Case No.: 16-2155

CLASS ACTION

COMPLAINT FOR INJUNCTIVE AND DECLARATORY RELIEF AND FOR DAMAGES FOR VIOLATIONS OF THE
FOURTH, EIGHTH AND FOURTEENTH
AMENDMENTS TO THE UNITED STATES
CONSTITUTION (42 U.S.C. § 1983)

DEMAND FOR JURY TRIAL

1 Plaintiffs Lyall, Anderson, Burton, Peterson, Jackson, Cooks, Pepper, Farrell and McEvoy
2 ("Plaintiffs"), by and through their attorney, Jason Flores-Williams, bring this action on behalf of 3 themselves and all others similarly situated, against Defendants City of Denver, Hancock, White,
4 Cornejo, Dreyer, Lopez ("Defendants"). Plaintiffs allege the following based upon information
5 and belief, the thorough investigation of counsel, and personal knowledge as to the allegations
6 pertaining to them.

9 10 11 12 NATURE OF THE ACTION 13

- 14 1. Defendants have engaged in a systemic evisceration of thousands of displaced 15 persons' constitutional rights in order to clear the way for new housing and economic 16 development in the Downtown Denver area. While gentrification may have positive 17 benefits for a few, it is not a legal basis for treating this vulnerable class as though
18 their civil rights were non-existent.¹
19
20 2. These violations occurred as part of Defendants' sustained crackdown on the poor 21 and homeless, which has increased with greater ferocity since the enactment of the 22 Denver Unauthorized Camping Ban on May 14, 2012, Denver Municipal Code 23 38.86.2.

30 ¹ The Metro Denver Homeless Initiative, a nonprofit homeless advocacy group that receives funding from U.S.
31 Department of Housing and Urban Development ("HUD"), states that there are 5,467 homeless persons in the 32 Denver County Metro are in 2016, pursuant to HUD's definition of homelessness: "Individuals and families who lack a fixed, regular, and adequate nighttime residence." See 24 CFR Part 91, 582 and 583 for the other three parts of the definition.

- 1 3. This nationally-controversial city ordinance, which was strongly supported by pro-
2 business groups like the Downtown Denver Partnership, led to open season on 3 anyone in Downtown Denver who appeared to be poor and attempting to protect 4 themselves from weather in this city that famously exists above 5,000 feet.
5 “[W]ithout limitation, any tent, tarpaulin, lean-to, sleeping bag, bedroll, blankets, or 6 any form of cover or protection from the elements other than clothing.” Id.
8 4. Denver Municipal Ordinance 38.86.2 sweeps within its coverage many forms of 9 innocent and constitutionally-protected activity, giving law enforcement
10 unconstitutional free rein to make arbitrary and discriminatory determinations 11 regarding implementation of the law and thus who is allowed to be exist in public
12 spaces in Downtown Denver. ²
13
14 5. In the immediate aftermath of this ordinance, Plaintiffs and thousands of similarly-15 situated persons in Downtown Denver were told to “move along” in order to clear the 16 16th Street mall and surrounding areas of people whom Defendants deem as 17 undesirable. ³
18
19 6. The effect and application of the ordinance was that any persons who might appear 20 poor or displaced to Denver Police were now prohibited from existing in the 21 Downtown Denver area. One can hardly imagine more vindictive and 22
23
24
25
26
27
28

29 ² The constitutionality of Denver Municipal Code 38.86.2 is not expressly challenged here. Yet, the overbreadth of 30 this ordinance encourages the arbitrary and unconstitutional policies and practices described herein. Should this 31 Honorable Court determine sua sponte to review the constitutionality of Denver Municipal Code 38.86.2, Plaintiffs 32 would be pleased to submit briefs as to its unconstitutionality.

³ University of Colorado Political Science Professor Tony Robinson’s and Denver Homeless Out Loud’s statistical study regarding the disproportionate impact of Denver Ord. 38.86.2 entitled *The Denver Camping Ban, A Report
From the Street* is cited throughout.

1 unconstitutional treatment than being tired, poor and exhausted and not being allowed 2 to sit down to rest in a public space without being immediately ordered to get up and 3 move. This is a far different greeting than the one that many of our families received
4 when first arriving this country: “Give me your tired, your poor, your huddled masses
5 yearning to breathe free, the wretched refuse of your teeming shore. Send these, the 6 homeless, tempest-tossed to me, I lift my lamp beside the golden door!”

10 7. Plaintiffs and thousands of other Class Members began to move to areas of the city 11 where they felt they would be safe from Defendants’ constant harassment. These 12 areas were near the shelters and services provided by charitable nonprofits such as the 13 Denver Rescue Mission, Samaritan House and the St. Francis Center, which are 14 generally located on Park Avenue and Broadway East of Coors Field.

17 8. Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class slept mainly outside of the shelters as there were no 18 available beds in the shelters. Due to the increased cost of living in Denver, the 19 number of homeless persons have grown significantly while shelter beds and services
20 have remained stagnant. The following chart is from Denver Camping Ban, A Report
21 From the Street.

“Even as the number of Denver’s homeless residents has dramatically grown, the number of emergency shelter beds has been rather stagnant for years. In 1988 there were shelter beds available for 55% of Denver’s homeless population; today emergency shelter beds are available for only about 10% of the homeless population.” Pg. 13, Denver Camping Ban.

9. Using Denver Municipal Code 38.86.2, “The Camping Ban,” and vague encumbrance laws as almost universal justification to clear out undesirables, Defendants now began to systematically detain, cite and arrest Plaintiffs around the homeless shelter areas while seizing and destroying their property in what has sadly come to be known as “The Homeless Sweeps.”⁴

⁴ Defendants have most often used the “Camping Ban” to circumvent 4th Amdt. guarantees against warrantless searches and seizure, but have also used other vague ordinances such as “The Rules Against Minor Encumbrances,” Denver Revised Municipal Code, Sections 2-91, and 49-246 through 49-254. In this case, The Department of Public

10. The “Homeless Sweeps” have been well-documented by the media. Defendants have been on notice for at least a year that their policy and custom of raiding areas where homeless people are trying to survive and intentionally taking and destroying their property violates the federal constitution. Yet, Defendants have only increased the intensity and frequency of the sweeps.

Works has been empowered by the city to freely determine what an encumbrance is and then take possession of it via removal and usually destruction of the item. The use of these ordinances to circumvent fundamental rights is reminiscent of the Jim Crow era in the South where ordinances were used to maintain institutionalized discrimination against African-Americans. Here, the institutionalized discrimination is against the poor and displaced.

- 1 11. The policies, practices and conduct of Defendants, i.e. The Homeless Sweeps have 2 been something out of 1930's Depression Era America where the homeless and 3 displaced have been consistently harassed, detained, arrested, deprived of their rights
4 and property with no concern for substantive and procedural safeguards. One of the 5 main statements repeated over again and again by police officers during these sweeps
6 has been: "If you people would just leave Denver, all of this would stop."
- 8 12. These ongoing sweeps are conducted without notice or with inadequate notice and in 9 a manner that prevents Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class from retrieving their property.
10 Plaintiffs are often ordered to stand by as their belongings are thrown into Defendant
11 Department of Public Works' dump trucks by not only DPW workers, but inmates
12 from county jail. While perhaps not legally cognizable, there is something ugly about 13 using poor people against poor people in this manner, i.e. those caught in mass 14 incarceration to destroy the property of the destitute.
15
- 16 13. A homeless person carries their life with them: their documents, their medicines, their 17 valued mementos and photographs of family and friends that get them through the 18 long nights out on the streets. It is difficult to imagine what it must feel like to be 19 already homeless and suffering, then be forced to watch as everything you own in the 20 world is thrown into a dump truck while you are afforded no means to contest the 21 seizure and destruction of your property.
22
- 23 14. The way in which Defendants have implemented their policies shock the conscience.
24 In a December 15, 2015 sweep, Defendant Police Dep't ordered homeless around the 25 Samaritan House to evacuate the area, but leave their belongings, telling Plaintiffs and 26 Plaintiff Class that if they returned before being told that it was permissible, then they 27
28
29
30
31
32

1 would be arrested. It was a bitterly cold day, less than 10 degrees and snowing.
2 Plaintiffs and member of Plaintiff Class were forced into the cold without their
3 jackets, blankets, any items to keep them warm. When they returned, they were met 4 with the all-too-familiar sight of dump trucks and their property being thrown away
5 like trash. Plaintiff Fredrick Jackson asked a Police Officer: “Why are you doing this 6 to us?” The Officer responded, “You can try to sleep on sidewalks, but you can’t be 7 warm.”
10

11 15. Defendants practices, policies and conduct would have violated the Magna Carta in 12 1215, the prohibition against being disseized without due process of law. Serfs were,
13 at least, allowed to maintain their property. Now, more than 800 years later, property 14 can be seized from the poor and displaced because they are perceived as they are 15 perceived as the vulnerable outcasts and undesirables of our age.
16

18 16. As a matter of contrast, imagine if Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class were corporations.
19 One can barely fathom the litigation that these Courts would be forced to address if 20 one of the lead Plaintiffs were Exxon, Nestle or Monsanto. There was no ex parte
21 hearing regarding the seizure of property. No warrants were provided or shown. No 22 civil forfeiture hearings. No adequate notice or opportunity to be heard. Plaintiffs and 23 Plaintiff Class are often caught in the “jaws of the pincers,” a term used most recently 24 in corporate asset forfeiture defense where the entity is facing parallel criminal and 25 civil liability. See SEC v. Oakford Corp., 181 F.R.D. 269, 270 (S.D.N.Y. 1998).
26
27 When caught in the jaws of the pincers, courts recognize that citizen’s constitutional 28 rights are in an especially perilous position due to the seizure of assets with the need
29 to mount a defense. Here, Defendants often seize and destroy Plaintiffs’ property 30
31
32

1 including records and identification while arresting and taking them to jail, so that 2 Plaintiffs' spend longer time in jail trying to prove who they are because their 3 Driver's license or military identification cards have been seized. They are, like 4 corporate defendants, caught in the jaws of the pincers, save that corporations are 5 afforded many more constitutional safeguards than are the homeless. See line of cases
6 beginning with U.S. v. Monsanto, 491 U.S. 600, 615 (1989) for the due process
7 protections afforded U.S. Corporations re asset forfeiture.
10

11 17. The policies, practices and conduct ratified, approved and implemented by 12 Defendants—actions which continue to present—have resulted in constitutional 13 deprivations, physical and mental harms to Plaintiffs and the thousands of similarly-14 situated displaced in the City of Denver.
15

16 18. Plaintiffs, on behalf of themselves and other similarly-situated displaced persons in 17 the City of Denver, claim that the intentional taking and destruction of their personal 18 property violated the Fourth Amendment ban on unreasonable searches and seizures.
19

21 19. Plaintiffs, on behalf of themselves and other similarly-situated displaced persons in 22 the City of Denver, claim that the taking of their property without hearing, reasonable 23 notice or probable cause, constitutes violation of their federal constitutional right to 24 due process pursuant to the Fourteenth Amendment.
25

26 20. Plaintiffs, on behalf of themselves and other similarly-situated displaced persons in 27 the city of Denver, claim that the outrageous treatment that they have been forced to 28 endure as part of Defendants' policies, practices and conduct violates the Eighth 29 Amendment ban against cruel and unusual punishment.
30
31
32

1 21. Plaintiffs, on behalf of themselves and other similarly-situated displaced persons in 2 the City of Denver, claim that the arbitrary and discriminatory way in which 3 Defendants have enforced city ordinances against them while seizing and destroying 4 their property during sweeps and other interactions violates their right to Equal
5 Protection of the law pursuant to Fourteenth Amendment.

8 22. Plaintiffs, on behalf of themselves and other similarly-situated displaced persons in 9 the City of Denver, seek injunctive relief enjoining Defendants from engaging in the 10 mass-scale, indiscriminate searches and seizures concomitant with the taking and 11 destruction of their property known as “The Homeless Sweeps” as these wide-spread 12 and continuing policies and practices, which have been ratified, approved and 13 implemented by Defendants, violate Plaintiffs’ and Plaintiff Class’ federal 14 constitutional rights pursuant to U.S. Const. Amdts. IV, VIII & XIV.
15
17

18 23. Plaintiffs, on behalf of themselves and other similarly-situated displaced persons in 19 the City of Denver, seek a declaratory judgment stating that the Denver Municipal 20 Code 38.86.2 and other vague ordinances not be used as blanket justification to vitiate
21 the fundamental rights of Plaintiffs and Plaintiffs Class pursuant to the Equal 22 Protection Clause of U.S. Const. Amdt. XIV. City ordinances in 2016 must not be 23 used for discriminatory purpose against vulnerable classes of persons in the same way
24 that ordinances were in the Jim Crow Era of the South.
25
26
27

28 24. Plaintiffs, on behalf of themselves and other similarly-situated displaced persons in 29 the City of Denver, further seek a declaratory judgment that the policies and practices
30 of Defendants as alleged herein are unlawful under the federal constitutional rights 31 enumerated herein.
32

1 25. In addition to their primary claims on behalf of the Class for injunctive and 2 declaratory relief, Plaintiffs seek actual and punitive damages resulting from 3 Defendants' intentional destruction of their personal property as well as the cruel and 4 unusual punishment inflicted upon them in violation of the federal constitution,
5 Amdts, IV, VIII and XIV.

46. The claims set forth hereinafter are brought by Plaintiffs on their own behalf and as representatives of a Class of similarly-situated persons pursuant to Rules 23(a), 23(b)(2) and 23(b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. The Proposed Class consists of all homeless persons in the City of Denver whose personal property has been taken and destroyed—or will be taken and destroyed—by the execution of Defendants’ policies and practices known as “The Homeless Sweeps,” which have deprived thousands of people of life, liberty and property without due process of law.

47. The members of the Class are so numerous that individual joinder of all members is impracticable. Referring to the aforementioned statistics compiled in The Denver Camping Ban and the Metro Denver Homeless Initiative in conjunction with Housing and Urban Development (HUD), members of the proposed class are in the thousands.

48. Along with satisfying the numerosity requirement, this action is properly brought as a class action because: (a) The disposition of Plaintiffs’ and proposed Class Members’ claims in a class action will provide substantial benefits to both parties and the Court, allowing the Court (and Defendants) to address a systemic issue in one class action, rather than having to address hundreds if not thousands of related civil rights actions in the next several years; to wit: this is exactly the type of large-scale constitutional claim that falls perfectly within the ambit of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b)(2), allowing the Court to address a constitutional issue while providing access to justice to displaced and vulnerable people who would not otherwise be able to avail

1 themselves of the judicial system; (b) The proposed Class is ascertainable and there is 2 a well-defined community of interest in the questions of law or fact alleged herein
3 since the rights of each proposed Class Member were infringed or violated in the 4 same fashion; (c) There are questions of law and fact common to the proposed Class
5 which predominate over any questions that may affect particular Class Members.
6 Such common questions of law and fact include but are not limited to: (i) Whether 7 Defendants' policies, practices and conduct of taking and destroying the personal 8 property of homeless people, without providing either adequate notice or the 9 opportunity to retrieve personal possessions before they are destroyed, and without a
10 legitimate governmental interest, violated and continues to violate the Class
11 Members' federal constitutional rights against unreasonable search and seizure; (ii)
12 Whether Defendants' policies, practices and conduct of taking and destroying the 13 personal property of homeless people, without providing either adequate notice or the 14 opportunity to retrieve personal possessions before they are destroyed, violated and 15 continues to violate the Class Members' due process rights under the United States 16 Constitution; (iii) Whether Defendants' conduct of taking and destroying the 17 personal property of homeless people, without providing either adequate notice or the 18 opportunity to retrieve personal possessions before they were destroyed, and without 19 a reasonable basis or legitimate governmental interest, violated and continues to 20 violate Class Members' rights of Equal Protection; (iv) Whether injunctive relief
21 restraining further unconstitutional and unlawful acts by Defendants should be 22 ordered by the Court and, if so, the nature of that injunctive relief; (v) Whether 23 Plaintiff and Plaintiff Class Members are entitled to declaratory judgment,

1 compensatory and punitive damages, and attorney's fees and expenses; (d) Plaintiffs'
2 claims are typical of the claims of the members of the proposed Class. Plaintiffs and 3 Class Members have been injured by the same wrongful policies, practices and 4 conduct of Defendants. Plaintiff's claims arise from the same practices and conduct
5 that give rise to the claims of all Class Members and are based on the same legal 6 theories; (e) Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the Class in 7 that they have no interests antagonistic to those of the other Class Members, and 8 Plaintiffs have retained an attorney familiar with the social and constitutional issues 9 facing this Class and experienced in complex litigation; (f) A class action is 10 preferable and superior to other available methods for the fair and efficient
11 adjudication of this controversy for the following reasons: (i) As the primary relief
12 sought is injunctive in nature, the burden and expense make in impractical for class 13 members to seek redress individually for the wrongs done to them. The nature and 14 amount of monetary damages sustained by each Class Member is similar in nature
15 and may be established by common proof. Individual litigation by each class member 16 would substantially burden the operation of the judicial system; (ii) This action will 17 promote an orderly and expeditious administration and adjudication of the proposed 18 Class claims, economies of time, effort and resources will be fostered and uniformity
19 of decisions will be insured; (iii) Without a class action, Class Members will continue 20 to suffer damages, and Defendants' violations of law will proceed without remedy;
21 and (iv) Plaintiffs know of no difficulty that will be encountered in the management 22 of this litigation which would or should preclude class certification.

1 49. The potential class fits perfectly within the purview of Federal Rule of Procedure
 2 23(b)(2), where courts focus on the Defendants’ conduct and actions and determine
 3 whether they need to be enjoined. In contrast to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure
 4 23(b)(3), the focus of the court’s inquiry is not on how each individual class member 5 is affected by Defendant’s conduct, but on the legality and unconstitutionality of the 6 Defendants’ conduct itself.⁶ It is designed for civil rights cases such as this where a 7 disenfranchised class of persons are the victims of systemic abuses conducted under 8 the color of law.
 10
 11

12 50. The rights at stake are fundamental. Without class action certification, the proposed 13 Class will have no access to justice regarding the unconstitutional conduct that is 14 occurring on the very doorstep of this Honorable Court.

18 COMMON FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS
 19

 21 51. Approximately 5,500 of Denver’s 700,000 residents are homeless, according to the 22 Metro Denver Homeless Initiative, a nonprofit homeless advocacy group that receives 23 funding from U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. As rents have 24 risen and the number of displaced have increased, shelter beds have remained 25 stagnant. Supra. It seems ridiculous to have to repeat, but prejudice prevails:
 26 homelessness is not a choice, but a terrible societal condition that afflicts the poor, the 32 ⁶A Motion to Certify a 23(b)(2) Class along with supplemental authority, will, of course, follow this complaint.

1 lower-working class, the mentally ill, the physically ill, those people who have fallen 2 through the cracks of our society because they did not have a safety net to stop their 3 fall. Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class are working people who have suffered financial loss
4 and could not recover from it. They got sick, lost their jobs, couldn't pay their 5 medical bills and now live on the streets. Rather than help them get back on their feet,
6 Defendants have singled out Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class and selectively over-7 enforced ordinances against them as a way to clear the city of "undesirables" for 8 purposes of economic development.

10
11
12 52. For more than two years, Defendants have engaged in an ongoing and continuing 13 policy and practice of raids on those Denver residents who are unsheltered, in which 14 Defendants take and destroy the personal property of Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class 15 without concern for due process or the right to be free of unreasonable searches and 16 seizures. Defendants have conducted their policies in a manner that can only be 17 described as cruel. The middle of Winter, a foot of snow on the ground, bitter cold, 18 raiding areas where they knew displaced persons were simply trying to rest and exist 19 in peace and forcing them out, alone, into the coldest night. There have been 20 instances where female potential Class Members' have been forced by Defendants to 21 go so far out from the familiarity of Downtown that they end up sleeping in 22 dangerous areas where they have been raped. In other times, potential Class Members 23 have been harassed by Defendants into unknown areas where they were beaten and 24 even killed. These sweeps that have been ratified and implemented by Defendants not 25 only violate Plaintiffs' rights, but our concept of a just society.

1 53. On July 13, 2016, eighty members of the Plaintiff Class were seeking safety together 2 away from the constant harassment that has come to be life for the displaced since the 3 passing of the “Camping Ban.” A group doing nothing but trying to rest amongst 4 people that they know, in a safe community, sheltering themselves next to the Platte
5 River, who were unnecessarily confronted by Defendant Denver Police, told to move 6 or be arrested, forced to leave their belongings that they never saw again nor had the 7 opportunity to retrieve. Defendants seized and destroyed property included cherished
8 personal items, jewelry, clothing, jackets and identification. Thirty-six of these 9 homeless people were cited with violation of city ordinances, so that they were caught 10 in the aforementioned “jaws of the pincers,” both criminally charged and facing civil 11 forfeiture, yet without the due process and procedural safeguards normally afforded in 12 the civil forfeiture context. See 18 U.S.C. § 983. Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class were 13 forced away with no place to go. No services. No shelters. No notice given by 14 Defendants prior to the taking and seizure of their property.

15 54. Defendant’s taking and destruction of property was foreseeable as Defendants had 16 performed it on numerous prior occasions. The sweeps had become a custom of the 17 City of Denver.⁷

28 ⁷ See Monell v. Dep’t of Social Services, 436 U.S. 658 (1978), for a discussion concerning municipal liability, 29 custom and adopted policy. Plaintiffs would argue that the consistency, orchestration and complexity of the 30 homeless sweeps establish municipal liability for purposes of Monell. See also City of Canton v. Harris, 489 U.S.
31 378 (1989), where Hon. S. Ct. Justice O’ Connor held, in a concurring opinion, that municipal liability is established 32 when municipalities show a willful disinterest in city actions and conduct that it knows to be possibly unconstitutional. As stated, the sweeps have been covered extensively in media. Defendant City of Denver has been on notice.

1 55. These mass sweeps were Plaintiff and Plaintiff Class’s rights civil rights have been 2 eviscerated have been going on for about a year.⁸ On October 24th, 2015, numerous
3 officers of the Denver Police Department descended on the area around 2500
4 Lawrence St. where about 35 displaced persons including Plaintiffs Lyall and Burton, 5 had come together in a park that was, upon information and belief, owned by the 6 Denver Housing Authority, a city agency.

9 56. Defendants interrogated and detained these Plaintiffs, conducted approximately 10
10 arrests, seized and destroyed personal property belonging to these Plaintiffs without 11 providing notice or the required procedural safeguards as to how this property could 12 be retrieved. Property included military records, identification, blankets, clothing and 13 a wheelchair—all taken and indiscriminately thrown into city dump trucks. No 14 legitimate or lawful basis existed for this wholesale confiscation and destruction of 15 the personal property of these Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class. None of these actions
16 were authorized by a warrant. In many cases, the property the Defendants have taken 17 and destroyed represents substantially all the possessions of these homeless men and 18 women.

30 ⁸ Since the enactment of the “Camping Ban,” there have been innumerable instances of unreasonable searches of 31 homeless persons and seizure of their property by Defendants. But for purposes of these Common Alleged Facts, we 32 are focusing on instances of mass sweeps where more than 10 Denver Police, workers at the Dep’t of Public Works and, sadly, inmates at the local county jail, are sent in by the City of Denver to seize the possessions of Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class without regard for their rights.

57. In a subsequent sweep on December 15, 2015 that can only be described as brutal and inhumane, Defendants similarly raided the area around Park and Lawrence Streets where Plaintiffs had come to stay due to the lack of beds at the Denver rescue and other missions. Despite the fact that it was 10 degrees and snowing, Defendants seized and destroyed Plaintiffs' property and forced Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class out into the cold with none of their belongings.⁹

⁹ This sweep was documented here: <http://www.westword.com/news/homeless-denver-police-officers-threw-away-posessions-without-warning-7443603>.

1 58. In an admission, The Mayor's Chief of Staff, Defendant Evan Dryer, stated: "Yes, we 2 need to change the procedure for how people's stuff is taken." But the sweeps
3 continued. In fact, Defendant Dreyer and the Mayor's Office pushed for more sweeps
4 as is evidenced by emails released to Westword on April 7, 2016.¹⁰

7 59. On March 8-9, 2016, there was another sweep across from Samaritan House located
8 2301 Lawrence St. in Denver. There were no adequate prior posting informing 9 Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class of the coming sweeps and intended deprivations of their 10 property.¹¹ Defendants moved in and without lawful basis seized blankets and 11 personal belongings, cell phones and items essential to survival. Many of the 12 Plaintiffs, including 65-year old Plaintiff Pepper, lost everything they owned.

15 60. As recently as the week of August 20th, 2016, there was another sweep down the 16 Platte River where many of the victims of the prior sweeps had fled to where they 17 thought they were safe from the policies, practices and conduct of Defendants. Again
18 personal belongings were seized and destroyed. People were forced to flee. No
19 warrant was shown pursuant to the requirements of the Fourth Amendment. No fair 20 process was given pursuant to due process of the Fourteenth Amendment. There were 21 no procedural or substantive safeguards for the maintenance and protection of their 22 property, which as a constitutional issue is independent of any other analysis. The 23 government is not permitted to seize and convert citizens' property without affording

32 Constitutional Rights by putting up a sign saying: "If you are here tomorrow at 10 a.m., we are going to violate your constitutional rights."

1 citizens notice and opportunity to challenge the deprivation. Matthews v. Eldridge,
2 424 U.S 319 (1976).

4 61. Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class have never renounced rights to their property. Plaintiffs
5 and Plaintiff Class have never signed waivers of their property interests. Upon 6 information and belief, there have been no administrative hearings regarding the 7 forfeiture of Plaintiffs' property. The State has not claimed that the property was 8 derived from an illegitimate source of income or the product of any crimes. Property 9 was seized and destroyed without a criminal conviction.
10

12 62. Nuisance Abatement, another ordinance that has been used by Defendants to justify 13 the taking and destruction of citizen's property, has, upon information and belief, not 14 been cited by Defendants as justification with regard to the seizures described herein.
15

16 63. The Homeless Sweeps are exactly as described. Sweeps of homeless persons and their 17 property in a systemic criminalization and targeting of the poor and dispossessed in 18 the downtown area that tracks perfectly with the development of Downtown
19 Denver.¹²
20

21
22 64. Plaintiff Raymond Lyall is a construction worker who, like millions of Americans, 23 has fallen upon hard times. Mr. Lyall has been homeless for the last 3.5 years, 24 working when he can—he suffers from a disability, three crushed vertebrae—trying 25 to rebuild his life. Unfortunately, Defendants have made that process infinitely more 26 difficult in unlawfully seizing his property on numerous occasions. On October 24,

1 2015, as part of the Defendants’ sweeps at 2500 Lawrence St.—a parcel then owned
2 by Denver Housing Authority—Plaintiff Lyall’s and other Plaintiff Class Members’ 3 property were seized and thrown into city dump trucks without notice or means of 4 retrieval. Defendants provided no opportunity for hearing or challenging the 5 forfeiture. In insisting that his and other Plaintiffs’ rights were being violated, Mr.
6 Lyall was arrested by DPD during this sweep and spent 22 hours in jail. Two months
7 later, while doing laundry in the vicinity of 2500 Lawrence, Mr. Lyall was detained
8 without cause by the Defendant Police Department. While being detained in a squad
9 car, Defendant Police Department seized his wallet, the key to his bike lock—a 10 bicycle that he depended on for transportation—and the only money he had that day
11 for food, which was $2.85. Defendant Denver Police again refused to inform Mr.
12 Lyall where he could retrieve his property. He was never arrested. Plaintiff Lyall has 13 since been actively involved in bringing light to the consistent harassment and 14 constitutional deprivations being inflicted upon Plaintiff Class and as such is a well-15 suited lead plaintiff in this cause.

22 65. Plaintiff Garry “Styx” Anderson’s personal property has been confiscated and 23 destroyed by Defendants in a manner that has prevented him from working and 24 reclaiming shelter. On March 8, 2016, as part of the “Denver Rescue Mission 25 Sweeps,” Defendants illegally seized and destroyed, without notice, the entirety of 26 Mr. Anderson’s personal belonging including his tent, his sleeping bag and the tools 27 that he used for wood working. All of these items were indiscriminately thrown into 28 Dep’t of Public Works dump trucks without making any effort to ascertain that they 29 were trash. Mr. Anderson is known as “Styx” for his ability as a woodworker. When Defendants took his tools, they took his only means of making a living and earning enough money to get back into a home. He was given no notice and no opportunity to retrieve these items.

66. Plaintiff Thomas Peterson, a disabled veteran, has had everything taken from him by Defendants. At the March 8, 2016 sweep at 2500 Lawrence St., Defendants took Mr. Peterson’s wheelchair, his military records, his identification and photographs of his family. He was forced to stand and watch as his and others’ belongings were thrown away like garbage into city trucks. These were military records detailing his service to the country. Mr. Peterson was given no notice or means for retrieval of his property.

67. Plaintiff William Pepper is a 65-year old black man originally from Alabama, a state where the struggle against systemic civil rights violations are a dark part of American history. At the March 9, 2016 sweeps across from Samaritan House, Defendants illegally seized and destroyed three suitcases of Plaintiff Pepper’s clothes—all of his clothes—his cell phone and his IPOD with his favorite music. Plaintiff Pepper and Plaintiff Class were given no means for retrieving their belongings. Below a photo of Defendant Denver Police Department arriving to execute this sweep.

68. Plaintiff Brian Cooks is a young African-American gay male who goes by the name of “Lady B,” who like many young persons of color in the gay community is suffering from homelessness. Plaintiff Cook has been the victim of numerous sweeps affecting Plaintiff Class. As part of the Park Avenue and Lawrence Sweeps that occurred through Summer 2015, his possessions were seized and destroyed without notice or a means of retrieval. As part of Defendants’ continued sweeps of the Platte River area and Confluence Park, on April 4, 2016, Defendants seized his blankets and sleeping bag. When he complained, he was arrested.

69. Plaintiff Jerry Roderick Burton was an accountant before he became homeless in August of 2015. Defendants have seized and destroyed his property without due process on numerous occasions including the aforementioned March 9, 2016 sweep

1 and as recently as last week, Thursday, August 18, 2016 where Defendant Denver
2 Police Department detained him without cause and seized his personal belongings
3 without providing notice or means by which he could retrieve them.

5 70. Plaintiff Fredrick Jackson, a Denver native, has had his property seized and destroyed
6 by Defendants on numerous occasions. On December 15th, the day in which the 7 homeless were forced to be in sub-ten degree freezing cold without their belongings,
8 Plaintiff Jackson and other class member were told by police to go inside Samaritan
9 House, but to leave their belongings on the sidewalk. If they in any way disobeyed,
10 they would be arrested. When Plaintiff Jackson and other class members returned,
11 they saw Department of Public Works' dump trucks full with their belongings.
12 Plaintiff Jackson and others were not informed with regard how they could retrieve
13 their property. Upon information and belief, it was destroyed.
14
15
16
17

18 71. Plaintiff Christopher Farrell and his long-time partner, Krystal McEvoy have been 19 homeless for more than five years, yet like many homeless couples have struggled to 20 remain together on the streets. Since the passing of the "Camping Ban" ordinance, 21 Defendants have illegally seized numerous belongings from them including their 22 laptop computer, cell phone, identification, mental health medication. These seizures 23 have been random and conducted without regard for the rights of these Plaintiffs and 24 the Plaintiff Class. When Plaintiffs Farrell and McElvoy asked where they could 25 retrieve the medicine, they were told by police officers that "[T]hey took them to the 26 dump and threw it away." Upon information and belief, this event took place around 27 the first of June 2016 along the Cherry Creek pathway.
28

1 72. Finally, there are members of the proposed Plaintiff Class that are invisible. Often 2 afflicted by severe mental illness, they are the people who we ignore and even step
3 over as we go about our lives. These members of the potential Plaintiff Class are 4 incapable of accessing justice on their own. They don't have addresses, phones, 5 places where they can be reached on an even inconsistent basis. Yet, they, too, have 6 suffered from the policies, practices and conduct resulting in the deprivations
7 described herein. These nameless people aren't mentioned very often, so there is a 8 duty to mention them here. They, insofar as applicable, are members of this proposed 9 Class pursuant to Federal Rule 23(b)(2). One hopes that an injunction and declaratory
10 relief in this matter enjoining the conduct of Defendants will somehow, in some small 11 way, serve to bring some dignity to their difficult lives.

18 REQUISITES FOR RELIEF

20
21 73. Defendants' policies, actions and conduct have resulted and will result in irreparable 22 injury to Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class. Defendants have made it plain by their actions, 23 the ongoing nature of their activities, and their public statements that they intend to 24 continue the unlawful conduct described above. Defendant City of Denver has a 25 policy and practice of confiscating and destroying the personal property of Plaintiffs 26 and members of the Plaintiff Class without legal basis and the remaining Defendants 27 have and will continue to participate in implementing this policy and practice unless 28 and until restrained by an injunctive decree of this Court. The acts of Defendants as 29 alleged above constitute violations of established constitutional rights of Plaintiffs 30
31
32

1 and the Plaintiff Class, and Defendants could not reasonably have thought that their 2 conduct in intentionally seizing and destroying all of Plaintiffs' personal property as 3 alleged herein was consistent with Plaintiffs' constitutional rights.

5 74. An actual controversy exists between Plaintiffs and Defendants in that Defendants 6 have engaged in the unlawful and unconstitutional conduct as alleged herein and 7 intend to continue this unlawful conduct as an ongoing practice and policy of the City
8 of Denver whereas Plaintiffs claim that these practices are unlawful and
10 of Denver whereas Plaintiffs claim that these practices are unlawful and 11 unconstitutional and therefore seek a declaration of rights with respect to this 12 controversy.
13

14 75. As a direct and proximate result of the unconstitutional and unlawful policies, 15 practices and conduct of Defendants, Plaintiffs and members of Plaintiff Class have 16 suffered, and will continue to suffer damages, including but not limited to the 17 deprivation of rights and the destruction of property, including clothing, bedding, 18 medication, personal documents and other priceless personal possession, leaving 19 them without their essential belongings necessary for shelter, health, well-being and 20 personal dignity.
21
22

23 76. The acts of Defendants were and are willful, wanton, malicious, and oppressive and 24 done with conscious disregard and deliberate indifference for Plaintiffs and their 25 rights.¹³
26
27

28
29
30 ¹³ One of the cruelest aspects of Defendants' policies, practices and conduct was to use donations meant to help the 31 homeless to fund the sweeps and constitutional deprivations that victimized the homeless. Defendants used more 32 than $60,000 in donations meant to help the homeless to instead violate their rights. See CBS Denver 4 June 30, 2016 report: City Used Homeless Donations To Assist With Homeless Sweep. See also, Letter From ACLU to Defendants Mayor Hancock and Chief of Staff Dreyer regarding the aforementioned wrongful use of funds as well

1 77. Plaintiffs have consistently appealed to Defendants to stop, or at least review, these 2 unconstitutional practices, only to be ignored or dismissed at every turn. The issues
3 complained of herein have been well-publicized so that Defendants have been noticed 4 of the illegal and unconstitutional policies, actions and conduct. Key instances of 5 trying to work and negotiate with Defendants regarding the Homeless Sweeps
6 include: (a) In May 2013, presentation of the Camping Ban Report with results of 7 surveying over 500 homeless people about the effect of the “Camping Ban” to the 8 Mayor's homeless commission and a city council committee with specific 9 recommendations and a request to start an ad hoc committee to work on the issue to 10 bring the city in compliance with the law. Defendants refused; (b) Plaintiffs Lyall, 11 Burton and others sent six formal email requests to meet with the Mayor regarding 12 the problems described herein, two hand delivered, and countless phone calls. The 13 Mayor has refused to meet with them; (c) Plaintiffs Lyall, Burton and others have sent 14 Defendant Mayor and members of the Denver city council numerous video interviews
15 of Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class describing the property seized from them. Though 16 repeatedly noticed of Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class’ loss of property and constitutional 17 deprivations, no named Defendants or city official at any agency ever officially 18 responded.

32 be bothered by people who are homeless is not sufficient to justify denial of basic rights and dignity...” *ACLU
Letter to Mayor*, Pg. 2.

1 78. Despite Plaintiffs' consistent best efforts to have their city address these matters,
2 Defendants' unconstitutional policies, practices and conduct have only increased in 3 their intensity so that Plaintiffs and Plaintiff Class now turn to this Honorable Court 4 for redress under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b), which requires that "[T]he 5 party opposing the class has acted or refused to act on grounds that apply generally to 6 the class so that final injunctive relief or corresponding declaratory relief is 7 appropriate respecting the class as a whole." Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b). Injunctive and 8 declaratory relief will address these deprivations, making this matter appropriate for 9 class certification pursuant to R. 23(b)(2). See also, Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v. Dukes,
10 131 S.Ct.2541 at 2551 (2011.) where the "classwide proceeding [will] generate

In adopting and implementing these policies and practices with the intent to harm and disadvantage homeless persons in the City of Denver, the Defendants have violated the Equal Protection Clause of the United States Constitution and 42 U.S.C. § 1983.
