DEFENDANT MARK RIDLEY-

AND MOTION TO SEVER; MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND
AUTHORITIES IN SUPPORT
THEREOF; APPENDIX

DECLARATION OF RAMSEY W.

PUBLICALLY FILED REDACTED VERSION

Date: June 27, 2022
Time: 8:30 a.m.
Ctm: 7D
Judge: Honorable Dale S. Fischer

Time Estimate: 60 minutes.

NOTICE OF MOTION AND MOTION

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on June 27, 2022, at 8:30 a.m. in the courtroom of the Honorable Dale S. Fischer, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard, counsel for Defendant Mark Ridley-Thomas will move the Court to sever his trial from the trial of Defendant Marilyn Flynn. The basis for this Motion includes:

- (1) Numerous statements by Ms. Flynn (statements that the jury may determine are inculpatory) may be admissible against her, but they are not admissible against Mr. Ridley-Thomas and, without severance, this will result in an incurable risk of prejudice to him.
- (2) The recent request for continuance of the trial date by the government and Ms. Flynn is opposed by Mr. Ridley-Thomas, and Mr. Ridley-Thomas is not waiving his rights to a speedy trial.

These grounds are sufficient to warrant severance and, at minimum, place into the Court's discretion whether to sever this case.

This Motion is based on the attached memorandum of points and authorities, appendix, the separately filed declaration of Ramsey W. Fisher, and all supporting exhibits and documents, the In Camera Declaration of Michael J. Proctor, the Constitution of the United States of America, all applicable statutory and case law, and such argument and evidence as the Court will entertain at the hearing.

MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

I. INTRODUCTION

Mark Ridley-Thomas and Marilyn Flynn are charged with conspiring to commit bribery and honest services fraud. They are currently set to be tried together. But Mr. Ridley-Thomas’s constitutional right to a fair trial and Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 14 require that they be tried separately.

First, severance is warranted under Rule 14 because critical pieces of the government’s evidence relating to Ms. Flynn are not admissible against Mr. Ridley-Thomas; moreover, admitting the evidence in a joint trial would create an incurable risk of prejudice. The government intends to support its conspiracy theory with several statements that Ms. Flynn made to nonparties—statements which the jury may determine are inculpatory. That strategy creates a dilemma. In a joint trial, Ms. Flynn’s statements would likely be admissible against her as statements of a party opponent under Federal Rule of Evidence 801(d)(2). But in a separate trial, many, if not all, of these statements would be inadmissible hearsay against Mr. Ridley-Thomas. The statements do not qualify as co-conspirator statements under Federal Rule of Evidence 801(d)(2)(E) because the government cannot establish that Mr. Ridley-Thomas knew and participated in a conspiracy or that these statements were made during and in furtherance of the alleged conspiracy. No other hearsay exception applies.

While these statements would be inadmissible against Mr. Ridley-Thomas in a separate trial, they create an incurable risk of prejudice in a joint trial. Ms. Flynn’s statements take several forms. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] And some can even be read to be inculcate Ms. Flynn in the alleged conspiracy and quid pro quo. The statements each go to a core element in the case against Ms. Flynn: her state-of-mind and intent. They are not, however, proof of Mr. Ridley-

1 Thomas's state-of-mind or intent because he neither made the statements nor adopted 2 them. But that distinction is likely to be lost on the jury in an incurable way.

3 The statements either reference Mr. Ridley-Thomas by name or clearly allude to 4 him. In some cases, the jury may (incorrectly) infer that the statements inculcate 5 Mr. Ridley-Thomas in the alleged quid pro quo. And they are made by the person who 6 was on the other side of the alleged quid pro quo. The risk is too great that the jury would 7 conclude that Ms. Flynn's statements concerning [REDACTED] are accurate 8 representations of [REDACTED]. But unless Ms. Flynn waives her Fifth 9 Amendment rights and testifies about these statements, the true basis for her statements 10 will remain unknown. That creates a severe risk that the jury will misconstrue 11 Ms. Flynn's assertions about [REDACTED] intent as actual evidence of 12 [REDACTED]. And that risk is sufficient to justify severance. In fact, this 13 is precisely the sort of prejudice that both the Advisory Committee and Supreme Court 14 have suggested warrants severance.

15 Second, severance is warranted under Rule 14 because Mr. Ridley-Thomas opposes 16 Ms. Flynn and the government's request to continue the trial to November 15, 2022. For 17 the reasons laid out in Mr. Ridley-Thomas's opposition to the requested continuance, 18 further delay prejudices Mr. Ridley-Thomas. If the Court is inclined to give Ms. Flynn 19 and her counsel more time to prepare for trial, it should sever the case to avoid prejudicing 20 Mr. Ridley-Thomas.

21 Accordingly, Mr. Ridley-Thomas requests that the Court exercise its discretion 22 under Rule 14 and sever Mr. Ridley-Thomas's trial from Ms. Flynn's. Alternatively, 23 Mr. Ridley-Thomas requests that the Court defer ruling on this motion until a hearing at 24 which the Court can evaluate the basis for the admissibility of Ms. Flynn's statements 25 under Rule 801(d)(2)(E).

1 II. BACKGROUND

2 A. The Alleged Conspiracy

3 The government alleges that Mr. Ridley-Thomas and Ms. Flynn engaged in a 4 conspiracy in which Mr. Ridley-Thomas performed official acts as a member of the Board 5 of Supervisors in exchange for Ms. Flynn’s help securing Sebastian Ridley-Thomas 6 admission as a student and appointment as a professor to USC’s School of Social Work 7 and School of Public Policy, as well as her help facilitating a $100,000 donation to a non-8 profit entity Sebastian Ridley-Thomas operated. Specifically, the government alleges that 9 Mr. Ridley-Thomas performed official acts relating to the following items presented to the 10 Board of Supervisors:

- 11 (1) Item 16, which passed 5-0 and called for the Chief Probation Officer to develop 12 a program plan to be implemented at the new reentry center being constructed 13 on South Vermont Avenue, including a recommendation on whether the County 14 should enter into a Memorandum of Understanding to establish a partnership 15 with USC’s School of Social Work to provide services at the center;
- 16 (2) Item 3, which passed 5-0 and called for a report regarding various probation 17 reform efforts, including an evaluation about the feasibility of establishing a 18 Probation University in partnership with USC; and
- 19 (3) Item 27, which passed 5-0 and called for the Board to provide the Director of 20 the Department of Mental Health, Jonathan Sherin, with authority to amend and 21 extend the County’s contract with USC’s School of Social Work relating to the 22 school’s existing telehealth program.

23 These acts, according to the Indictment, constitute violations of 18 U.S.C. § 371 24 (conspiracy); 18 U.S.C. § 666(a)(1)(B) and (a)(2) (bribery concerning programs receiving 25 Federal funds); and 18 U.S.C. §§ 1341, 1343, and 1346 (honest services mail/wire fraud).

26 B. Mr. Ridley-Thomas’s Defense

27 Mr. Ridley-Thomas denies the allegations in the Indictment. He has a robust and 28 legitimate defense to the charges. The contours of this defense are submitted to the Court

1 in camera, so the Court can contextualize and analyze the arguments that Ms. Flynn’s 2 statements are both inadmissible and prejudicial to Mr. Ridley-Thomas. See In Camera
3 Declaration of Michael J. Proctor In Support of Defendant Mark Ridley-Thomas’s Motion 4 to Sever.

5 C. The Government Seeks to Introduce Ms. Flynn’s Alleged Statements
6 Against Mr. Ridley-Thomas

7 The Indictment makes evident that the government intends to prove its case by 8 relying on a body of statements Ms. Flynn allegedly made to nonparties. Many of these 9 statements reference [REDACTED] by name and could be read to reflect 10 Ms. Flynn’s beliefs about [REDACTED].<sup>1</sup> Moreover, while 11 Mr. Ridley-Thomas believes that Ms. Flynn’s defense will have an explanation for these 12 statements consistent with innocence, there is no avoiding the fact that the statements may 13 be read as [REDACTED]. Below is a non-exhaustive list of the statements 14 Mr. Ridley-Thomas believes are inadmissible, prejudicial, and warrant severance.

24
25 <sup>1</sup> Based on the Indictment and the discovery produced by the government to date, the 26 statements included in this motion appear to be key evidence the government intends to 27 use against Mr. Ridley-Thomas. That said, Mr. Ridley-Thomas does not maintain that the 28 statements included in this motion are the only statements by Ms. Flynn that would be inadmissible and/or create an incurable risk of prejudice to his right to a fair trial, nor does he waive any right by filing this motion to move to strike the introduction at trial of any other statement by Ms. Flynn.

16 The statements each get to a core element in this case: state-of-mind and intent.
17 However, for the reasons stated below, each statement creates an incurable risk that the 18 jury will unfairly confuse Ms. Flynn’s [REDACTED]

19 [REDACTED]

20 III. SEVERANCE IS WARRANTED UNDER RULE 14

21 Rule 14 provides: “If the joinder of...defendants...for trial appears to prejudice a 22 defendant or the government, the court may order separate trials of counts, sever the 23 defendants’ trials, or provide any other relief that justice requires.” The Ninth Circuit has 24 noted that the two “most important” factors that guide the analysis are “whether the jury 25 may reasonably be expected to collate and appraise the individual evidence against each 26 defendant” and “the judge’s diligence in instructing the jury on the limited purposes for 27 which certain evidence may be used.” United States v. Fernandez, 388 F. 3d 1199, 1241 28 (9th Cir. 2004). Indeed, the “prime consideration in assessing the prejudicial effect of a 1 joint trial is whether the jury can reasonably be expected to compartmentalize the 2 evidence as it relates to separate defendants, in view of its volume and the limited 3 admissibility of some of the evidence.” United States v. Escalante, 637 F.2d 1197, 1201 4 (9th Cir. 1980).

5 The Supreme Court has suggested that a severance is particularly critical where, as 6 here, “evidence that the jury should not consider against a defendant and that would not 7 be admissible if the defendant were tried alone is admitted against a codefendant.” Zafiro
8 v. United States, 506 U.S. 534, 539 (1993). Those situations may present a “serious risk 9 that a joint trial would compromise a specific trial right of one of the defendants or 10 prevent a jury from making a reliable judgment about guilt or innocence.” Id. The 11 Advisory Committee has echoed this sentiment, noting:

12 A defendant may be prejudiced by the admission in evidence 13 against a co-defendant of a statement or confession made by 14 that co-defendant. This prejudice cannot be dispelled by cross-15 examination if the co-defendant does not take the stand.
16 Limiting instructions to the jury may not in fact erase the 17 prejudice. While the question whether to grant a severance is 18 generally left within the discretion of the trial court, recent Fifth 19 Circuit cases have found sufficient prejudice involved to make 20 denial of a motion for severance reversible error.

21 Fed. R. Crim. P. 14, 1966 Advisory Committee notes (emphasis added).<sup>3</sup>

22 <sup>3</sup> Mr. Ridley-Thomas does not move for severance under a Confrontation Clause or 23 Bruton theory. The Advisory Committee’s instruction is not limited to “testimonial”— 24 i.e., Bruton—statements. Courts have held that the word “statements” in Rule 14(b) is not 25 limited to testimonial statements triggering Confrontation Clause rights. United States v.
26 Bazewew, 783 F. Supp. 2d 160, 164-65 (D.D.C. 2011) (“During the hearing, the 27 government suggested that Rule 14(b) applies only to a defendant’s post-arrest statements.
28 The plain language of the Rule, however, provides no such limitation ... [T]he Court, in analyzing a motion under Rule 14, is entitled to review not only such post-arrest statements but rather ‘any defendant’s statement that the government intends to use as evidence.’”). Furthermore, the advisory notes were drafted two years before Bruton was decided and cited cases involving non-testimonial statements. See United States v.
Truslow, 530 F.2d 257 (4th Cir. 1975) (involving statements made by the defendants to third-party witnesses).

1 This is precisely the situation both the Supreme Court and the Advisory Committee 2 envisioned. Many, if not all, of Ms. Flynn's statements would not be admissible against 3 Mr. Ridley-Thomas in a separate trial. The statements are hearsay. The only possible 4 exception that would apply is a statement of a party opponent under Rule 801(d)(2). They 5 are not statements of a co-conspirator under Rule 801(d)(2)(E) because (1) the 6 government has not and cannot establish that a conspiracy existed, and (2) as detailed in 7 Appendix below, the government has not and cannot show that many of the statements 8 were made during and in furtherance of a conspiracy. As a result, while these statements 9 may be admitted in a joint trial, they would not be admitted if Mr. Ridley-Thomas were 10 tried separately.

11 There is also identifiable and incurable harm associated with admitting these 12 statements against Mr. Ridley-Thomas. Though the statements [REDACTED] 13 [REDACTED], they reflect only [REDACTED]. They are not, in 14 any way, evidence of Mr. Ridley-Thomas's intent. That is a subtle but critical distinction.
15 But it is likely to be lost on the jury without evidence from Ms. Flynn explaining how and 16 why she developed and expressed the [REDACTED]. Unless she waives her 17 Fifth Amendment rights, the jury will not have the benefit of any such evidence. And, of 18 course, unless she testifies Mr. Ridley-Thomas will not be able to cross-examine her on 19 these statements. And a limiting instruction cannot fill that void. In light of the nature 20 and number of these statements, it is unrealistic to expect a jury to be able to 21 compartmentalize Ms. Flynn's intent from Mr. Ridley-Thomas's.

22 A. Ms. Flynn's Statements Would Not Be Admissible Against Mr. Ridley- 23 Thomas in a Separate Trial

24 The statements identified above are inadmissible hearsay as to Mr. Ridley-Thomas.
25 The co-conspirator exception under Rule 801(d)(2)(E) does not apply for two reasons.
26 For the exception to apply, the government must show by a preponderance of the evidence 27 that (1) a conspiracy existed at the time the statement was made and that Mr. Ridley-28 Thomas had knowledge of, and participated in, the conspiracy, and (2) that the statements

1 were made in furtherance of the conspiracy. United States v. Bowman, 215 F.3d 951, 2 960-61 (9th Cir. 2000); Bourjaily v. United States, 483 U.S. 171, 175 (1987). The 3 government cannot show either. To the extent the Court finds that it cannot yet make a 4 determination as to the sufficiency of the government’s showing, Mr. Ridley-Thomas 5 requests that the Court defer judgment on this motion until it holds a pretrial hearing at 6 which it can evaluate whether the government has established the foundational 7 requirements as to each proffered coconspirator statement.

8 1. The government cannot establish Mr. Ridley-Thomas knowingly 9 participated in a conspiracy

10 The Ninth Circuit has recognized that “[a]n accused’s knowledge of and 11 participation in an alleged conspiracy are preliminary facts that must be established before 12 extrajudicial statements of a coconspirator can be introduced into evidence.” United 13 States v. Silverman, 861 F.2d 571, 576 (9th Cir. 1988) (internal quotes omitted). These 14 “preliminary facts must be shown by a preponderance of the evidence.” Id. And, 15 critically, “[a] coconspirator’s out-of-court statement, standing alone, is insufficient to 16 establish that the defendant had knowledge of and participated in a particular conspiracy.” 17 Id. at 577. “To abandon the requirement that some evidence aside from the proffered co-18 conspirator’s statements be presented to show that the defendant knowingly participated 19 in the conspiracy would be to render all such statements self-validating.” Id. In the Ninth 20 Circuit, district courts “must bear in mind that out-of-court statements are presumptively 21 unreliable.” Id. at 578. For this reason, “one presumptively unreliable hearsay statement 22 cannot be invoked to corroborate another hearsay statement, especially when uttered by 23 the same declarant.” United States v. Felix-Sosa, 905 F.2d 1541, 1541 (9th Cir. 1990).
24 And “[h]eavy reliance on co-conspirators’ statements to prove a defendant participated in 25 a conspiracy requires fairly incriminating evidence.” United States v. Lischewski, No. 18-26 cr-00203-EMC-1, 2019 WL 2716614, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Jun. 28, 2019). “Evidence of 27 wholly innocuous conduct or statements by the defendant will rarely be sufficiently 28

1 corroborative ... to constitute proof, by a preponderance of the evidence, that the 2 defendant knew of and participated in the conspiracy.” Silverman, 861 F.2d at 578.

3 The government cannot establish that Mr. Ridley-Thomas knowingly participated 4 in a conspiracy without relying heavily on out-of-court statements by Ms. Flynn. As just 5 one example, a key piece of evidence that the government is likely to identify as proof of 6 a conspiracy is a [REDACTED] Exhibit 9 at USAO_037888-
7 90. The government’s main evidence to support the theory that Mr. Ridley-Thomas 8 received, read, and acted on, [REDACTED]. For 9 example, the Indictment cites Exhibit 5 at USAO_030588, in which [REDACTED]
10 [REDACTED]
11 [REDACTED]
12 [REDACTED] Indictment, No. 1, at 12. The government also cites Ms. Flynn’s 13 statement that [REDACTED]
14 [REDACTED]. Id. at 12-13; Ex.
15 7 at USAO_037930. And it cites Ms. Flynn allegedly telling [REDACTED]
16 [REDACTED] Indictment,
17 No. 1, at 20; Exhibit 1 at USAO_000486. To be clear, the government also cites 18 Mr. Ridley-Thomas’s votes on the various board items. But without relying heavily on 19 Ms. Flynn’s statements, there is nothing linking those votes to Ms. Flynn’s requests.

20 In fact, the Indictment cites just two statements by Mr. Ridley-Thomas that relate to 21 actions he took relating to the board items at issue: (1) [REDACTED]
22 [REDACTED] and (2)
23 [REDACTED]
24 [REDACTED]
25 [REDACTED]
26 [REDACTED]
27 Indictment, No. 1., at 14, Exhibit 10 at USAO_114131; Indictment, No. 1., at 17-18; 28 Exhibit 11 at USAO_114702.

1 Neither of these statements are the sort of incriminating evidence that courts require 2 to corroborate out-of-court statements, which are presumptively unreliable. See, e.g.
3 Lischewski, 2019 WL 2716614, at *3 (grand jury transcripts sufficient corroborating 4 evidence of co-conspirator statements where four separate individuals testified about the 5 defendant’s involvement in the alleged conspiracy); United States v. Ortega-Garcia, No.
6 CR 17-203 DSF, 2017 WL 11439800, at *2 (C.D. Cal. Dec. 11, 2017) (sufficient 7 corroborating evidence of statements indicating defendants’ participation in drug 8 trafficking conspiracy where it was shown that she crossed the border when her alleged 9 co-conspirators expected her to and “placed her car in the control of people she barely 10 knew who then put materials in the trunk and took them out of the trunk.”). At most, they 11 establish that [REDACTED]

12 [REDACTED] That, in itself, is innocuous. These statements, as well as 13 Mr. Ridley-Thomas’s votes on the various board items, are consistent with an entirely 14 innocent explanation: Mr. Ridley-Thomas was working to advance board items that he 15 independently thought were good ideas. See United States v. Saeteurn, No. 93-10269, 16 1994 WL 259396, at *3 (9th Cir. Jun. 13, 1994) (holding that where evidence is 17 “consistent with perfectly innocent behavior, it is insufficient to support the required 18 finding” for a conspiracy) (citation omitted). There is nothing connecting that action to 19 any representations Ms. Flynn may have made with respect to Sebastian Ridley-Thomas.
20 And as a result, the government cannot establish that Mr. Ridley-Thomas knowingly 21 participated in a conspiracy. Accordingly, none of the statements above—or any other 22 statement by Ms. Flynn—would be admissible under as co-conspirator statements against 23 Mr. Ridley-Thomas.

24 2. Regardless, the statements were not made in furtherance of the 25 conspiracy

26 Even if the government could establish that Mr. Ridley-Thomas knowingly 27 participated in a conspiracy, the statements above would still not be admissible under 28 Rule 801(d)(2)(E) because they cannot be interpreted as furthering a conspiracy. “To be

1 considered ‘during the course and in furtherance of’ a conspiracy for purposes of Rule 2 801(d)(2)(E), a co-conspirator statement must ‘further the common objectives of the 3 conspiracy’ or ‘set in motion transactions that [are] an integral part of the [conspiracy].’” 4 United States v. Woodland, No. CR 05-00668(A)-MMM, 2007 WL 9706767, at *7 (C.D.
5 Cal. Jan. 9, 2007) (citing United States v. Arambula-Ruiz, 987 F.2d 599, 607-08 (9th Cir.
6 1993) (alteration in original)). Critically, “[w]hen inquiring whether a statement was 7 made ‘in furtherance’ of a conspiracy, we do not focus on its actual effect in advancing 8 the goals of the conspiracy, but on the declarant’s intent in making the statement.” United 9 States v. Nazemian, 948 F.2d 522, 529 (9th Cir. 1991) (citation omitted). The Ninth 10 Circuit has provided expansive examples of what sort of statements meet this standard:

11 statements made to induce enlistment or further participation in 12 the group’s activities; statements made to prompt further action 13 on the part of conspirators; statements made to reassure 14 members of a conspiracy’s continued existence; statements 15 made to allay a co-conspirator’s fears; and statements made to keep co-conspirators abreast of an ongoing conspiracy’s activities.

17 Courts have also provided some guidance on what does not qualify as a statement 18 in “furtherance” of a conspiracy. Three specific lessons are relevant here.

19 First, courts have held that statements that “simply inform[] the listener of the 20 declarant’s criminal activities [are] not made in furtherance of the conspiracy.” United 21 States v. Ragland, 555 F.3d 706, 713 (8th Cir. 2009) (citation omitted). This includes 22 statements in which one conspirator informs the listener of the acts of another. Charles 23 Alan Wright & Arthur R. Miller, Federal Practice and Procedure § 6780 (2022 ed.) (citing 24 United States v. SKW Metals & Alloys, Inc., 195 F.3d 83, 88 (2d Cir. 1999)) (“A merely 25 narrative description by one co-conspirator of the acts of another, while often quite useful 26 in terms of evidentiary value, will not be admissible under the exception because it is not 27 in furtherance of the conspiracy.”); see also United States v. Mitchell, 31 F.3d 628, 632 28

1 (8th Cir. 1994) (“A statement that simply informs a listener of the declarant’s criminal 2 activities is not made in furtherance of the conspiracy.”). Similarly, idle conversation that 3 touches upon the conspiracy is not sufficient to “further” a conspiracy. United States v.
4 Urbanik, 801 F.2d 692, 698 (4th Cir. 1986); United States v. Cornett, 195 F.3d 776, 784 5 (5th Cir. 1999). “This is true even when ... the declarant makes what can be construed as 6 an offhand admission of culpability.” United States v. Johnson, 927 F.3d 999, 1002 (7th 7 Cir. 1991) (collecting cases). Indeed, a “casual admission of culpability to someone [the 8 declarant] had individually decided to trust” is not in furtherance of the conspiracy.”
9 United States v. Eubanks, 591 F.2d 513, 520 (9th Cir. 1979) (citation omitted).

10 Second, statements to non-conspirators informing them of the conspiracy will also 11 generally not qualify for admission because such statements are rarely in furtherance of 12 the conspiracy. United States v. Weaver, 507 F.3d 178, 185 (3d Cir. 2007) (“A 13 declarant’s statement explaining the current status of the conspiracy is ‘in furtherance’ of 14 that conspiracy only if the addressee is also a co-conspirator.”); United States v. Manfre, 15 368 F.3d 832, 841 (8th Cir. 2004) (accomplice’s statement to his fiancé that he intended 16 to burn down a night club was not admissible under Rule 801(d)(2)(E) because it was not 17 in furtherance of the conspiracy); United States v. Ford, 839 F.3d 94, 107 (1st Cir. 2016) 18 (defendant’s revelation to spouse that he was “making money growing marijuana” was 19 not in furtherance of the marijuana conspiracy).

20 Third, statements made before the conspiracy allegedly began cannot be statements 21 in furtherance of that conspiracy. United States v. Coe, 718 F.2d 830, 839-840 (7th Cir.
22 1983) (collecting cases). Similarly, statements made after the “central purpose” of the 23 conspiracy “has been attained” do not further the conspiracy. United States v. Morgan, 24 748 F.3d 1024, 1036 (10th Cir. 2014); see also Advisory Committee Note to Fed. R. Evid.
25 801(d)(2)(E) (citing Krulewitch v. United States, 336 U.S. 440 (1949)).

26 The statements listed above do not meet the threshold for admissibility for all three 27 of these reasons. As a preliminary matter, in each of them, Ms. Flynn’s statement is a 28

1 [REDACTED] And, in each statement, Ms. Flynn is [REDACTED]
2 [REDACTED]
3 [REDACTED]. In no way do the statements advance any objective 4 of the conspiracy.

5 The same is true of the few statements that could very well be viewed by the jury as 6 evidence that tends to establish Ms. Flynn’s culpability. As noted above, “casual 7 admission[s] of culpability” are not made in furtherance of a conspiracy. Eubanks, 591 8 F.2d at 520 (9th Cir. 1979).

9 In addition, some of the statements were uttered before any conspiracy is alleged to 10 have formed or after it concluded. Such statements cannot be said to further the alleged 11 conspiracy. Relatedly, the government has informed Mr. Ridley-Thomas that it intends to 12 introduce evidence about [REDACTED] under 13 Rule 404(b). This evidence includes the statement in Exhibit 3. The government intends 14 to argue that [REDACTED]
15 Those acts have nothing to do with Mr. Ridley-Thomas, and evidence of those acts cannot 16 be admissible against him as a co-conspirator statement because it was made prior to the 17 formation of the alleged conspiracy. Cf. United States v. Vaught, 485 F.2d 320, 323 (4th 18 Cir. 1973) (“In a prosecution for conspiracy the acts and words of an alleged co-19 conspirator prior to the actual formation and existence of a conspiracy are totally 20 irrelevant and should be struck from the record.”). Viewed cumulatively, this is another 21 reason to sever.

22 The specific reasons each statement was not made in furtherance of a conspiracy 23 are summarized in the chart included in the Appendix below. Taken together, these 24 statements—inadmissible against Mr. Ridley-Thomas—underscore the significant 25 prejudice Mr. Ridley-Thomas would suffer and the palpable need to sever his trial from 26 Ms. Flynn’s.

1                   3.     Alternatively, Mr. Ridley-Thomas requests that the Court hold a 2                   pretrial hearing to determine the admissibility of Ms. Flynn’s 3                   statements before it rules on Mr. Ridley-Thomas’s motion for 4                   severance

5                   Alternatively, if the Court finds that it cannot yet determine if the government can 6                   make the required showing to admit Ms. Flynn’s statements against Mr. Ridley-Thomas, 7                   Mr. Ridley-Thomas requests that the Court defer judgment on this motion until it can hold 8                   a pretrial hearing to assess the admissibility of Ms. Flynn’s statements. “In this Circuit, 9                   the procedure employed to lay the foundation for admitting co-conspirator statements is 10                  within the Court’s discretion.” United States v. Rodriguez-Landa, No. 2:13-cr-00484-11                  CAS, 2019 WL 653853, at *28 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 13, 2019) (citation omitted). Courts have 12                  identified different methods for making this determination, one of which is a pretrial 13                  James hearing. Id.; United States v. Joyce, No. 14-cr-00607-PJH-4, 2017 WL 895563, at 14                  *5 (N.D. Cal. Jan. 20, 2017). This hearing would provide the Court the opportunity to 15                  assess the government’s evidence for establishing that Mr. Ridley-Thomas knowingly 16                  participated in a conspiracy and that Ms. Flynn’s statements were in furtherance of that 17                  conspiracy.

18                  Mr. Ridley-Thomas recognizes that this approach has been disfavored by some 19                  courts in this circuit. United States v. Zemek, 634 F.2d 1159, 1169, n.13 (9th Cir. 1980); 20                  United States v. Marr, No. 14-cr-00580-PJH, 2017 WL 1540815, at *14 (N.D. Cal. Apr.
21                  28, 2017). Instead, they have favored conditional admission of such statements. Id. But 22                  none of those cases present the problem raised here in which the evidentiary ruling bears 23                  directly on a motion for severance. The Court needs to determine whether these 24                  statements are admissible against Mr. Ridley-Thomas before it can determine whether a 25                  joint trial would violate Mr. Ridley-Thomas’s right to a fair trial. Accordingly, if the 26                  Court decides it cannot presently determine that the government cannot make the required 27                  showing under Rule 801(d)(2)(E), it should hold a pretrial hearing to assess the 28                  government’s evidence.

1           B. The Prejudice is Incurable

2           The Supreme Court has suggested that a severance is particularly critical where, as 3 here, “evidence that the jury should not consider against a defendant and that would not
4 be admissible if the defendant were tried alone is admitted against a codefendant.” Zafiro, 5 506 U.S. at 539. Those situations may present a “serious risk that a joint trial would 6 compromise a specific trial right of one of the defendants or prevent a jury from making a 7 reliable judgment about guilt or innocence.” Id. This case is a perfect illustration of that 8 reasoning. For the reasons stated above, Ms. Flynn’s statements would not be admissible 9 against Mr. Ridley-Thomas if he were tried separately. And for the reasons stated below, 10 admitting them against Ms. Flynn in a joint trial in which Mr. Ridley-Thomas is present 11 creates an incurable risk of prejudice.

12           1. The prejudice associated with Ms. Flynn’s statements is acute

13           As noted above, many of Ms. Flynn’s statements create an incurable risk of 14 prejudicing Mr. Ridley-Thomas. The statements speak to [REDACTED] 15 [REDACTED] But they are not evidence of 16 Mr. Ridley-Thomas’s expectations, beliefs, and opinions. The specific prejudice 17 associated with each statement is identified in the chart in the Appendix below. As it 18 shows, Ms. Flynn’s statements can be erroneously interpreted as evidence of Mr. Ridley-19 Thomas’s intent with respect to his official acts. In some instances, they can even be read 20 to inculcate Mr. Ridley-Thomas in the alleged quid pro quo.

21           2. The prejudice cannot be cured by a limiting instruction

22           This prejudice is incurable. It is precisely the sort of prejudice that the Supreme 23 Court was concerned with in Zafiro. Zafiro, 506 U.S. at 539 (“[e]vidence that is probative 24 of a defendant’s guilt but technically admissible only against a codefendant also might 25 present a risk of prejudice.”). And it is precisely the sort of prejudice that the Advisory 26 Committee has noted “[l]imiting instructions to the jury may not in fact erase.” Fed. R.
27 Crim. P. 14, 1966 Advisory Committee notes (emphasis added).

28           Courts have followed suit. For example, in United States v. Baker, the court

1 determined that a statement Wheeler, Baker’s co-defendant, gave to the FBI would not 2 have been admissible against Baker if he were tried separately. 98 F.3d 330, 335 (8th Cir.
3 1996). The statement “[did] not incriminate Baker on its face,” but was nevertheless 4 “probative of Baker’s guilt.” Id. In light of this statement and two documents that also 5 would not have been admissible against Baker if he were tried alone, the court held that 6 “the risk of substantial prejudice from the spillover effect” warranted a severance. Id.; see 7 also United States v. Lawson, 2009 WL 3400916, at *3 (E.D. Ky., Oct. 19, 2009) (joint 8 trial posed a “substantial risk of prejudice” where a co-defendant’s statements would not 9 be admissible against the other co-defendants as coconspirator statements but would still 10 be admissible against the co-defendant as an admission of a party-opponent); United 11 States v. Troutman, 546 F. Supp. 2d 610, 615–17 (N.D. Ill. 2008) (severance justified 12 because most of the evidence consisted of co-defendant statements not made as part of 13 conspiracy that was likely not admissible at separate trial).

14 Limiting instructions cannot solve this sort of prejudice. While Mr. Ridley-15 Thomas’s argument is based on Rule 14 and not the Confrontation Clause, perhaps the 16 most eloquent explanation of why a limiting instruction is ineffective is found in Bruton.
17 There, the Supreme Court explained that “[i]n joint trials, . . . when the admissible 18 confession of one defendant inculcates another defendant, the confession is never deleted 19 from the case . . .” 391 U.S. at 131 (emphasis added). Reliance on a limiting instruction 20 requires the jury to “perform the overwhelming task of considering [the confession] in 21 determining the guilt or innocence of the declarant and then of ignoring it in determining 22 the guilt or innocence of any codefendants.” Id. This expectation is unrealistic because 23 “[a] jury cannot segregate evidence into separate intellectual boxes.” Id. (internal 24 quotations omitted).

25 The same logic applies here, even though Ms. Flynn’s statements are not 26 “confessions.” See, e.g. Baker, 98 F.3d at 335 (holding limiting instruction insufficient 27 and granting severance under Rule 14, not Bruton); Lawson, 2009 WL 3400916, at *3 28 (same); Troutman, 546 F. Supp. at 615–17 (same). Her statements are not evidence of 1 Mr. Ridley-Thomas's intent, but the substance of the statements invites problematic 2 inferences. [REDACTED] They can be 3 misconstrued to suggest that he was [REDACTED]

4 [REDACTED]
5 [REDACTED] Any 6 theoretical limiting instruction to avoid these sorts of inferences would be confusing and 7 unreasonable. The Court would have to instruct the jury that they could consider the 8 statements only as to Ms. Flynn and also only as to Ms. Flynn's intent and involvement in 9 the alleged conspiracy. They would further be instructed that they could consider this 10 evidence as to the existence of the alleged conspiracy, but not as to Mr. Ridley-Thomas's 11 involvement in that conspiracy or as to Mr. Ridley-Thomas's intent. It is unrealistic to 12 ask lay people to engage in such legal gymnastics. Especially considering that they would 13 need to do so not just for one of the more minor statements in isolation, but for all of the 14 statements listed above, and more, presented to them over the course of a multi-week trial.
15 The cumulative weight of all of these statements creates too much risk of confusion on a 16 central issue in the case.

17 This is not a situation in which the jury can "be reasonably expected to 18 compartmentalize the evidence as it relates to separate defendants." Escalante, 637 F.2d 19 at 1201. In light of the nature of these statements, asking the jury to compartmentalize 20 intent here is not unlike the "overwhelming task" articulated by the Court in Bruton.
21 Accordingly, a limiting instruction will not protect Mr. Ridley-Thomas from the harm 22 posed by Ms. Flynn's statements.

23 3. The prejudice cannot be mitigated by cross-examination, unless 24 Ms. Flynn waives her Fifth Amendment right and testifies

25 The Advisory Committee notes that the prejudice arising from a co-defendant's 26 statement "cannot be dispelled by cross-examination if the co-defendant does not take the 27 stand." Fed. R. Crim. P. 14, 1966 Advisory Committee notes. That is certainly the case 28 here. As detailed above, interpreting Ms. Flynn's statements invites speculation. The

1 statements do not explain how Ms. Flynn [REDACTED]
2 [REDACTED]. Similarly, [REDACTED]
3 [REDACTED]
4 [REDACTED]

5 If Mr. Ridley-Thomas waives his Fifth Amendment rights and testifies, he could 6 speak as to his perspective of his communications with Ms. Flynn. But that would fail to 7 address what Ms. Flynn meant by her statements, how she [REDACTED] 8 [REDACTED]. That sort of 9 evidence could only come from Ms. Flynn. While it remains unclear whether Ms. Flynn 10 will testify in a joint trial, the uncertainty is enough to warrant severance. Her decision to 11 testify is hers and hers alone, and we will not know what that decision is until the end of 12 trial. By then, it would be too late to undo the prejudice to Mr. Ridley-Thomas, if the 13 Court were to proceed with a joint trial and admit Ms. Flynn’s statements. Severance is 14 the only option to avoid such prejudice.

15 IV. SEVERANCE IS WARRANTED IN LIGHT OF THE DEFENDANTS’
16 DIFFERING REQUESTS FOR A TRIAL DATE

17 A delay in the trial of one defendant is a factor that courts should “take into 18 account” when determining whether a motion for severance should be granted. United 19 States v. Magnotti, 51 F.R.D. 1, 2 (D. Conn. 1970). Ms. Flynn has requested a 20 continuance to November 15, 2022. For the reasons laid out in Mr. Ridley-Thomas’s 21 opposition to that request, that continuance would threaten Mr. Ridley-Thomas’s ability to 22 return to the office he was elected to serve. As a result, Mr. Ridley-Thomas and 23 Ms. Flynn have differing interests concerning the trial date. This is another factor 24 weighing in favor of severance.

25 V. THE PREJUDICE TO MR. RIDLEY-THOMAS OUTWEIGHS ANY 26 CONCERNS OF EFFICIENCY

27 The only valid concern competing against severance is efficiency, which here 28 cannot outweigh the prejudice resulting to Mr. Ridley-Thomas from joinder. Rules 8 and 1 14 of the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure are “designed to promote economy and 2 efficiency and to avoid a multiplicity of trials,” but only “where these objectives can be 3 achieved without substantial prejudice to the right of the defendants to a fair trial.”

 4 Bruton, 391 U.S. at 131, n.6 (quoting Daley v. United States, 231 F.2d 123, 125 (1st Cir.
 5 1956)) (emphasis added). As demonstrated above, the admission of Ms. Flynn’s alleged 6 statements and the defendants’ differing requests for trial dates each present a separate 7 basis for severance, and when combined work to deprive Mr. Ridley-Thomas of a fair 8 trial. That level of prejudice cannot be outweighed by concerns of efficiency. Moreover, 9 granting severance would result in only two trials, which the court in Schaffer recognized 10 “would not be very time consuming but entirely practicable.” 221 F.2d at 19. In fact, 11 severance might actually promote efficiency in this case. If Mr. Ridley-Thomas’s trial 12 proceeds first, it would be shorter and more streamlined than a trial involving two 13 defendants.

14 VI. CONCLUSION

15 For the reasons stated above, Mr. Ridley-Thomas asks that the Court grant his 16 motion for a separate trial or, in the alternative, defer judgment on the motion until the 17 Court can hold a pretrial hearing to rule on the admissibility of Ms. Flynn’s statements 18 against Mr. Ridley-Thomas.
