SUMMARY:

On 09/09/19, I, Special Agent (SA) Brian Cardwell, while working for the California Department of Justice (DOJ), Bureau of Investigation (BI), Special Investigation Team (SIT) Sacramento Regional Office (SRO), participated in a conference call with Deputy Attorney General (DAG) Johnette Jauron, Doe 12, and Doe 12's attorney, regarding threats and or disparaging comments sent to Doe 12's business via the telephone and StemExpress' website, after her testimony on 09/05/19. Doe 12 also informed me she was harassed on the freeway while driving home from San Francisco and was informed by a neighbor that an unidentified vehicle was parked near the entrance of their driveway late at night.

DETAILS OF THE INVESTIGATION:

On 09/09/19, I, Special Agent (SA) Brian Cardwell, while working for the California Department of Justice (DOJ), Bureau of Investigation (BI), Special Investigation Team (SIT) Sacramento Regional Office (SRO), participated in a conference call with Deputy Attorney General (DAG) Johnette Jauron, Doe 12, and Doe 12's attorney, regarding threats and or disparaging comments sent to Doe 12's business via the telephone and StemExpress' website, after her testimony on 09/05/19.

On 09/09/19, Doe 12 stated on 09/05/19, after testifying, she was driving home eastbound on highway 80, in the middle lane, past the Carquinez Bridge near Vacaville, when a white female adult in a black KIA 4 door sedan pulled up next to her vehicle on the passenger side. Doe 12 stated the unidentified female made three to four jerking movements with her steering wheel in what appeared to be an attempt to hit Doe 12's vehicle. Doe 12 stated the unidentified female's car had to cross into her lane three to four feet as she swerved out of the way. Doe 12 stated the female appeared to be irate and recording her via her cellphone. Doe 12 stated the female pulled in front of her, slammed on her breaks causing Doe 12 to slam on her breaks stopping the flow of traffic for at least 30 seconds. Doe 12 stated the female was looking back toward her with her cellphone pointed towards Doe 12 in a manner that appeared to be recording her. Doe 12 said the female was screaming and waving her hands around in a crazy manner. Doe 12 said the female sped off and Doe 12 continued her travel home.

Doe 12 also informed me her next-door neighbor observed a vehicle near the entrance of their property/driveway late at night on three occasions last week. I spoke to the neighbor via telephone, (RP), and inquired about the vehicle. RP stated after returning home from vacation, RP noticed on three occasions last week, a vehicle at the top of RP's long driveway on the main road. RP stated the area is rural with no streetlights and a vehicle on the main road near the driveway is suspicious. RP stated the vehicle would drive by slowly then stop. RP stated she believed the vehicle parked near a locked gate on the main road. RP stated on one occasion, she turned on all of the exterior lights to the residence and the vehicle drove off. RP stated they observed an interior vehicle light turn on and believed the vehicle to be a truck. RP stated they thought their residence was possibly being cased for theft then realized Doe 12 had testified that week.

Doe 12 also provided me various screen shots of comments made via StemExpress' webchat. I have affixed the comments to this report as attachment 33-1.

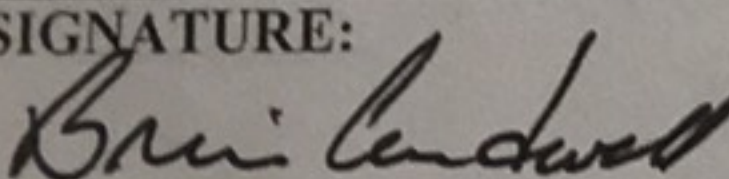

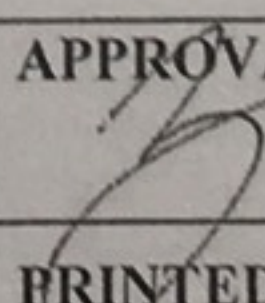

Doe 12 also provided me with a Life Site News link to an article with the heading "StemExpress CEO admits selling beating baby hearts, intact baby heads in Daleiden hearing." This statement is false and further increases security risk to Doe 12. I have affixed a copy of the article to this report as attachment 33-2.

This investigation remains closed.

StemExpress CEO admits selling beating baby hearts, intact baby heads in Daleiden hearing

SAN FRANCISCO, September 6, 2019 (LifeSiteNews) — The CEO of StemExpress essentially admitted in court Thursday that her biotech company supplies beating fetal hearts and intact fetal heads to medical researchers.

She also admitted at the preliminary hearing of David Daleiden and Sandra Merritt of the Center for Medical Progress that the baby's head could be procured attached to the baby's body or "could be torn away."

“That is an especially gruesome admission, but it begs the question: how did they get these fully intact human children?” says Peter Breen of the Thomas More Society, which is representing Daleiden at the hearing.

“If you have a fetus with an intact head and an intact body, and intact extremities, that is something that would indicate that child was born alive, and then had their organs cut out of them, or that that child was the victim of an illegal partial-birth abortion,” he told LifeSiteNews.

“Both of these are gruesome and violent acts.”

CMP’s Daleiden and Merritt are charged with 15 felony counts of illegal taping of confidential information in connection with undercover videos they released in 2015 after a three-year covert investigation into the buying and selling of baby body parts, which is a felony.

The covertly recorded videos exposed StemExpress as the go-to in California for Planned Parenthood’s trafficking in baby body parts, and the biotech company cut its ties with Planned Parenthood shortly after these were released.

CMP’s legal team is arguing in the preliminary hearing that the law does not consider conversations that can be overheard confidential and that covert recording is allowed when done to investigate violent crimes.

On Thursday, the court saw video clips of the StemExpress CEO, identified as Doe 12, meeting in May 2015 with Daleiden and Merritt, who were posing as owners of a biotech company.

Doe 12 says in the video there’s a great demand for “raw fetal tissue,” and that the “insanely fragile” neural or brain tissue is best shipped in a “whole calvarium,” or head, whereupon Daleiden says, “Just make sure the eyes are closed.”

“Yeah,” laughs Doe 12, “Tell the lab techs its coming...it’s almost like they don’t want to know what it is.”

Doe 12 was far less forthcoming in her testimony Thursday, as Breen noted.

“One thing we’ve observed throughout these proceedings is that these witnesses were much more candid when they spoke to David and Susan on the undercover video than they are on the stand,” he told LifeSiteNews.

“However, we have been able to establish certain facts that are important through their testimony, and when they deviate from the video, we’ve been able to use the video to show that they’re not telling the truth on the stand,” Breen said.

“That’s important to show that the attorney general is using witnesses who are willing to stretch the truth, and our side is exposing that truth.”

Breen told the court that StemExpress was mentioned in connection with Stanford University studies where Langendorff perfusion was used, a technique that “requires a beating heart.”

“Does StemExpress supply fetal hearts to Stanford?” he asked Doe 12.

She hesitated to answer because, she said, “there’s so much targeting of researchers.”

However, Judge Christopher Hite told her the question was relevant.

“Yes, we have provided heart tissue to Stanford,” Doe 12 said.

She also admitted that CMP photos are accurate and that sometimes a baby’s intact calvarium is attached to the baby’s body and sometimes it is not.

In another key exchange, Doe 12 testified that her company requests that parties sign a nondisclosure agreement or NDA before discussing business.

But while Doe 12 met with Daleiden and Merritt in late May, the NDA for the meeting was signed in late June, according to an email from StemExpress to CMP that Breen produced in court.

Nor was Doe 12 able to produce evidence the NDA had been sent to Daleiden and Merritt before the meeting.

“After talking about how important a NDA is, the only evidence in the record is that the NDA was not sent out until a month after this supposedly highly confidential meeting,” Breen told LifeSiteNews.

“So that was a really significant point. That’s why there was so much argument on it,” he said.

“At the same time, the statute is clear: if there is a reasonable expectation that the conversation can be overheard, then it doesn’t count as a confidential conversation,” he said.

“So our contention is, if you’re sitting there at a restaurant with wait staff around you and coming and going as they please, you can be overheard, that’s a clear exception to the statute.”

Breen also quizzed Doe 12 about the Planned Parenthood consent form that StemExpress used in 2015.

Former StemExpress technician Holly O’Donnell supplied the PP consent form to CMP. She also is featured in two CMP videos describing in graphic detail the process of sorting through dismembered arms and legs of aborted babies.

The form states there will be no changes to the abortion procedure because of the decision to donate blood or fetal tissue.

When Doe 12 said she couldn’t recall what the form said, Breen played for the court “a portion of the video tape where she bragged about memorizing the [PP consent] form down to the control numbers,” he told LifeSiteNews.

Doe 12 also told the court she couldn't recall what the current StemExpress consent form stipulates.

"She wouldn't admit that patients are not told their abortion procedures could be changed, but we know it to be true," Breen told LifeSiteNews.

"So we're using the videos to be able to show these people are not being straight with the court," he said.

"And so you shouldn't believe them with anything they're saying."

The hearing resumes Tuesday, and Doe 12 returns next week to complete her testimony.
