UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

CHRISTOPHER VATAJ,
Plaintiff,
v.
WILLIAM D. JOHNSON, et al.,
Defendants.

Case No. 19-cv-06996-HSG

ORDER GRANTING MOTION FOR FINAL APPROVAL AND GRANTING MOTION FOR ATTORNEYS’ FEES AND COSTS

Re: Dkt. Nos. 116, 118

Pending before the Court are Plaintiffs’ motions for final approval of class action settlement and for attorneys’ fees, costs, and incentive award. Dkt. Nos. 116, 118. The Court held a final fairness hearing on September 16, 2021. For the reasons detailed below, the Court GRANTS final approval. The Court also GRANTS Plaintiffs’ motion for attorneys’ fees, costs, and incentive awards.

I. BACKGROUND

A. Factual Background

Plaintiffs bring this securities class action against Defendants PG&E Corporation and certain of its officers and directors<sup>1</sup> regarding representations that Defendants made about PG&E’s safety protocols following PG&E’s bankruptcy and in the wake of several California wildfires caused by PG&E equipment. See generally Dkt. No. 58 (“FAC”). Plaintiffs seek to represent a class defined as “all persons and entities who purchased or otherwise acquired PG&E securities” on the New York Stock Exchange between December 13, 2018, and October 28, 2019. See id. at

2 Plaintiffs allege that following the devastating California wildfires between 2015 and 3 2018, PG&E initiated three measures in an effort to reduce the risk of future wildfires: 4 (1) temporary power shutoffs when high winds and low humidity made wildfires particularly 5 likely (what Plaintiffs refer to as “de-energization”); (2) visual inspections of all of its poles 6 located in high fire threat areas; and (3) inspection for and removal of vegetation overhanging or 7 abutting its power lines. See id. at ¶¶ 2, 7–9. The complaint further alleges that Defendants, 8 individual officers at PG&E, made materially false and misleading statements regarding the scope 9 of and protection offered by these safety measure. Id. at ¶¶ 17, 53–54, 69–142. In particular, 10 Plaintiffs allege that Defendants failed to disclose that: (i) PG&E’s new wildfire prevention and 11 safety protocols were inadequate and missed dangerous conditions; and (ii) PG&E was unprepared 12 for the rolling power outages. See id. at ¶¶ 10–12, 69–72, 109–10, 127–34, 236–38, 252, 263–64.

13 According to the complaint, the truth about Defendants’ safety measures was revealed after 14 PG&E mishandled rolling power outages in September and October 2019. See, e.g., id. at ¶ 2.
15 Plaintiffs contend that PG&E cut power to millions of Californians for extended periods while 16 providing little notice and insufficient information to stakeholders to prepare in advance. Id.
17 Plaintiffs explain that PG&E’s de-energizations drew intense criticisms from California’s elected 18 representatives. See id. at ¶¶ 149–153. In addition, the California Public Utilities Commission 19 launched an investigation into the de-energizations. See id. at ¶¶ 67, 155–60. As a result, PG&E’s 20 stock prices fell. See, e.g., id. at ¶¶ 273–326.

21 Based on these allegations, Plaintiffs assert causes of action for violations of Sections 22 10(b) and 20(a) of the Securities and Exchange Act on 1934, and Rule 10b-5, 15 U.S.C. §§ 78j(b), 23 78b-1, 78t(a). See id. at ¶¶ 337–51.

24 B. Procedural History

25 On February 3, 2020, the Court granted the parties’ stipulation to appoint (1) Iron Workers 26 Funds and Robert Allustiarti as Co-Lead Plaintiffs and (2) Pomerantz LLP and The Rosen Law
27 Firm, P.A. as co-lead counsel. See Dkt. No. 48. Plaintiffs then filed an amended class action 28 complaint on April 17, 2020. See FAC. The individual Defendants moved to dismiss the 1 amended complaint. See Dkt. No. 59. Before briefing was complete, however, the parties

 2 mediated this action before the Hon. Layn R. Phillips (ret.) on April 23, 2020. See Dkt. No. 88-1 3 at 6. Although the parties did not reach a settlement that day, they continued discussions with the 4 mediator’s assistance. Id.

5 After the parties exchanged numerous offers and counteroffers, the mediator proposed that 6 the parties settle the claims asserted in this action for $10 million. Id. The parties accepted the 7 mediator’s proposal, and filed a notice that they had reached a settlement in principle. See Dkt.
 8 No. 73. The parties then worked to finalize the settlement. Following the hearing on the motion 9 for preliminary approval, and in response to the Court’s concerns about the scope of the release, 10 the parties filed a supplemental brief in support of their motion, which included revised language.
 11 See Dkt. No. 103 at 1–5. With these changes, the Court granted the motion for preliminary 12 approval. See Dkt. No. 107.

13 C. Settlement Agreement

14 With the assistance of a mediator, the parties entered into a settlement agreement, fully 15 executed on March 9, 2021. Dkt. No. 98 (“SA”). The key terms are as follows:

16 Class Definition: The Settlement Class is defined as:

17 All persons and entities who purchased the common stock of PG&E 18 on the New York Stock Exchange between December 13, 2018, and October 28, 2019, both dates inclusive.

19 SA Sec. A, ¶ 47.

20 Settlement Benefits: Defendant agreed to make a $10 million non-reversionary payment.
 21 Id. Sec. A, ¶¶ 1, 46. The gross Settlement Fund also includes Court-approved attorneys’ fees and 22 costs, settlement administration fees, any additional payment to Plaintiffs as class representative, 23 and payments to class members. SA Sec. A, ¶ 34. The cash payments to the class will be based 24 on a “recognized loss formula” for each share of PG&E common stock, which will account for 25 factors including when the PG&E common stock was purchased or otherwise acquired during the 26 class period; the amount of stock acquired; and whether such stock was sold, and if so, the timing 27 and proceeds of the sales. Id. at Sec. A, ¶ 39; id. at Sec. D, ¶¶ 1–2; see also Dkt. No. 98 at 38–39 28 (“Proposed Plan of Allocation”). Each class member must submit a Proof of Claim to the 1 settlement administrator to be eligible for a payment from the Settlement Fund. See SA at Sec. A, 2 ¶¶ 22, 41; see also id. at Sec. D, ¶¶ 3–8; see also Dkt. No. 80-4, Ex. A-3 (“Proof of Claim and 3 Release” form).

4 Cy Pres Distribution: Following the final approval hearing, it came to the Court’s 5 attention that the parties’ proposed cy pres recipient, the Investor Justice Clinic at the University 6 of San Francisco School of Law, is currently “on pause” due to lack of funding. The parties
 7 therefore propose the Investor Justice and Education Clinic (“IJEC”) at the Howard University 8 School of Law in Washington D.C. as an alternate cy pres recipient.<sup>2</sup> Dkt. No. 136. Plaintiffs 9 further confirmed with the IJEC’s supervising attorney that the clinic is operational. See id. at 1, 10 n.2. The parties submitted a revised stipulation and agreement of settlement, reflecting this 11 change. See Dkt. No. 136-1, Ex. 1.

12 If six months after the initial distribution of funds any funds remain in the Settlement Fund 13 by reason of uncashed checks or otherwise, such funds shall be re-distributed to class members 14 who have cashed their checks and who would receive at least $20 from such re-distribution. Id. at 15 Sec. D, ¶ 12. If any funds still remain in the Settlement Fund six months after such re-distribution, 16 then the balance will be contributed to the IJEC. See id.

17 Release: Under the settlement agreement, all class members will release:

18 [A]ny and all claims, including Unknown Claims, damages, actions, 19 obligations, attorneys’ fees, indemnities, subrogations, duties, 20 demands, controversies, and liabilities of every nature, at law or in 21 equity (including, without limitation, claims under federal and state 22 securities laws, and at common law), suspected or unsuspected, 23 accrued or unaccrued, matured or unmatured, whether arising out of 24 or relating to the period prior to or after the date of the Initial 25 Complaint that any Releasing Persons in their capacity as a 26 shareholder of PG&E (a) asserted in the Initial Complaint, the 27 Complaint, or the Action; or (b) could have been asserted in any 28 forum that arise out of, are based upon, or are related in any way directly or indirectly, in whole or in part, to the allegations, transactions, facts, matters or occurrences, representations or omissions involved, set forth, or referred to in the Initial Complaint,

26 _____
 27 <sup>2</sup> The Court finds that that there is a sufficient nexus between this alternative cy pres recipient and 28 the Settlement Class. The IJEC represents clients in securities cases against securities broker-dealers and provides investor education and outreach programs for underserved investing communities. See Dkt. 136 at 2. The Court finds that the IJEC shares the interests of the class members in preventing securities fraud and promoting investor education and protection.

1 the Complaint, or the Action and that relate to the purchase, 2 acquisition, sale, disposition or holding of PG&E common stock during the Class Period.

3 See Dkt. No. 103 at 1. The Settlement class members further agree to waive:

5 [A]ny and all provisions, rights, and benefits conferred by any law of 6 any state or territory of the United States, or principle of common law that is similar, comparable, or equivalent to Cal. Civ. Code § 1542, which provides:

7 A GENERAL RELEASE DOES NOT EXTEND TO 8 CLAIMS WHICH THE CREDITOR OR RELEASING 9 PARTY DOES NOT KNOW OR SUSPECT TO EXIST IN 10 HIS OR HER FAVOR AT THE TIME OF EXECUTING
THE RELEASE, WHICH IF KNOWN BY HIM OR HER
MUST HAVE MATERIALLY AFFECTED HIS OR HER SETTLEMENT WITH THE DEBTOR.

11 SA at ¶ 52. Following the preliminary approval hearing, the parties filed a stipulation, further 12 clarifying the limits of this release. Dkt. No. 120. The parties' stipulation reads as follows:

14 For the avoidance of doubt, claims that "relate to the . . . holding of 15 PG&E common stock during the Class Period" are those in which a 16 Releasing Person purchased PG&E common stock prior to the Class 17 Period but claims, alleges, or otherwise contends that it or they were 18 induced to hold the PG&E common stock due to alleged 19 misrepresentations and/or omissions made during the Class Period.
Nothing in the Settlement Agreement, including but not limited to the Release contained therein, releases, dismisses, or in any way impairs any claims arising from the purchase or acquisition of PG&E securities before the Settlement Class Period based on alleged misrepresentations and/or omissions made before the alleged Settlement Class Period.

21 Id. at 3. As this stipulation makes clear, and the parties confirmed during the final fairness 22 hearing, this clarification does not broaden the scope of the release. It is not intended to change 23 the release, but if it has any effect, it is only to narrow the scope of the release to class members' 24 benefit.

25 Class Notice: A third-party settlement administrator will mail class notices within fourteen 26 days of the Court's order granting preliminary approval to all class members who can be identified 27 with reasonable effort by the Claims Administrator, advising them of the Settlement and of the 28 availability of documentation on the settlement website. See Dkt. No. 88-1, Ex. 1 ("Schachter Decl.”) at ¶¶ 5–6; see also Dkt. No. 88-1 at 19. The settlement administrator will also publish a summary notice via a newswire with national distribution, within 21 days of the Court’s order granting preliminary approval. See Schachter Decl. at ¶¶ 8–9; see also Dkt. No. 88-1 at 19. And finally, the settlement administrator will post the key case and settlement materials on the following website: [www.pge securities settlement.com](http://www.pge securities settlement.com). See Schachter Decl. at ¶ 7, 11.

Incentive Award: The named Plaintiffs may apply for an incentive award of no more than $5,000. See Dkt. No. 88-1 at 16.

Attorneys’ Fees and Costs: Class Counsel will file an application for attorneys’ fees not to exceed 25% of the gross settlement fund, or $2.5 million, as well as costs not to exceed $100,000. SA at Sec. H, ¶¶ 1–5.

II. ANALYSIS

A. Final Settlement Approval

i. Class Certification

Final approval of a class action settlement requires, as a threshold matter, an assessment of whether the class satisfies the requirements of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a) and (b). Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d 1011, 1019–1022 (9th Cir. 1998). Because no facts that would affect these requirements have changed since the Court preliminarily approved the class on April 20, 2021, this order incorporates by reference the Court’s prior analysis under Rules 23(a) and (b) as set forth in the order granting preliminary approval. See Dkt. No. 107 at 6–11.

ii. The Settlement

“The claims, issues, or defenses of a certified class may be settled . . . only with the court’s approval.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e). The Court may finally approve a class settlement “only after a hearing and on finding that it is fair, reasonable, and adequate.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(2); Officers for Justice v. Civil Serv. Comm’n of the City and County of San Francisco, 688 F.2d 615, 625 (9th Cir. 1982) (“The district court’s role in evaluating a proposed settlement must be tailored to fulfill the objectives outlined above. In other words, the court’s intrusion upon what is otherwise a private consensual agreement negotiated between the parties to a lawsuit must be limited to the extent necessary to reach a reasoned judgment that the agreement is not the product of fraud or

1 overreaching by, or collusion between, the negotiating parties . . .”). To assess whether a 2 proposed settlement comports with Rule 23(e), the Court “may consider some or all” of the 3 following factors: (1) the strength of plaintiff’s case; (2) the risk, expense, complexity, and likely 4 duration of further litigation; (3) the risk of maintaining class action status throughout the trial; 5 (4) the amount offered in settlement; (5) the extent of discovery completed, and the stage of the 6 proceedings; (6) the experience and views of counsel; (7) the presence of a governmental 7 participant; and (8) the reaction of the class members to the proposed settlement. Rodriguez v.
 8 West Publ’g Corp., 563 F.3d 948, 963 (9th Cir. 2009); see also Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1026. “The 9 relative degree of importance to be attached to any particular factor” is case specific. Officers for 10 Justice, 688 F.2d at 625.

11 In addition, “[a]dequate notice is critical to court approval of a class settlement under Rule 12 23(e).” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1025. As discussed below, the Court finds that the proposed 13 settlement is fair, adequate, and reasonable, and that class members received adequate notice.

14 a. Adequacy of Notice

15 Under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(e), the Court “must direct notice in a reasonable 16 manner to all class members who would be bound by the proposal.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(1).
 17 Rule 23(c)(2)(B) requires “the best notice that is practicable under the circumstances, including 18 individual notice to all members who can be identified through reasonable effort.” The notice 19 must “clearly and concisely state in plain, easily understood language” the nature of the action, the 20 class definition, and the class members’ right to exclude themselves from the class. Fed. R. Civ.
 21 P. 23(c)(2)(B). Although Rule 23 requires that reasonable efforts be made to reach all class 22 members, it does not require that each class member actually receive notice. See Silber v. Mabon, 23 18 F.3d 1449, 1454 (9th Cir. 1994) (noting that the standard for class notice is “best practicable” 24 notice, not “actually received” notice).

25 The Court finds that the notice plan previously approved by the Court was implemented 26 and complies with Rule 23(c)(2)(B). See Dkt. No. 107 at 17–19; see also Dkt. No. 117-1, Ex. 1 27 (“Nordskog Decl.”) at ¶¶ 2–7. As of July 2021, A.B. Data had mailed a total of 218,504 Postcard 28 Notices. See Nordskog Decl. at ¶ 7. It also re-mailed 230 notices that were initially returned by

1 the U.S. Postal Service and for whom updated addresses were obtained. Id.

2 In advance of the final fairness hearing, the Court received letters from five putative class 3 members, indicating that they had received notice with little to no time to submit their claim forms 4 and asking that their claim forms be accepted. See, e.g., Dkt. Nos. 123, 124. And in a 5 supplemental declaration, A.B. Data explained that the timing of its mailings varied based on 6 when it received information from nominees. See Dkt. No. 125-3 (“Suppl. Nordskog Decl.”) at 7 ¶¶ 3–5. A.B. Data explained that several nominees submitted untimely requests to have the 8 Postcard Notice mailed to their lists of potential class members. Id. at ¶ 3. For example, Charles 9 Schwab did not request that any notice be sent to its customers until June 29, 2021, when Charles 10 Schwab provided 21,427 names and addresses. See id. at ¶ 15. A.B. Data sent notice to these 11 potential class members on July 9, 2021. Id. On July 9, 2021, Axos Clearing LLC requested that 12 A.B. Data mail notice to 110 of its clients. See id. at ¶ 4. And on July 21, 2021, Broadridge 13 Financial Solutions, Inc. and Pacific Premier Trust requested that A.B. Data mail notice to over 14 7,700 of their clients. Id. Accordingly, since its initial declaration in July, A.B. Data mailed an 15 additional 7,826 Postcard Notices. Id. at ¶ 3.

16 As a result of this staggered mailing, Plaintiffs appear to acknowledge that “many 17 Settlement Class Members received notice just before or even after the July 19, 2021 claims filing 18 deadline.” See Dkt. No. 125 at 4. However, class members who received late notice were 19 nevertheless informed by letter included with the mailed notice that those who “wish[ed] to be 20 eligible to participate in the Settlement” should “submit a valid Claim Form” and that “A.B. Data, 21 Ltd. is continuing to accept and process claims, which Lead Counsel will submit to the Court, and 22 recommend for approval, provided that they do not materially delay distribution of the 23 Settlement.” See Suppl. Nordskog Decl. at ¶ 4. During the final fairness hearing, counsel 24 explained that counsel and the claims administrator fielded calls from class members asking if 25 they could still submit claims. And counsel told them to do so, explaining that counsel would ask 26 the Court to approve these claims. Counsel further explained to these prospective class members 27 that counsel believed their claims would be accepted. As the Court stated during the final fairness 28 hearing, all valid claim forms will be accepted, even those received after the stated deadline.

1 As of September 2, A.B. Data received 24,083 claims, or approximately 11% of the 2 number of mailed notices. See id. at ¶ 9. During the final fairness hearing, the parties explained 3 that this figure is above the 10% yield expected in securities cases in their experience. In light of 4 these facts, the Court finds that the parties have sufficiently provided the best practicable notice to 5 the class members.

6 b. Fairness, Adequacy, and Reasonableness

7 Having found the notice procedures adequate under Rule 23(e), the Court next considers 8 whether the entire settlement comports with Rule 23(e).

9 1. Strength of Plaintiffs' Case and Litigation Risk

10 Approval of a class settlement is appropriate when plaintiffs must overcome significant 11 barriers to make their case. Chun-Hoon v. McKee Foods Corp., 716 F. Supp. 2d 848, 851 (N.D.
12 Cal. 2010). Courts “may presume that through negotiation, the Parties, counsel, and mediator 13 arrived at a reasonable range of settlement by considering Plaintiff’s likelihood of recovery.”
14 Garner v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., No. 08-cv-1365-CW, 2010 WL 1687832, at *9 (N.D.
15 Cal. Apr. 22, 2010). Additionally, difficulties and risks in litigating weigh in favor of approving a 16 class settlement. Rodriguez, 563 F.3d at 966. “Generally, unless the settlement is clearly 17 inadequate, its acceptance and approval are preferable to lengthy and expensive litigation with 18 uncertain results.” Ching v. Siemens Indus., Inc., No. 11-cv-04838-MEJ, 2014 WL 2926210, at *4 19 (N.D. Cal. June 27, 2014) (quotations omitted).

20 The Court finds that the amount offered in settlement is reasonable in light of the 21 complexity of this litigation and the substantial risk that Plaintiffs would face in litigating the case 22 given the nature of the asserted claims. See Dkt. No. 116 at 12–14. Were the case to proceed, 23 Plaintiffs have acknowledged they would face difficulties establishing scienter, which would 24 require complex discussions of PG&E’s evolving wildfire prevention efforts. See id. at 13–14.
25 Additionally, Plaintiffs acknowledge they would face risks proving their “core de-energization 26 theory” since, to their knowledge, the de-energizations appeared to work and no one died as a 27 result of them. See id. at 14. Even if Defendants’ statements were false, Plaintiffs would also 28 have to prove damages. This would be difficult because PG&E’s stock was so volatile at the time.

1 See id. at 15–17. Plaintiffs note that “all but 3 of the stock price disclosures identified in the 2 Complaint are not statistically different from an average day” due to this volatility. Id. at 16. In 3 reaching a settlement, Plaintiffs have ensured a favorable recovery for the class. See Rodriguez, 4 563 F.3d at 966 (finding litigation risks weigh in favor of approving class settlement).
5 Accordingly, these factors weigh in favor of approving the settlement. See Ching, 2014 WL 6 2926210, at *4 (favoring settlement to protracted litigation).

7 2. Risk of Maintaining Class Action Status

8 In considering this factor, the Court looks to the risk of maintaining class certification if 9 the litigation were to proceed. The parties acknowledge that the exact class size cannot be 10 definitively ascertained because the vast majority of class members hold their securities through a 11 broker, bank, or other financial institution, and billions of shares of PG&E common stock were 12 traded during the class period. See Dkt. No. 88-1 at 21. However, they sent over 200,000 notices 13 to potential class members. Nevertheless, the parties appear to recognize that given the facts of 14 this case and current case law, “the risk of not being able to proceed on a classwide basis is 15 minimal.” See Dkt. No. 116 at 18. Accordingly, this factor does not weigh heavily in favor of 16 approval.

17 3. Settlement Amount

18 The amount offered in the settlement is another factor that weighs in favor of approval.
19 Based on the facts in the record and the parties’ arguments at the final fairness hearing, the Court 20 finds that the settlement amount falls “within the range of reasonableness” in light of the risks and 21 costs of litigation. See Dkt. No. 52 at 13–15; Dkt. No. 36-1 at ¶ 55; see also Villanueva v. Morpho 22 Detection, Inc., No. 13-cv-05390-HSG, 2016 WL 1070523 *4 (N.D. Cal. March 18, 2016) (citing 23 cases). Plaintiffs’ expert estimated that damages from the alleged false de-energization statements 24 amounted to $468 million. See Dkt. No. 116 at 19. The $10 million settlement here therefore 25 recovers slightly more than 2% of those estimated damages. Id. This 2% aggregate recovery is 26 consistent with the 2–3% average recovery that the parties identified in other securities class 27 action settlements. See, e.g., Hefler v. Wells Fargo & Co., No. 16-CV-05479-JST, 2018 WL 28 6619983, at *8 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 18, 2018), aff’d sub nom. Hefler v. Pekoc, 802 F. App’x 285 (9th

1 Cir. 2020); In re Heritage Bond Litig., No. 02-ML-1475 DT, 2005 WL 1594403, at *8–9 (C.D.
2 Cal. June 10, 2005).<sup>3</sup>

3 Although the claims administrator has not concluded the claim verification process, 4 counsel estimated during the final fairness hearing that the average recovery for class members 5 would be approximately $4,000, with a median recovery of approximately $51. Counsel further 6 indicated that it anticipated a recovery of approximately 3 cents per share. To the extent the 7 claims verification process removes any fraudulent claims, these estimates would only increase.
8 In any event, “[i]t is well-settled law that a cash settlement amounting to only a fraction of the 9 potential recovery does not per se render the settlement inadequate or unfair.” Officers for Justice
10 v. Civil Serv. Comm’n of City & County of S.F., 688 F.2d 615, 628 (9th Cir. 1982). The Court 11 finds under the circumstances that this factor weighs in favor of approval.

12 4. Extent of Discovery Completed and Stage of Proceedings

13 The Court finds that Class Counsel had sufficient information to make an informed 14 decision about the merits of the case. See In re Mego Fin. Corp. Sec. Litig., 213 F.3d 454, 459 15 (9th Cir. 2000). The parties settled only after they had informally exchanged significant 16 information relevant to Plaintiffs’ claims. See Dkt. No. 116 at 12. Thus, the Court is persuaded 17 that Class Counsel entered the settlement discussions with a substantial understanding of the 18 factual and legal issues, so as to allow them to assess the likelihood of success on the merits. This 19 factor weighs in favor of approval.

20 5. Experience and Views of Counsel

21 The Court next considers the experience and views of counsel. “[P]arties represented by 22 competent counsel are better positioned than courts to produce a settlement that fairly reflects each 23 party’s expected outcome in litigation.” Rodriguez, 563 F.3d at 967 (quotations omitted). Class 24 Counsel has substantial experience in similar class actions. See Dkt. No. 116 at 11. The Court 25 recognizes, however, that courts have diverged on the weight to assign counsel’s opinions.

27 <sup>3</sup> See also Cornerstone Research, Securities Class Action Settlements, 2016 Review and Analysis, 28 at 7 (2017), available at <http://securities.stanford.edu/research-reports/1996-2016/Settlements-Through-12-2016-Review.pdf> (detailing median securities class action settlements from 2007–2016).

1 Compare Carter v. Anderson Merch., LP, 2010 WL 1946784, at *8 (C.D. Cal. May 11, 2010)
 2 (“Counsel’s opinion is accorded considerable weight.”), with Chun-Hoon, 716 F. Supp. 2d at 852
 3 (“[T]his court is reluctant to put much stock in counsel’s pronouncements. . . .”). This factor’s 4 impact is therefore modest, but favors approval.

5 6. Reaction of Class Members

6 The reaction of the Class Members supports final approval. “[T]he absence of a large 7 number of objections to a proposed class action settlement raises a strong presumption that the 8 terms of a proposed class settlement action are favorable to the class members.” Nat’l Rural 9 Telecomms. Coop. v. DIRECTV, Inc., 221 F.R.D. 523, 528–29 (C.D. Cal. 2004); In re LinkedIn 10 User Privacy Litig., 309 F.R.D. 573, 589 (N.D. Cal. 2015) (“A low number of opt-outs and 11 objections in comparison to class size is typically a factor that supports settlement approval.”).

12 As of September 2, A.B. Data had only received three purported requests for exclusion.
 13 See Suppl. Nordskog Decl. at ¶ 10. In one of them, however, the individual indicated that she did 14 not purchase PG&E shares during the class period and therefore is not a class member. Id. As of 15 September 2, A.B. Data also had not received any objections.<sup>4</sup> The Court finds that the minimal 16 number of objections and opt-outs in comparison to the size of the class indicates overwhelming 17 support among the Class Members and weighs in favor of approval of the settlement. See, e.g., 18 Churchill Village LLC v. Gen. Elec., 361 F.3d 566, 577 (9th Cir. 2004) (affirming settlement 19 where 45 of approximately 90,000 class members objected); Rodriguez v. West Publ. Corp., Case 20 No. CV05–3222 R, 2007 WL 2827379, at *10 (C.D. Cal. Sept. 10, 2007) (finding favorable class 21 reaction where 54 of 376,301 class members objected).

22 * * *

23 After considering and weighing the above factors, the Court finds that the settlement 24 agreement is fair, adequate, and reasonable, and that the settlement Class Members received 25 _____

 26 <sup>4</sup> The Court notes that it received a letter from Michael Jesse on July 14, 2021, raising concerns 27 about the Postcard Notice. See Dkt. No. 121. However, the Court does not construe this letter as 28 an objection. Mr. Jesse appears to have had concerns about the mechanics of the notice, requesting more information in larger font. See id. A.B. Data responded to Mr. Jesse, contacting him by phone and shipping him copies of the long form notice and claim form in larger font. See Suppl. Nordskog Decl. at ¶ 12.

1 adequate notice. Accordingly, Plaintiffs’ motion for final approval of the class action settlement is 2 GRANTED.

3 B. Attorneys’ Fees, Costs and Expenses, and Incentive Award

4 In its unopposed motion, Class Counsel asks the Court to approve an award of $2.5 million 5 in attorneys’ fees and $82,046.46 in costs. Dkt. No. 118. Class Counsel also seeks a $5,000 6 incentive award for each of the three Named Plaintiffs. Id. at 14–15.

7 i. Attorneys’ Fees & Costs

8 a. Legal Standard

9 “In a certified class action, the court may award reasonable attorney’s fees and nontaxable 10 costs that are authorized by law or by the parties’ agreement.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(h). In a state 11 law action—like this one—state law also governs the calculation of attorneys’ fees. See Vizcaino 12 v. Microsoft Corp., 290 F.3d 1043, 1047 (9th Cir. 2002). Nevertheless, the Court may still look to 13 federal authority for guidance in awarding attorneys’ fees. See Apple Computer, Inc. v. Superior 14 Court, 126 Cal. App. 4th 1253, 1264 n.4 (2005) (“California courts may look to federal authority 15 for guidance on matters involving class action procedures.”).

16 Under California law, the “percentage of fund method” is proper in class actions. Laffitte 17 v. Robert Half Int’l Inc., 1 Cal. 5th 480, 506 (2016). In addition, “trial courts have discretion to 18 conduct a lodestar cross-check on a percentage fee.” Id. The “lodestar figure is calculated by 19 multiplying the number of hours the prevailing party reasonably expended on the litigation (as 20 supported by adequate documentation) by a reasonable hourly rate for the region and for the 21 experience of the lawyer.” In re Bluetooth, 654 F.3d at 941 (citing Staton v. Boeing Co., 327 F.3d 22 938, 965 (9th Cir. 2003). Trial courts “also retain the discretion to forgo a lodestar cross-check 23 and use other means to evaluate the reasonableness of a requested percentage fee.” Laffitte, 1 Cal.
 24 5th at 506. Class Counsel is also entitled to recover “those out-of-pocket expenses that would 25 normally be charged to a fee paying client.” Harris v. Marhoefer, 24 F.3d 16, 19 (9th Cir. 1994) 26 (quotations omitted).

27 b. Discussion

28 Class Counsel here seeks over $2.5 million in attorneys’ fees and costs. See Dkt. No. 118.

1 As of the filing of the motion for attorneys' fees, Class Counsel had incurred $914,472.90 in fees
2 and $82,046.46 in costs. Following the final fairness hearing and at the Court's request, counsel 3 submitted itemized billing records for both Pomerantz and The Rosen Law Firm for in camera
4 review. These records reflect that as of September 24, 2021, counsel spent a total of 1,278.58 5 hours on this case and incurred $984,179 in fees. Class Counsel urges that the full $2.5 million is 6 appropriate under the "percentage of fund" method. See Dkt. No. 118.

7 Using federal law for guidance, 25% of the common fund is the benchmark for attorney fee
8 awards. See, e.g., In re Bluetooth, 654 F.3d at 942 ("[C]ourts typically calculate 25% of the fund 9 as the 'benchmark' for a reasonable fee award, providing adequate explanation in the record of 10 any 'special circumstances' justifying a departure."). The Court considers the reasonableness of 11 the percentage requested in light of the factors enumerated by the Ninth Circuit, with the 25% 12 award as a starting point. That court has identified several factors that a court should consider to 13 determine whether to adjust a fee award from the benchmark: (1) the results achieved; (2) the risk 14 of litigation; (3) the skill required and the quality of work; (4) the contingent nature of the fee and 15 the financial burden carried by the plaintiff; and (5) awards made in similar cases. See Vizcaino, 16 290 F.3d at 1048–50.

17 The first and "most critical factor [in determining an attorneys' fee] is the degree of 18 success obtained." Hensley v. Eckerhart, 461 U.S. 424, 436 (1983). As previously discussed, the 19 $10 million common fund represents a 2% recovery on the estimated $468 million in losses that 20 Plaintiffs' expert estimated resulted from the de-energization statements. See Dkt. No. 116 at 19.
21 This also appears consistent with the 2–3% average recovery that the parties identified in other 22 securities class action settlements. Moreover, as noted above, no class member objected to the 23 adequacy of the settlement amount. The Court agrees that this represents an excellent result for 24 class members.

25 This recovery must also be considered in light of the significant risks that Plaintiffs would 26 face by further litigating this case. The risk that further litigation might result in Plaintiffs not 27 recovering at all, particularly a case involving complicated legal issues, is a significant factor in 28 the award of fees. See Vizcaino, 290 F.3d at 1048. As Plaintiffs explained in their motion for

1 final approval, they would face considerable difficulty obtaining a similar recovery through further 2 litigation given the complexity of this case and the variability of PG&E's stock price over the 3 class period. See Dkt. No. 116 at 12–17. As Class Counsel acknowledged, “[b]etween the myriad 4 developments in its bankruptcy, comments and actions from its regulators and public officials, 5 developments in its criminal proceedings, and developments in fires set by its equipment, 2020 6 was the most eventful year of PG&E's history.” See id. at 16. This factor therefore also weighs in 7 favor of their requested award.

8 Counsel also litigated this case skillfully and professionally. Having reviewed counsel's 9 billing records, the Court further finds that counsel appears to have litigated this action diligently 10 and efficiently. In addition, the risk co-lead counsel took in litigating this case on a contingency 11 basis for the last two years weighs in favor of a substantial attorneys' fee award. See Vizcaino, 12 290 F.3d at 1050. Courts have found that the importance of assuring adequate representation for 13 plaintiffs who could not otherwise afford competent attorneys justifies providing those attorneys 14 who accept matters on a contingent-fee basis a larger fee than if they were billing by the hour or as 15 a flat fee. See id. And here, counsel spent significant time on this case without any certainty that 16 they would be compensated. These factors weigh in favor of the award.

17 As a final check on the reasonableness of the requested fees, the Court compares the 18 requested fees with counsel's bills under the lodestar analysis. See, e.g., Vizcaino, 290 F.3d at 19 1050–51 (“Calculation of the lodestar, which measures the lawyers' investment of time in the 20 litigation, provides a check on the reasonableness of the percentage award.”). The Court must 21 “exclude from this initial fee calculation hours that were not ‘reasonably expended.’” Hensley, 22 461 U.S. at 434. However, as noted above, the Court reviewed detailed billing records and found 23 counsel's time reasonable given the demands of this case. Plaintiffs' counsel spent a total of 24 1,278.58 hours on this case, which at their hourly rates, results in a total lodestar of approximately 25 $984,179. This represents a multiplier of approximately 2.5 times the lodestar. In similar cases, 26 courts have approved multipliers ranging between 1 and 4. See, e.g., Vizcaino, 290 F.3d at 1051 27 n.6 (finding a range of 0.6 to 19.6 in a survey of 24 cases, with 83% in the 1.0 to 4.0 range and 28 54% in the 1.5 to 3.0 range). Because Class Counsel's lodestar multiplier is within the range of 1 reasonableness, it also supports the requested award.

2 An attorney who has created a common fund for the benefit of the class is entitled to 3 reimbursement of reasonable litigation costs from that fund. See Harris, 24 F.3d 16 at 19 4 (quotations omitted). Class Counsel is thus entitled to recover “those out-of-pocket expenses that 5 would normally be charged to a fee paying client.” Id. The Court finds that counsel’s requested 6 expenses are reasonable and grants the request.

7 * * *

8 The Court accordingly awards 25% of the $10 million Settlement Amount, or $2.5 million 9 to Class Counsel in attorneys’ fees and $82,046.46 in costs, for a total of $2,582,046.46.

10 ii. Incentive Awards

11 Lastly, Class Counsel requests an incentive award of $5,000 for each of the Named 12 Plaintiffs. See Dkt. No. 118 at 14. District courts have discretion to award incentive fees to 13 named class representatives. See In re Mego Fin. Corp. Secs. Litig., 213 F.3d 454, 463 (9th Cir.
14 2000). “Service awards as high as $5,000 are presumptively reasonable in this judicial district.” 15 See Wong v. Arlo Techs., Inc., No. 5:19-CV-00372-BLF, 2021 WL 1531171, at *12 (N.D. Cal.
16 Apr. 19, 2021). However, the Court shares the Ninth Circuit’s concern that “if class 17 representatives expect routinely to receive special awards in addition to their share of the recovery, 18 they may be tempted to accept suboptimal settlements at the expense of the class members whose 19 interests they are appointed to guard.” See Staton v. Boeing Co., 327 F.3d 938, 975 (9th Cir.
20 2003); Radcliffe v. Experian Information Sols. Inc., 715 F.3d 1157, 1163–64 (9th Cir. 2013) 21 (noting that the Ninth Circuit has “expressed disapproval of these incentive agreements” and that 22 “in some cases incentive awards may be proper but . . . awarding them should not become routine 23 practice”). The Ninth Circuit has cautioned that “district courts must be vigilant in scrutinizing all 24 incentive awards to determine whether they destroy the adequacy of the class representatives . . . .” 25 Radcliffe, 715 F.3d at 1165 (quotations omitted). This is particularly true where “the proposed 26 service fees greatly exceed the payments to absent class members.” Id.

27 Class Counsel represents that the named Plaintiffs closely participated in every aspect of 28 this case and kept apprised of developments in the case and regarding PG&E. See, e.g., Dkt. No.

1 118 at 14. Mr. Allustiarti, for example, explains that he spent significant time reviewing 2 documents in this case, working with counsel, and staying apprised of case and company 3 developments. See Dkt. No. 117-4; see also Dkt. Nos. 125-2, 125-4. The Court concludes that 4 given the circumstances of this case and the quality of the settlement achieved, the requested 5 incentive awards are justified and reasonable to compensate Plaintiffs for their efforts.

6 III. CONCLUSION

7 Accordingly, the Court GRANTS the motion for final approval of class action settlement 8 and GRANTS the motion for attorneys' fees and incentive award. The Court awards attorneys' 9 fees in the amount of $2.5 million and costs in the amount of $82,046.46.

10 The parties and settlement administrator are directed to implement this Final Order and the 11 settlement agreement in accordance with the terms of the settlement agreement. The parties are 12 further directed to file a short stipulated final judgment of two pages or less within 21 days from 13 the date of this order. The judgment need not, and should not, repeat the analysis in this order.
