STATUS CONFERENCE STATEMENT OF THE OFFICIAL COMMITTEE OF TORT CLAIMANTS

Date: September 24, 2019
Time: 9:30 a.m. (Pacific Time)
Place: United States Bankruptcy Court
Courtroom 17, 16th Floor
San Francisco, CA 94102

1 The Official Committee of Tort Claimants (“TCC”) in the chapter 11 cases of PG&E
2 Corporation (“Holdco”) and Pacific Gas and Electric Company (the “Utility,” and collectively with 3 Holdco, the “Debtors”), hereby submits its Status Conference Statement in connection with the 4 Status Conference currently scheduled for September 24, 2019, at 9:30 a.m., in the above-captioned
5 court (the “Bankruptcy Court”), and respectfully represents as follows:

6 A. The Debtors’ Progress Toward a Confirmable Plan is Illusory.

7 The Debtors’ bankruptcy cases (the “Bankruptcy Cases” or “Cases”) are not about 8 restructuring business debts. The Debtors’ statements from the commencement of the Bankruptcy 9 Cases have indicated that the purpose of the proceedings is to address tort claims arising from the 10 2017 and 2018 wildfires. Their actions in the Cases are consistent with the statements. Under the 11 Joint Chapter 11 Plan of Reorganization filed by the Debtors on September 9, 2019 (“Plan”), claims 12 other than claims arising from wildfires are unimpaired. The Debtors also have announced that 13 they do not intend to reject power purchase agreements (“PPAs”) notwithstanding the disputes
14 before the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (“FERC”) and this Court.

15 So, the measure of progress toward confirmation of a plan must be evaluated by the Debtors’
16 progress toward treatment of tort claims. Here, the Debtors have relied on smoke and mirrors 17 instead of meaningful progress.

18 B. Public Entity Settlement Provides Disparate Treatment of Similarly Situated
19 Tort Claimants.

20 First, the Debtors announced to the Court and the media their settlement with public entities 21 (the “PE Settlement”) for $1 billion. As it turns out, however, the public entities included in the 22 settlement are based on the happenstance of having been represented by the Stutzman firm and its 23 co-counsel. The settlement includes 18 public entities. It does not include many, many other 24 similarly situated public entities. For example, the TCC has been informed that both the Paradise 25 Irrigation District and the Paradise School District that sustained losses in the Camp Fire have 26 substantial claims (upwards of $100 million) that were not included in the $1 billion settlement.

1 There are many other local public entities that were not included in the PE settlement.¹ For the 2 Debtors to have announced a “public entity” settlement is disingenuous.

3 Also, the Debtors openly recognize that substantial claims may be asserted by the State of 4 California (Cal Fire remediation costs and other claims) and the United States (FEMA claims and 5 other claims), that collectively may be in the billions of dollars, are not included in the announced
6 PE Settlement.

7 The Debtors’ apparent treatment all these public entity claims that they have not resolved
8 under the Plan is to include them in a class with fire victims and channeled to a resolution trust.
9 This proposed treatment has the effect of diluting the funds available to pay victims. The disparity
10 between the Stutzman settling parties and the other public entities makes it impossible to determine 11 whether those parties will receive comparable compensation for their losses.

12 C. The Settlement with Subrogation Claimants Violates the Absolute Priority
13 Rule.

14 The Debtors recently announced a settlement with the holders of subrogation claims 15 (“Subrogation Claimants”) in the aggregate amount of $11 billion (“Subrogation Claims”), 16 subject to Bankruptcy Court approval. The Debtors propose to allow these Subrogation Claims
17 and liquidate the claims. Under the Plan as described in the Debtors’ press release, the Subrogation 18 Claimants will receive on the effective date $11 billion in cash.

19 The problem with the Subrogation Claimants’ settlement is that the treatment under the Plan 20 violates the absolute priority rule. Subrogation is an equitable doctrine that permits an insurer to 21 assert the rights and remedies of an insured against a third-party tortfeasor. Chandler v. State Farm
22 Mut. Auto Ins. Co., 598 F.3d 1115, 1117 (9th Cir. 2010). The Subrogation Claims are derivative
23 of the claims of wildfire victims. When the insurers paid policy benefits to their insureds, they 24 acquired the right (whether by contract provision or equity) to pursue recovery of the subrogated
25 claims against the Debtors.

26 ¹ The PE settlement includes an arbitrary twist. The Debtors contest liability for losses in connection with the Tubbs 27 fire in Santa Rosa, California. However, under the settlement the settling North Bay public entities may “share” 28 settlement proceeds with Santa Rosa even though it is not officially entitled to settlement proceeds. In this way, the Debtors hope to eliminate a challenge from Santa Rosa, while still contesting liability for the Tubbs fire with victims.
This sleight of hand is typical of the Debtors’ arbitrary handling of similarly situated claimants.

1 The insurers' right of subrogation is subject to a common law exception. The "made whole"
2 doctrine "precludes an insurer from recovering any third-party funds unless and until the insured
3 has been made whole for the loss." Chandler, 598 F.3d at 1117.² "The applicability of the doctrine 4 generally depends on whether the insured has been completely compensated for all the elements of 5 damages, not merely those for which the insurer has indemnified the insured." Id. at 1118. The 6 doctrine is implicated in these Bankruptcy Cases in the following way: Wildfire victims suffered 7 two types of losses—property damages based on their homes or businesses being completely or 8 partially destroyed, and personal injury claims based on the trauma of fleeing wildfires bearing
9 down on their homes or businesses and dealing with the aftermath of mass disasters the Debtors 10 inflicted on their communities. Property damages are covered by insurance; personal injuries, such 11 as emotional distress and physical injury are not.

12 What this means is that most if not all wildfire victims who fled from fires have uninsured
13 emotional distress damages claims against the Debtors, even if they received insurance payments
14 under their policies. Therefore, the made-whole doctrine subordinates most if not all Subrogation 15 Claims to the claims of wildfire victims who have not been made whole for all their losses in the 16 Bankruptcy Cases. The Subrogation Claims may not be allowed and treated on equal priority with 17 victim claims under the Plan without violating the absolute priority rule of Bankruptcy Code section 18 1129(b).

19 The Debtors hope to circumvent the consequence of this well-established equitable 20 doctrine. What they are counting on is that hundreds if not thousands of insured victims will not 21 file any claims in the Bankruptcy Cases, even claims based on their emotional distress and personal 22 injuries. If these victims do not file claims, the corresponding subrogation claim of the insurer 23 would not be subject to bar under the made-whole rule because the victim is not asserting his or her 24 own uninsured claim against the tortfeasor. Therefore, the Debtors are hoping for a low number of 25 claims being filed, or low "participation." If there are enough victims who received insurance 26

27 ² California recognizes two exceptions to the applicability of the made-whole rule, neither of which is applicable in 28 these Bankruptcy Cases. First, the insured may disclaim the made whole rule through clear and specific language in the insurance policy. Second, the rule does not apply if the insurer participates in the prosecution of the insured's claim against the third-party tortfeasor. Chandler, 598 F.3d at 1118.

1 payments for some or all of their insured losses who do not file claims in the Bankruptcy Case, the 2 Debtors hope to elevate the Subrogation Claims to equal priority with the victim claims without 3 violating the absolute priority rule.

4 D. Misconceptions as to the Right to File Uninsured Claims May Have Adversely
5 Affected the Claims Solicitation Process.

6 The TCC has uncovered a misconception among insured wildfire victims that may have 7 enormous due process implications for claims allowance and made-whole if the misconception
8 proves to be widespread. Here is the issue: We know the wildfire losses affected tens of thousands 9 of people, and the losses are extremely high. This is shown by the settlement of Subrogation Claims 10 at $11 billion. Prime Clerk's claims noticing program included, among other notices, mailings to 11 16 million customers. Yet, only a handful of wildfire claims—under 1,500—have been filed to 12 date.³

13 Based on sampling of interviews of a few victims in wildfire-affected areas, the TCC has 14 preliminarily concluded that victims who received insurance benefits may believe that they are not 15 permitted to file claims against the Debtors because they received payments from their insurance 16 companies. The TCC fears that hundreds if not thousands of victims who hold valid uninsured and 17 underinsured claims are not asserting the claims against the Debtors based on the belief, however 18 mistaken, that they would be violating their insurance policies and the terms of the payment of their 19 benefits. Once the Subrogation Claims settlement is filed, the names of insureds will be publicly 20 available. At that point the TCC will conduct more comprehensive discovery of insurers and 21 insureds to find out whether victims are confused and believe that they are prohibited from filing
22 emotional distress claims because they received insurance payments. Until the TCC has more 23 information concerning the discrepancy between the dollar amount of Subrogation Claims and what 24 should be concomitant underinsured or uninsured claims against the Debtors, it must assume that 25 the made-whole rule applies to subordinate the entire amount of settled Subrogation Claims.

28 ³ The TCC is not suggesting that victims who retained lawyers to prosecute their claims against the Debtors hold this misconception.

1 Therefore, the Plan as currently proposed does not comply with Section 1129 of the Bankruptcy
2 Code and may not be confirmed.

3 The TCC, by raising these preliminary issues in this Status Conference Statement, is not 4 waiving, and shall not be construed to have waived, other objections to the Debtors' proposed Plan, 5 all of which are expressly reserved.
