ALLEGATIONS COMMON TO ALL CAUSES OF ACTION

COVID-19

- 13. COVID-19 is an infectious respiratory disease caused by the SARS-CoV-2 virus.
- 14. The virus is highly contagious. Transmission of SARS-CoV-2 primarily occurs by way of respiratory droplets in coughs and sneezes of infected persons in close proximity to others and via contaminated surfaces.
 - 15. There is presently no vaccine available for the prevention of COVID-19 in humans.
 - 16. The incubation period for COVID-19 can range anywhere from 2-14 days.
- 17. Common symptoms of the virus include cough, fever, shortness of breath, chills, muscle aches, headache, sore throat, and new loss of taste or smell. Symptoms vary in severity and, in certain instances, can lead to hospitalization and death.
- 18. Due to the highly contagious nature of this virus, the risk of developing severe and potentially fatal symptoms, and the lack of vaccine, experts recommend that individuals prevent the spread of the virus by utilizing hand sanitizers and soaps, utilizing personal protective equipment ("PPE") when in close proximity to others, and maintaining a minimum of 6 feet of physical distance between themselves and others.

It is halioused that the views originated in A

- 19. It is believed that the virus originated in Asia in late 2019.
- 20. In January 2020, the first cases of COVID-19 in the United States were reported, with the first recorded case of community-spread virus transmission in the United States occurring on January 30, 2020.

Timeline of Events

- 21. On that same day, January 30, 2020, the World Health Organization declared this novel coronavirus outbreak a "public health emergency of international concern."
- 22. On March 4, 2020, California Governor Gavin Newsom declared a State of Emergency due to the global COVID-19 outbreak.
- 23. On March 9, 2020, the U.S. Department of Labor Occupational Safety and Health Administration released a publication titled "Guidance on Preparing Workplaces for COVID-19." This detailed document explained that SARS-CoV-2 "has the potential to cause extensive outbreaks" in workplaces and provided employers with basic steps they should take to reduce the risk of employee exposure to SARS-CoV-2. These steps included:
 - Develop an Infectious Disease Preparedness and Response Plan
 - Prepare to Implement Basic Infection Prevention Measures, including:
 - Maintaining regular housekeeping practices, including routine cleaning and disinfecting of surfaces, equipment, and other elements of the work environment
 - Develop Policies and Procedures for Prompt Identification and Isolation of Sick People, if Appropriate
 - Develop, Implement, and Communicate about Workplace Flexibilities and Protections
 - Implement Workplace Controls
 - Administrative Controls, including: Encouraging sick workers to stay home; minimizing contact between workers; alternating days or extra shifts that reduce the total number of employees in a facility at a given time, allowing them to maintain distance from one another while maintaining a full onsite work week; Developing emergency communications plans, including a forum for answering workers' concerns and internet-based communications, if feasible; Providing workers with up-to-date education and training on COVID-19 risk factors and protective behaviors (e.g., cough etiquette and care of PPE).
 - Personal Protective Equipment (PPE) Controls, including: Employers are obligated to provide their workers with PPE needed to keep them safe while performing their jobs. The types of PPE required during a COVID-19 outbreak will be based on the risk of being infected with SARS-CoV-2.

- Follow Existing OSHA Standards
- 24. On March 11, 2020, due to "alarming levels of spread and severity," the World Health Organization made the assessment that COVID-19 can be characterized as a pandemic.
- 25. In guidance issued by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration on March 17, 2020, the topic of workers in food processing and distribution facilities is directly addressed:

"If an employee is confirmed to have COVID-19, employers should inform fellow employees of their possible exposure to COVID-19 in the workplace."

"While the primary responsibility in this instance is to take appropriate actions to protect other workers and people who might have come in contact with the ill employee, facilities should re-double their cleaning and sanitation efforts to control any risks that might be associated with workers who are ill regardless of the type of virus or bacteria. For example, facilities are required to maintain clean and sanitized facilities and food contact surfaces."

26. On March 20, 2020, Defendants posted a "Team Talk" sign titled "Coronavirus Risk: Fact vs. Fiction" at the Distribution Center. This sign specifically informed workers that PPE such as masks and gloves were not recommended for use by employees at the Distribution Center, contrary to the guidance and advice issued by federal and state authorities.

- 27. In March 2020, workers at the Distribution Center began to fall ill with COVID-19. These employees were mandated to continue working not only regular shifts, but also additional shifts (6 days per week, rather than 4 or 5) with longer hours (16 hours per day).
- 28. By mid-March 2020, employees at the Distribution Center, including Pedro, began complaining to their supervisors about the dangerous working conditions and their fears associated with the same. These complaints were met by Defendants with threats of retaliatory disciplinary action, including the potential for accruing 'points' which could lead to termination.
- 29. On April 1, 2020, after experiencing a fever and other symptoms, Decedent received a COVID-19 test, which came back positive a few days later. He was admitted to the hospital on April 4, 2020 with pneumonia and symptoms including coughing, trembling, and fever. On April 5, 2020, he was transferred to the Intensive Care Unit, where he was intubated and placed in a medically induced coma, and on April 13, 2020, he succumbed to the disease.
- 30. On approximately April 17, 2020, a SAFEWAY spokesperson confirmed that at least 51 employees at the Distribution Center had tested positive for COVID-19. This figure represented 3% of the approximately 1,700 employees at the Distribution Center.
- 31. It was not until after Pedro's death that Defendants began to change their tune with respect to safety measures at the Distribution Center a woefully delayed move that can best be described as "too little, too late." In fact, these modest changes—consisting of the rearranging of break rooms and the placement of one hand sanitizer stand (which was often left empty for hours) for a department with over 100 employees on shift at any given time—continued to leave Defendants' employees particularly exposed and vulnerable to this virus.
- 32. In response to public outcry surrounding Pedro's death and the mounting number of COVID-positive employees at the Distribution Center, Governor Newsom directed his remarks during a press conference to workers like Pedro, stating: "You are not disposable. You are essential." Unfortunately for Decedent and his family, Defendants did not share this sentiment.

Pedro Zuniga

- 33. Pedro Zuniga was a happily married 52-year-old man, devoted to his wife, NORMA, and their five children, Jose, Adilene, Marisol, Alicia, and Junior. He was a man of deep faith and loved traveling, soccer, and spending time with his three grandchildren.
- 34. For approximately 22 years, Decedent was employed by Defendants as a loyal, material handler in the produce department at the Distribution Center.
- 35. On April 13, 2020, Pedro died in the Intensive Care Unit at Memorial Medical Center in Modesto, California, of cardiopulmonary arrest and hypoxic respiratory failure caused by COVID-19.
- 36. Pedro's death was the tragic and preventable result of Defendants' failure to follow federal guidelines, state guidelines, and common sense in order to provide for their Distribution Center workers' health and safety. Defendants instead prioritized their own greed over the physical health and survival of their employees.

FIRST CAUSE OF ACTION

(Negligence – As Against All Defendants)

- 37. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges, as if fully set forth herein, each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1-36 above, and further alleges:
- 38. Defendants, and each of them, had a duty to: ensure that their facility operations were conducted and managed in such a manner so as to safeguard the safety and well-being of their employees, including Decedent; comply with Federal and State OSHA guidelines; comply with U.S. Food and Drug Administration guidelines; implement an Infection Disease Preparedness and Response Plan; develop and implement policies and procedures designed to prevent an outbreak from occurring at the Distribution Center, including policies and procedures to: screen workers upon arrival at the facility each day, send exposed and potentially exposed workers home, maintain physical distance between workers, provide appropriate PPE for workers, create disinfectant stations throughout the facility; maintain housekeeping practices, including frequent cleaning and disinfecting of surfaces, equipment, and other elements of the work environment; provide workers with up-to-date education and training on COVID-19 risk factors and protective behaviors; respond appropriately to workers' complaints and concerns regarding exposure and/or potential exposure to the virus; not spread or disseminate false or misleading information about the transmission, prospective exposure to, or contraction of the virus, including false or misleading statements or information about the utilization of PPE; send workers who were obviously exhibiting known signs and symptoms of COVID-19 home; not retaliate or threaten disciplinary action against workers who were concerned that they were demonstrating signs and symptoms of COVID-19; not threaten or take any adverse employment action against employees due to attendance issues or concerns about their working environment in light of the COVID-19 pandemic; and develop and maintain an adequate prophylactic infrastructure after the outbreak occurred. It was reasonably foreseeable that if Defendants breached their duty of care owed to Decedent, Decedent could sustain injuries and damages, including death.

- 39. Defendants, and each of them, breached their duty of care owed to Decedent by:
 - a. Negligently failing to ensure that their facility operations were conducted and managed in such a manner so as to safeguard the safety and well-being of their employees, including Decedent;
 - b. Failing to comply with Federal and State OSHA guidelines;
 - c. Failing to comply with U.S. Food and Drug Administration guidelines;

It was reasonably foreseeable that if Defendants breached their duty of care owed to Decedent, Decedent could sustain injuries and damages, including death.

 p. Threatening and/or taking adverse employment actions against employees due to attendance issues or concerns about their working environment in light of the COVID-19 pandemic.

In these negligent actions and inactions, Defendants exceeded the inherent risk associated with Decedent's job.

- 48. Defendants knew of the high risk of viral transmission and contraction of COVID-19 by workers, including Decedent, at the Distribution Center. Despite having this knowledge, as the pandemic unfolded, Defendants forced employees, including Decedent, to work even more shifts with longer hours without taking any measures to ensure safe workplace conditions.
- 49. Defendants' conduct in continuing to send their workers, including Decedent, into a dangerous and hazardous workplace without any protective measures in place in the midst of this pandemic, despite having knowledge of specific guidelines from state and federal agencies, demonstrates an intentional failure to do what reasonably careful companies would do under the circumstances, exhibits a willful and conscious disregard for the safety of Decedent and his fellow workers, and evidences reckless indifference by Defendants, which constitutes gross negligence.
- 50. The negligence, gross negligence, recklessness, carelessness, and other wrongdoing of Defendants, and each of them, was a direct and proximate cause of Decedent's injuries and ultimate death on or about April 13, 2020. THIRD CAUSE OF ACTION

- 55. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges, as if fully set forth herein, each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1-54 above, and further alleges:
- 56. Section 5 of the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 sets forth the basic duties owed by an employer to its employees:
 - (a) Each employer

FIFTH CAUSE OF ACTION

(Fraudulent Concealment of Injury (California Labor Code § 3602(b)(2)) – As Against All Defendants)

- 73. Plaintiff repeats and re-alleges, as if fully set forth herein, each and every allegation contained in paragraphs 1-72 above, and further alleges:
- 74. Decedent was injured on the job at the Distribution Center when he was exposed to and contracted COVID-19 in approximately March 2020.
- 75. By virtue of the fact that employees were exhibiting recognized signs and symptoms of infection while at the Distribution Center, Defendants knew that there was an outbreak at the Distribution Center and that many of their employees, including Decedent, had suffered job related injuries in the form of COVID-19 exposure, contraction and infections. Moreover, Decedent's superiors at the Distribution Center had knowledge that Pedro had been exposed to and contracted COVID-19 from his coworker in close proximity.
- 76. Despite having this knowledge, Defendants concealed the knowledge of the COVID-19 outbreak at the Distribution Center from their employees, including Decedent. In addition, despite their knowledge that Pedro had been exposed to and contracted COVID-19 from his coworker in close proximity, and dispute having a duty to inform him of the same, Defendants concealed their knowledge of Pedro's injury, who was not aware of his injury at all times relevant hereto.
- 77. Decedent's injury was made worse by Defendants' concealment, including Decedent experiencing a delay in being diagnosed and treated for the virus, which then eventually resulted in his death on April 13, 2020 after a hospitalization that included several days in the Intensive Care Unit.
- 78. The negligence, gross negligence, recklessness, carelessness, and other wrongdoing of Defendants, and each of them, was a direct and proximate cause of Decedent's injuries and ultimately his death on or about April 13, 2020. The harm, injuries, and damages caused by Defendants, and each of them, including Decedent's predeath wage loss and medical bills for treatment of COVID-19, survive the death of the Decedent.

- 79. As a direct and proximate result of the negligence, gross negligence, recklessness, carelessness, and other wrongdoing of Defendants, and each of them, and the resulting death of Decedent, Plaintiff has been, and will continue to be, deprived of her husband's love, companionship, society, comfort, care, attention, guidance, support, future financial dependence on Decedent, other future financial contributions, future gifts, services, and other (non-economic) damages in a sum in excess of the jurisdictional minimum of this Court, in an amount allowable by law, according to proof.
- 80. As a further direct, legal, and proximate result of the negligence, gross negligence, carelessness, recklessness, and wrongdoing of Defendants, and each of them, and the resulting death of Decedent, Plaintiff has incurred funeral, cremation and/or burial, and other related expenses in a sum according to proof.
- 81. Said conduct as herein alleged was undertaken by, authorized, approved of, and ratified by managing agents of Defendants, and was done knowingly and willfully, and further was malicious and oppressive in conscious disregard of Decedent's rights and safety, subjecting Decedent to cruel and unjust hardship. As such, Decedent's legal successor-in-interest is entitled to punitive or exemplary damages given that this claim survives his death.
 - 82. WHEREFORE, Plaintiff prays for judgment for damages as hereinafter set forth.

- 85. As a further direct, legal, and proximate result of the negligence, gross negligence, carelessness, recklessness, and wrongdoing of Defendants, and each of them, and the resulting death of Decedent, Plaintiff has been, and will continue to be deprived of her husband's love, companionship, society, comfort, care, affection, society, moral support, sexual relations, attention, presence, guidance, future financial dependence on Decedent, other future financial contributions, future gifts, support, and other (non-economic) damages in a sum in excess of the jurisdictional minimum of this Court, in an amount allowable by law, according to proof.
