no greater than that of any resident” who may be concerned about how the expenditure of state funds will “affect the general welfare of the community.” Bell v. Planning & Zoning Comm’n of Town of Westport, 174 Conn. 493, 498-99 (1978); Andross, 285 Conn. at 324-31.

B. Plaintiff Does Not Have Taxpayer Standing

To the extent that Plaintiff may seek to avoid the “uniqueness” requirement discussed above by relying on a theory of general “taxpayer aggrievement,” his task is even harder because taxpayer aggrievement involves “a more stringent standard” than traditional classical aggrievement. West Farms Mall, LLC v. Town of West Hartford, 279 Conn. 1, 14 (2006). Specifically, it is not enough for Plaintiff to allege that his tax dollars “contributed to the challenged project” or that they were used “for an improper purpose.” Id. at 13. Rather, to have taxpayer standing Plaintiff must demonstrate that he either incurred an identifiable tax increase, or that he personally suffered some other “great” and “irreparable” injury as a result of the challenged expenditure. Id. In determining whether Plaintiff has satisfied that more stringent standard, moreover, the Court must take the fiscal context of the entire government program into account, and cannot focus exclusively on the “burdensome part of the program itself, divorced from the larger program of which it is a part” Id. at 13-14.

Plaintiff has not even arguably established taxpayer standing in this case. As discussed above, Plaintiff has not even alleged facts to demonstrate that he personally has been injured at all. And he certainly has not established that he has suffered any personal injuries that are so “great” and “irreparable” that they satisfy the “more stringent standard” that the Supreme Court has required for taxpayer standing. Id. at 14.

C. Plaintiff Does Not Have Legislative Standing

Finally, to the extent that Plaintiff believes he somehow is different than other potential litigants because he happens to be a State Senator, he is not different and cannot establish standing on that basis. Indeed, research does not disclose any case in which a Connecticut court has held that the concept of legislative standing actually exists under state law, much less afforded a legislator standing on that basis. See Nania v. Borges, 41 Conn. Supp. 90, 96-97 (Super. Ct. 1988) (noting that no state court has recognized the doctrine of legislative standing under state law, but holding that legislator lacked standing under that doctrine as it has been interpreted under federal law); Enama v. Weicker, No. CV94-0046563S, 1994 WL 282165 at *7 (Conn. Super. Ct. June 13, 1994) (following Nania).

To the extent that Plaintiff asks this Court to adopt the federal standard for legislative standing, that would not help him. Under federal law, a legislator “may sue only to challenge misconduct or illegality in the legislative process itself.” Nania, 41 Conn. Supp. at 96 (emphasis added). Even if that condition is satisfied, moreover, a legislator cannot establish standing simply by virtue of the fact that he or she is a member of the legislature. Raines v. Byrd, 521 U.S. 811, 821 (1997). Rather, as in all other standing cases, the legislator still must demonstrate that the challenged conduct caused a “personal injury” that is “particularized as to him.” Id. at 818-19 (emphasis in original). For example, such personalized injuries occur when a legislator is singled out and personally excluded from the legislative body with a consequent loss of salary, or when actions taken during the legislative process result in a particular legislator's vote being unlawfully nullified. See id. at 820-23, citing Powell v. McCormack, 395 U.S. 486, 496, 512-14 (1969) and Coleman v. Miller, 307 U.S. 486, 496, 512-14 (1939).

By contrast, individual legislators do not have standing to challenge “institutional injur[ies]” that damage all members of the legislature equally. Id. at 821. The Supreme Court has made clear that such institutional injuries include claims that the conduct at issue caused a “diminution of legislative power.” Id. And in particular, individual legislators lack standing to challenge the Executive Branch's expenditure of public funds in a manner that conflicts with appropriations legislation that the legislature has passed. See id. at 826. Such conduct causes an “abstract dilution of institutional legislative power” that applies equally to all members of the legislative body, and is therefore insufficient to support legislative standing for individual legislators. Id.; see also id. at 826-29 (discussing history of confrontations between the Executive and Legislative Branches of government that are insufficient to confer standing on individual officials).

Applying these principles here, Plaintiff clearly lacks legislative standing. First, the conduct that Plaintiff challenges is by the Executive Branch, and has nothing at all to do with “the legislative process itself.” Nania, 41 Conn. Supp. at 96. Second, Plaintiff does not allege any personal injury that is particularized to him, and instead merely alleges a general diminution in legislative power that affects all members of the General Assembly equally. Raines, 521 U.S. at 818-26. That is not enough to confer legislative standing.

II. SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY BARS PLAINTIFF'S CLAIMS

Even if Plaintiff had standing—which he does not—sovereign immunity nevertheless bars his claims because the legislature expressly has empowered DOT to take the actions contemplated by the Executive Order, and also has authorized bonding to pay for them. Plaintiff therefore cannot invoke any sovereign immunity exception on the ground that the Governor violated the separation of powers or acted in excess of his statutory authority.

The Supreme Court has long recognized that the doctrine of sovereign immunity generally bars suit against the State and its officers. Markley v. Department of Public Utility Control, 301 Conn. 56, 65 (2011). There are only three narrow exceptions to this general rule: (1) when the legislature statutorily waives the State's immunity; (2) when a plaintiff claims a constitutional violation; and (3) when a state official has acted in excess of statutory authority. Columbia Air Servs., Inc. v. Dep't of Transp., 293 Conn. 342, 349 (2009).

Here, the legislature has not statutorily waived the State's immunity, and the only exceptions that conceivably could apply would therefore be the second and third exceptions for alleged constitutional violations and actions in excess of statutory authority. Plaintiff has failed to allege facts to support those exceptions.

To invoke the exception for alleged actions in excess of statutory authority, Plaintiff must demonstrate a “substantial” claim that Governor Malloy engaged in “wrongful conduct to promote an illegal purpose,” and that such conduct was in excess of his statutory authority. Columbia Air Servs., 293 Conn. at 349. Similarly, to invoke the third exception, Plaintiff must “clearly demonstrate” a “substantial claim” that his constitutional rights have been violated. Id. at 350. For both exceptions, moreover, Plaintiff bears the burden to allege specific facts that clearly demonstrate why the exception should apply. Id. “In the absence of a proper factual basis in the complaint to support the applicability of these exceptions, the granting of a motion to dismiss on sovereign immunity grounds is proper.” Id.

Here, Plaintiff alleges that Governor Malloy acted in excess of his statutory authority and in violation of the separation of powers doctrine by issuing the Executive Order and seeking bonding to pay for it. Neither of the sovereign immunity exceptions discussed above applies to those claims for the simple reason that the General Assembly itself expressly has authorized bonding to pay for the exact kind of executive actions contemplated by the Executive Order.

As an initial matter, Plaintiff cannot seriously dispute that, as the head of the Executive Branch of government, the Governor has authority to issue an Executive Order directing DOT to take actions that are authorized by law. To that end, the legislature has bestowed broad powers on DOT to plan for and implement projects related to the state’s interstate and intrastate highways, many of which clearly would cover the NEPA study and toll proposal contemplated by the Executive Order. That includes the power to:

- “coordinate and develop comprehensive, integrated transportation policy and planning;” “coordinate and assist in the development and operation of a modern, safe, efficient and energy-conserving system of highway;” “promote the coordinated and efficient use of all available and future modes of transportation;” “study commuter . . . travel and in cooperation with federal, regional and local agencies and persons . . . formulate and implement plans and programs to improve such travel;” “study means of improving transportation safety and to formulate and implement plans and programs . . . for this purpose;” “prepare pertinent reports;” and “provide for the planning and construction of any capital improvements and the remodeling, alteration, repair or enlargement of any real asset that may be required for the development and operation of a safe, efficient system of highway.” Conn. Gen. Stat. § 13b-4(1)-(4), (6), (10)-(11);

- conduct “[c]omprehensive long-range planning concerning the future transportation needs of the state . . . including but not limited to transportation by highway” Conn. Gen. Stat. § 13b-14;
- “conduct and complete an assessment of the several modes of transportation in the state” and “determine the needs of the state transportation system.” Conn. Gen. Stat. § 13b-16(a);
- “engage in experimental projects relating to any available or future mode of transportation, including but not limited to . . . any means of improving existing transportation facilities and services.” Conn. Gen. Stat. § 13b-16(b); and
- exercise “such additional powers, incidental to the express powers granted [by statute] as may be necessary or proper for the effective performance of [DOT’s] powers and duties.” Conn. Gen. Stat. § 13b-23.

Given all of those statutorily enumerated powers, there simply is no plausible argument that the Governor lacked authority to issue the Executive Order, or that DOT lacks statutory authority to perform the tasks identified therein.

In reality, then, Plaintiff’s dispute is not with the Executive Order itself, but with the use of public funds to pay for it. See Compl., ¶ 12 (challenging “the expenditure of funds for the implementation” the Order); id., ¶¶ 17-18 (complaining about alleged impacts of “state spending multiple millions of dollars”). But there again the Governor did not violate the separation of powers or act in excess of his statutory authority because the legislature expressly has authorized bonding to pay for the actions that the Executive Order requires.

Specifically, in addition to DOT's powers discussed above, the legislature has authorized the Commission to issue bonds to pay for any DOT "projects and uses" that are for any of several statutorily enumerated—and extremely broad—public purposes. Conn. Gen. Stat. § 13b-74(a) Those purposes include, in relevant part: "(1) Planning, . . . construction, . . . and improvement of . . . state highways and bridges; (2) Payment of the state's share of the costs of planning, . . . construction, . . . and improvement of . . . (A) state highways, (B) projects on the interstate highway system, . . . (D) state bridges, . . . ; [and] (4) Planning, . . . construction, . . . and improvement of . . . the highway safety program . . . and other highway safety programs on the state highway system . . ." Conn. Gen. Stat. § 13b-74(b).

By its plain terms, § 13b-74(a) authorizes the Commission to issue bonds for such projects only to the extent that the General Assembly has independently empowered it to do so. To that end, in the most recent state budget the legislature expressly authorized the Commission to issue bonds to pay for the "transportation costs"² associated with various projects that the General Assembly specifically found "to be in furtherance of one or more of the authorized purposes" set forth in § 13b-74(b). P.A. 17-2, § 422. Included in that legislative authorization was ² The term "transportation costs" is defined broadly to include, in relevant part: "(A) any and all capital costs incurred in furtherance of the purposes set forth in subsection (b) of section 13b-74, . . . (D) payment of expenses of administration properly chargeable to the construction or acquisition of programs or projects included in subparagraph (A), including, without limitation, legal, architectural and engineering expenses and fees, and costs of audits, . . . and (F) payment of all other items of expense not elsewhere specified or incurred in connection with a project or program" that is in furtherance of the purposes described in § 13b-74(b). Conn. Gen. Stat. § 13b-75(6).

$13,000,000 for the Interstate Highway Program, and $44,000,000 for the Intrastate Highway Program. Id., § 422(a)(1) and (3). The Act does not specify which activities within those projects may be bonded, and instead leaves that determination to the Commission and DOT (through OPM).

When taken together, the only plausible reading of § 13b-74 and P.A. 17-2 is that the legislature has authorized the Commission to issue bonds in the collective amount of $57,000,000 to pay for DOT's "planning," "improvement," and "construction" activities related to Interstate and Intrastate Highways, and also for other safety projects related to the state highway system. There can be no dispute that developing a comprehensive plan for the effective and safe construction of a tolling system on Connecticut's highways, and conducting a NEPA study before implementing that plan, falls squarely within that legislative authorization.

CONCLUSION

The Court must dismiss this case for lack of jurisdiction.
