1 NOTICE OF UNOPPOSED MOTION AND MOTION FOR PRELIMINARY APPROVAL

2 PLEASE TAKE NOTICE THAT on April 2, 2026 or a date and time convenient for The 3 Honorable Araceli Martínez-Olguín of the United States District Court for the Northern District of 4 California, San Francisco Division, located in Courtroom 10, 19th Floor at 450 Golden Gate Avenue, 5 San Francisco, California 94102, Class Representative Plaintiff Adrian Cendejas, by and through his 6 undersigned counsel of record, will and hereby does move for entry of an Order as follows:

- 7 (1) preliminarily approving the Class Action Settlement with Defendant Sony Interactive 8 Entertainment LLC (“SIE” or “Defendant”) (the “proposed Settlement”)¹;
- 9 (2) approving the proposed Notice Plan and proposed Long and Short Form Notices to the 10 Class;
- 11 (3) preliminarily approving the proposed Plan of Allocation;
- 12 (4) designating Adrian Cendejas as Class Representative for the proposed Settlement Class;
- 13 (5) appointing A.B. Data, Ltd. (“A.B. Data”) to serve as Notice and Settlement 14 Administrator;
- 15 (6) setting a schedule for Final Approval of the proposed Settlement and related proceedings 16 regarding attorneys’ fees, costs, expenses and potential service awards;
- 17 (7) certifying a Settlement Class for the following proposed Class:
18 All persons in the United States who purchased through the PlayStation Store one or more 19 video games for which a game specific voucher (“GSV”) was available at retail prior to 20 April 1, 2019, for which a total of at least 200 GSV redemptions were made prior to April 21 1, 2019, and for which the post-discount price increased by at least fifty cents from: (a) the 22 period between January 1, 2017 and March 31, 2019; as compared to (b) the period 23 between April 1, 2019 and December 31, 2023. The class period shall be April 1, 2019 to 24 December 31, 2023 (“Class Period”). Excluded from the Settlement Class are: (1) 25 Defendant and its counsel, officers, directors, management, employees, parents, 26 subsidiaries, and affiliates; and (2) the Court and its employees; and
- 27 (8) granting such other and further relief as the Court may deem just and appropriate.

28 Copies of the [Proposed] Order Granting Preliminary Approval of Class Action Settlement and [Proposed] Order Granting Final Approval of Class Action Settlement are separately submitted with this

1 Motion. See Exhibits A and B to the Declaration of Michael M. Buchman dated February 26, 2026
2 (“Buchman Decl.”).

3 Proposed Class Plaintiff’s Motion is based on Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23, the Northern 4 District’s Procedural Guidance for Class Action Settlement (“Procedural Guidance”), this Notice of 5 Unopposed Motion, the supporting Memorandum of Points and Authorities, the Declaration of Michael 6 M. Buchman dated February 26, 2026, and the pleadings and papers on file in Caccuri et al., v. Sony
7 Interactive Entertainment LLC, Case No. 3:21-cv-03361-AMO (the “litigation”), as well as any other 8 matter this Court may consider.

9 MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES

10 I. STATEMENT OF ISSUES TO BE DECIDED

11 Whether the Court should preliminarily approve the proposed Settlement, authorize notice to the 12 Settlement Class and preliminarily certify a Settlement Class.

13 II. THE MOTION FOR PRELIMINARY APPROVAL OF THE PROPOSED SETTLEMENT

14 A. Introduction

15 Plaintiff Adrian Cendejas,² on behalf of himself and the proposed Settlement Class, respectfully 16 seeks preliminary approval of the proposed Settlement with Defendant SIE in this litigation.

17 At the January 29, 2026 preliminary approval hearing, the Court expressed concern about the 18 role in the settlement of two originally named plaintiffs - Messrs. Agustin Caccuri, and Allen Neumark.
19 They are no longer part of the Settlement class. The Court inquired whether there is authority for 20 Messrs. Caccuri and Neumark to be eligible to receive service awards from class funds or out of the 21 attorneys’ fees. These revised Preliminary Approval papers address the points raised by the Court in 22 Section F(2)(c) below. In sum, Messrs. Caccuri and Neumark, who are no longer in the Class, have been 23 removed from the proposed Second Revised Settlement Agreement. It is our hope that this adjustment 24 addresses the Court’s concerns raised in the last hearing. Moreover, with regard to service awards for

26 _____
27 ² “Plaintiff” as referenced in this document refers to the proposed Class Representative Plaintiff Adrian 28 Cendejas. “Plaintiffs” as referenced in this document refers to Messrs. Agustin Caccuri, Adrian Cendejas and Alan Neumark. The reason for this distinction is because only Plaintiff Adrian Cendejas has a qualifying purchase under the proposed Class Definition. Agustin Caccuri and Allen Neumark do not have qualifying purchases under the proposed Class Definition. This distinction is explained below.

1 Messrs. Caccuri and Neumark, who participated in the prosecution of the case for the benefit of the 2 Class, we respectfully submit there is authority on both sides of the issue as courts have and have not 3 permitted service awards for non-Class members. Below, we also present an alternative proposal where 4 the attorneys' fees could be reduced by a specified amount to create a separate fund for the service 5 awards. This approach would not take money away from the Class and would not require SIE to pay any 6 more than what has been agreed to. Id.

7 This proposed Settlement provides for a Settlement amount totaling $7,850,000 ("Settlement
8 Amount"), in the form of cash-value PlayStation Network ("PSN") account credits to be electronically 9 distributed directly to Settlement Class members' PSN accounts. The Settlement Class members with 10 active PSN accounts will not need to submit claim forms to receive a benefit under the proposed 11 Settlement. SIE is able to identify the proposed Settlement Class members through their PSN accounts 12 and directly deposit an account credit. There are approximately 4,407,533 eligible Class member PSN 13 accounts. Class members who made qualifying purchases, but whose PSN accounts have been 14 deactivated will be able to contact the case 877 number, the case specific email address, and/or the case 15 specific mailing address and provide qualifying information, such as PSN account information and 16 relevant purchases as well as a current address, in order to receive monies, via U.S. mail, equal in value 17 to the PSN account credits to which they may be entitled under the proposed Settlement. Thus, the 18 proposed Settlement involves a cash-value PSN account credit or cash to certain Class members.

19 The proposed Settlement was reached with the assistance of mediator Mr. Christopher Hockett 20 who was designated by the Court to conduct an Ordered Early Neutral Evaluation ("ENE") conference.
21 Mr. Hockett is a widely recognized and experienced antitrust litigator, former Chair of the ABA
22 Antitrust Section, and now a lecturer at Berkeley Law School. He conducted the ENE. He was later 23 engaged to serve as the mediator by the parties after significant discovery and motion practice. Once 24 engaged, Mr. Hockett facilitated arm's length negotiations among experienced antitrust class action 25 counsel. With Mr. Hockett's assistance, the parties were able to reach agreement and enter into the 26 Revised Settlement Agreement. See Buchman Decl., Exhibit C.

27 In exchange for the Settlement Amount, Plaintiff and the proposed Settlement Class agree to 28 release all claims against SIE that arise out of or relate to the alleged conduct in this litigation. The

1 people who may have been encompassed in the original class definition who are not included in the 2 settlement class definition are not providing releases and will maintain their ability to pursue their 3 claims if they so desire. As demonstrated below, the proposed Settlement is in the best interests of 4 proposed Settlement Class members as defined in the Second Consolidated Amended Class Action
5 Complaint and meets the criteria for approval under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(e). Plaintiff, 6 therefore, respectfully requests that the proposed Class be certified for settlement purposes. The 7 Settlement Class includes approximately 4.4 million eligible PSN accounts, with some Class members 8 potentially having multiple eligible accounts. The Class Representative Plaintiff's claims are typical of 9 those of all proposed Settlement Class members and present numerous common questions of fact and 10 law. Plaintiff more than adequately represents the interests of all proposed Settlement Class members.
11 The Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(1)-(4) requirements are, therefore, satisfied. The common issues presented in 12 this case predominate over any questions that may affect individual Settlement Class members. A class 13 action is superior to other methods of adjudication and, therefore, the Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3) 14 requirements are satisfied. Accordingly, Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court enter an Order: (i) 15 preliminarily approving the proposed Settlement; (ii) approving the form and manner of Notice to the 16 Settlement Class; (iii) preliminarily approving the Plan of Allocation to the Class; (iv) preliminarily 17 certifying a Rule 23 Settlement Class and designating Adrian Cendejas as Class Representative for the 18 Settlement Class; (v) appointing A.B. Data, Ltd. ("A.B. Data") to serve as Notice and Settlement 19 Administrator; (vi) setting a schedule for notice and Final Approval of the proposed Settlement; and 20 (vii) granting such other and further relief as the Court may deem just and appropriate under the 21 circumstances.

22 B. Procedural History

23 1. The Litigation

24 Plaintiff alleges that he purchased digital videogames from the PlayStation Store. Second 25 Consolidated Amended Class Action Complaint ("SCACAC") ¶¶ 14–16. ECF No. 190. That Complaint
26 further alleges as follows: from the time of the PlayStation Store's launch in 2006 until April 2019, SIE
27 allowed Amazon, Best Buy, GameStop, Target, Wal-Mart and other third-party retailers to sell 28 PlayStation game-specific vouchers ("GSVs"). Id. ¶¶ 41–42. In April 2019, SIE eliminated the sale of

1 GSVs through all U.S. third-party retailers. Consumers were still able to purchase cash/gift cards from 2 these retailers for redemption of any digital games through the PlayStation Store as well as purchasing
3 games directly on the PlayStation Store. The SCACAC alleges that sales after April 1, 2019 were made 4 at supracompetitive prices. Id. ¶¶ 45, 50. SIE denies the allegations in the SCACAC.

5 On February 18, 2022, SIE moved to dismiss the Consolidated Class Action Complaint pursuant 6 to Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6). ECF No. 45. Chief Judge Seeborg granted, in part, the motion on the grounds 7 that, although Plaintiffs had “adequately alleged a cognizable aftermarket,” Plaintiffs failed to 8 adequately allege anticompetitive conduct under the Sherman Act. ECF No. 60 at 2. The Court granted
9 Plaintiffs leave to replead. Id. at 10. On August 15, 2022, Plaintiffs filed a Consolidated Amended Class 10 Action Complaint. ECF No. 61. SIE again moved to dismiss. ECF No. 67. On February 7, 2023, the 11 Court denied the motion on the grounds that Plaintiffs sufficiently pled the Qualcomm factors, including 12 the requirement that Defendant’s “only conceivable or rational purpose” was to exclude competition.
13 ECF No. 80. Plaintiff has filed the SCACAC to revise the Class definition to conform with the Class 14 defined in the Second Revised Settlement Agreement. ECF No. 190.

15 2. Discovery

16 Discovery began following the Court’s denial of SIE’s second motion to dismiss. Plaintiffs 17 served a first set of requests for the production of documents, approximately 35 requests, on April 28, 18 2023, to which SIE served objections and responses on May 30, 2023. On January 30, 2024, after an 19 extensive meet and confer process, SIE served amended objections and responses to Plaintiffs’ first set 20 of requests for production, reflecting certain compromises reached by the parties. On February 6, 2024, 21 Plaintiffs served a subpoena on third party The Value Engineers, Inc., a market research consulting firm
22 retained by SIE. On February 14, 2024, Plaintiffs served subpoenas on Amazon.com, Inc., Best Buy Co., 23 Inc, GameStop Corp., Target Corporation, and Walmart Inc., to obtain transactional data and other 24 documents. These retailers sold GSVs prior to the April 1, 2019 implementation of the decision to 25 eliminate the sale of GSVs at retail. SIE similarly served third-party subpoenas on the same retailers, as 26 well as certain other third parties whose productions were produced to Plaintiffs. In total, SIE produced 27 over 100,000 documents and voluminous transaction data, which Plaintiffs reviewed prior to conducting 28 settlement discussions. In addition, approximately 6,500 documents were produced from third parties

1 Amazon.com, Inc., Best Buy Co., Inc, GameStop Corp., Target Corporation, Walmart Inc., and The 2 Value Engineers, Inc.

3 SIE served a first set of requests for the production of documents on Plaintiffs on December 6, 4 2023, to which Plaintiffs responded on January 19, 2024. In total, Plaintiffs produced 2,164 documents
5 to SIE. A review of the data produced by SIE and third-party retailers established that retailers were 6 charging the manufacturer's suggested retail prices or prices higher than those being charged by SIE.
7 The data produced in the litigation indicates that certain consumers may have been injured concerning a 8 small number of digital games sold prior to and after April 1, 2019. But the indication from Plaintiffs'
9 economic expert, with the benefit of SIE and third-party productions, was that the damages and breadth 10 of injury as the operative complaint stood, were significantly smaller than initially anticipated 11 concerning digital games sold by SIE during the Class Period. See Procedural Guidance 1(c). Moreover, 12 Plaintiffs' expert conveyed that proving economic injury and resulting damages would be very 13 challenging in this case. Id.

14 Following the review of the documents and data produced in the litigation, Plaintiffs began 15 preparing for depositions and working with their expert concerning class certification. Plaintiffs noticed 16 thirteen Fed. R. Civ. P. 30(b)(1) depositions as well as a Fed. R. Civ. P. 30(b)(6) deposition of SIE.
17 Plaintiffs were fully prepared to take each scheduled SIE deposition of SIE's current and former 18 executives. Plaintiffs' counsel was also ready to defend the depositions of the three Plaintiffs. Plaintiffs 19 also initiated a Joint Brief to the Court to obtain specified depositions and documents, only some of 20 which the Court permitted.

21 On November 16, 2023, SIE preemptively filed a motion to deny class certification based 22 primarily on issues relating to contract terms for arbitration and waiver of the right to bring a class 23 action. The motion was fully briefed and argued on May 1, 2024. See ECF Nos. 124, 134, 136, 167. The 24 motion was denied, in part, on May 24, 2024, but the Court left open the very significant issues of 25 whether the class action waiver provision would impact certification of a class and whether the class
26 would be narrowed to exclude consumers who were under a prior SIE Terms of Service Agreement 27 given a change in the 2020 Terms of Service. ECF No. 167.

3. Settlement Negotiations

2 In August 2024, the parties agreed to privately engage Mr. Hockett, who served as the Court-
3 appointed early neutral evaluator, to explore potential resolution. After a number of separate and joint 4 mediation sessions over a three-week period, and with supervision and input from Mr. Hockett in 5 numerous private calls, the parties reached the proposed Settlement on September 15, 2024. See 6 Buchman Decl., Exhibit D, Declaration of Christopher B. Hockett dated August 6, 2025 (“Hockett
7 Decl.”) ¶¶ 5-8. This proposed Settlement was reached as a result of hard-fought and highly adversarial 8 litigation, and arm’s length negotiation with Mr. Hockett as intermediary, and only after two motions to 9 dismiss and a motion to preemptively deny class certification were briefed, argued, and resolved and 10 significant discovery was obtained from SIE and third parties. During discovery, the parties produced 11 and reviewed over one hundred thousand documents and substantial amounts of SIE transaction and 12 pricing data. The parties similarly served and responded to requests for production and had a discovery 13 dispute regarding the time frame of discovery and number of witnesses to be deposed resolved by the 14 Court. Additionally, the parties were prepared to take numerous depositions and Plaintiffs had input 15 from their economic expert. Plaintiffs were thus well-versed in the strengths and weaknesses of the case 16 and were well-positioned to assess and balance the risks and rewards of continuing to litigate.

17 There were a number of issues which made this case difficult and potentially problematic for 18 Plaintiffs. See Procedural Guidance 1(c). First, the number of games sold at retail was much smaller 19 than originally contemplated making the games in question here a small subset of the digital games sold
20 by SIE through the PlayStation Store. Id. Second, the smaller set of games meant that the class size 21 would be much smaller than initially contemplated. Id. Third, retailers were selling a number of digital 22 games at the same price as SIE or even at higher prices making the universe of actionable games and 23 quantum of damage even smaller, which made it more difficult to prove that SIE engaged in the 24 underlying conduct. Id. Fourth, establishing and proving damages would be challenging according to 25 Plaintiffs’ economic expert. Id. Fifth, the class action waiver issue remained outstanding under the 26 Court’s ruling on SIE’s denial of the preemptive class certification motion. That issue created significant 27 uncertainty about class size, let alone certification at all, going forward. Id. Sixth, SIE repeatedly argued 28 in court filings that the “only rationale or conceivable purpose” test under Qualcomm would be applied

1 to its decision to stop selling at retail. Id. This is a developing area of the law, the contours of which 2 were argued throughout this proceeding, and which raised additional risk and uncertainty. The existence
3 of these issues, individually and collectively, created considerable uncertainty about obtaining any relief 4 for the Class at trial, let alone on appeal, and support the view that resolution of this action at this time is 5 in the best interests of the Class. Id.

6 Plaintiff has entered into the proposed Settlement on behalf of himself and the proposed 7 Settlement Class. Pursuant to paragraphs 21 and 33 of the Second Revised Settlement Agreement, 8 Defendant makes no admissions as to the merits of the allegations in the Action and reserves its rights 9 accordingly. However, in recognition that further litigation could be burdensome, expensive, and 10 distracting, Defendant has determined that it is desirable for it to resolve this matter. The proposed 11 Settlement Class is defined as:

12 all persons in the United States who purchased through the PlayStation Store one or more 13 video games for which a game specific voucher (“GSV”) was available at retail prior to 14 April 1, 2019, for which a total of at least 200 GSV redemptions were made prior to April 15 1, 2019, and for which the post-discount price increased by at least fifty cents from: (a) the 16 period between January 1, 2017 and March 31, 2019; as compared to (b) the period between 17 April 1, 2019 and December 31, 2023. The class period shall be April 1, 2019 to December 18 31, 2023.

17 See Buchman Decl., Exhibit C, Second Revised Settlement Agreement at 3-4.

18 The following persons or entities are excluded from the Settlement Class:

- 19 a) Defendant and its counsel, officers, directors, management, 20 employees, parents, subsidiaries, and affiliates; and 21 b) the Court and its employees.

22 C. The Proposed Settlement is the Result of Arm’s Length Negotiations

23 The Proposed Settlement before this Court was the result of hard-fought, arm’s length 24 negotiation. The Ninth Circuit “put[s] a good deal of stock in the product of an arm’s length, non-25 collusive, negotiated resolution” when approving a class action settlement. Rodriguez v. West Publ’g 26 Corp., 563 F.3d 948, 965 (9th Cir. 2009). Class settlements are presumed fair when they are reached 27 “following sufficient discovery and genuine arm’s length negotiation[.]” See Nat’l Rural Telecomm.
28 Coop. v. DIRECTV, 221 F.R.D. 523, 528 (C.D. Cal. 2004); 4 A. Conte & H. Newberg, Newberg on

1 Class Actions at § 11.24 (4th ed. 2002). “The extent of discovery [also] may be relevant in determining 2 the adequacy of the parties’ knowledge of the case.” DIRECTV, 221 F.R.D. at 527 (quoting Manual for 3 Complex Litigation, Third § 30.42 (1995)). “A court is more likely to approve a settlement if most of the 4 discovery is completed because it suggests that the parties arrived at a compromise based on a full 5 understanding of the legal and factual issues surrounding the case.” Id. (quoting 5 Moore’s Federal 6 Practice, §23.85[2][e] (Matthew Bender 3d ed.)). With regard to discovery, this case was resolved after 7 meeting the Court imposed deadline for substantially completed document production. SIE has 8 represented during the course of the litigation that it has fully complied with this deadline. And 9 Plaintiffs’ counsel reviewed all the SIE and third party documents prior to reaching resolution in this 10 case.

11 Given that the Court has requested more fulsome discussion of the following eight “collusion 12 factors” identified in In re Bluetooth Headset Prod. Liab. Litig., 654 F. 3d 935, 938 (9th Cir. 2011), that 13 discussion follows below.

14 1. Strength of the Plaintiffs’ Case

15 The assessment of the strength of a case is “nothing more than an amalgam of delicate balancing, 16 gross approximations and rough justice.” Rodriguez, 563 F.3d at 965. This is a Section 2 refusal to deal 17 antitrust case under Aspen Skiing Co. v. Aspen Highland Skiing Corp., 472 U.S. 585 (1985), which is 18 recognized as an extremely challenging standard. To establish an Aspen Skiing refusal to deal claim, a 19 plaintiff must show: (i) “the unilateral termination of a voluntary and profitable course of dealing”; (ii) 20 “a willingness to sacrifice short term profits in order to obtain higher profits in the long run from the 21 exclusion of competition”; and (iii) a refusal to deal pertaining to “products that were already sold in a 22 retail market to other customers” Metronet Servs. Corp. v. Qwest Corp., 383 F.3d 1124, 1132-33 (9th 23 Cir. 2004). As Defendant repeatedly quoted from Chief Judge Seeborg’s second motion to dismiss 24 decision, this case “just barely” survived the motion to dismiss. See ECF. No. 80 at 3. Defendant also 25 routinely noted in its filings, and this is also relevant to Procedural Guidance 11 (Comparable Cases), 26 that the Ninth Circuit has rejected every single refusal-to-deal claim it has considered since the Supreme 27
28

1 Court decided Verizon v. Trinko in 2004. 540 U.S. 398 (2004).³ This case undoubtedly faced significant 2 legal challenges as it proceeded.

3 In addition, SIE filed a motion to preemptively deny class certification on the grounds that 4 arbitration and class waiver provisions in certain contracts precluded certification of a class. The Court 5 resolved that motion by denying it insofar as it pertained to compelling arbitration, but deferred ruling 6 on the class waiver claim, thereby leaving a serious issue which the Plaintiffs would need to address in 7 the future that the Court indicated may go against Plaintiffs.⁴ At the time these issues were argued and 8 adjudicated, Plaintiffs were reviewing documents, preparing for depositions and conducting a damages 9 analysis based upon the information and data received through discovery. The discovery, produced in 10 phases, plus additional discovery received at roughly the same time from the non-party retailers of SIE 11 games, indicated that: (i) only a select number of digital games were available at retail; and (ii) there 12 were major retailers charging prices at or above manufacturer's suggested resale prices, thereby 13 drastically minimizing damages in the case. Moreover, SIE also stated its intent to file an early motion 14 for summary judgment based solely on an element of an Aspen Skiing claim regarding whether the "only 15 conceivable rationale or purpose" for its decision to end game-specific download codes was to sacrifice 16 short-term benefits under Federal Trade Commission v. Qualcomm, Inc., 969 F.3d 974, 993-94 (9th Cir.
17 2004). SIE also reserved the right to file an additional summary judgment motion.⁵

18 2. The Risk Expense and Complexity

19 At the time of the Settlement, Plaintiffs had completed class certification document discovery.
20 Class certification, Daubert, additional potential discovery and summary judgment motions were on the 21 horizon. This three-year-old case would have likely faced at least another two to three years of hard-22 fought litigation concerning complex antitrust and economic issues described in the preceding point.

3. The Risk of Maintaining the Class Action Status Through Trial

At the time the parties entered into the proposed Settlement, Plaintiffs had not filed a motion for class certification and the Court indicated that it was taking seriously SIE's argument that due to contractual provisions the Class might not be able to be certified at all when ruling on SIE's preemptive motion to deny class certification. The Order on the motion left unresolved a serious contractual issue concerning whether Plaintiffs agreed to waive the ability to pursue certification of a Class. Given the outstanding issues concerning waiver and class damages there was significant risk of not obtaining and maintaining class action status throughout the trial.

4. The Settlement Amount

"[I]t is well settled law that a proposed settlement may be acceptable even though it amounts to only a fraction of the potential recovery that might be available to the class members at trial." DIRECTTV, 221 F.R.D. at 527 (collecting cases). At the time of the proposed Settlement, it was Plaintiff's understanding from consultation with their undisclosed economic expert that there were, at best, small damages under the Class definition as plead. One viable antitrust damages figure that Plaintiffs had confidence in during settlement negotiations was a $29.6 million overcharge, based on the number of existing games that increased prices at least $5 post April 2019. See Procedural Guidance 1(c).

In early 2024, Plaintiffs engaged in the Court Ordered ENE. See ECF Nos. 121, 137. In August, 2024, as depositions were about to get underway, counsel for SIE contacted Plaintiffs' counsel to discuss potential resolution of the matter. Counsel for SIE and Plaintiffs' counsel spoke that afternoon and agreed no settlement discussions should be had in the absence of Mr. Hockett given his understanding of the case through the ENE process.

On August 21, 2024, the parties communicated with Mr. Hockett to determine his interest and availability to serve as a settlement mediator. Mr. Hockett expressed his interest and availability and was engaged by the parties on or about August 21, 2024. Over the next three weeks, the parties met and participated in numerous communications with Mr. Hockett concerning potential settlement, reaching an agreement in principle on September 15, 2024. The $7,850,000 proposed Settlement represents a

1 significant recovery in light of the estimated damages and legal hurdles awaiting Plaintiff and members
2 of the Class at class certification and summary judgment.

3 5. The Extent of Discovery Completed

4 Plaintiffs served document requests on Defendant on April 28, 2023 and aggressively pursued
5 discovery. Defendant produced over 100,000 documents on a rolling basis. The retailers and a SIE
6 consultant produced over 6,000 documents. At the time the proposed Settlement was reached, Plaintiff
7 had reviewed all of the documents produced by SIE and the third parties and provided relevant 8 documents to the damages expert for evaluation and guidance. The parties were scheduled to start taking 9 depositions in the United States, Canada and the U.K. as the settlement discussions were commencing.
10 The parties agreed to reschedule the first few depositions in order to determine whether the matter could 11 be resolved and to avoid potential unnecessary costs. Ultimately, considerable travel and deposition 12 costs were avoided. In sum, significant document discovery was fully completed at the time the 13 proposed Settlement was reached, and counsel was able to spare the Class impending deposition related 14 expenses.

15 6. The Experience and Views of Counsel

16 The primary Plaintiffs' lawyers working on this case were at three different firms and each 17 individually has more than twenty-five years of large firm antitrust and/or complex class action
18 experience. Based upon the risks and rewards presented in this case it was the view of seasoned counsel 19 that this case faced significant risk: (i) at class certification based on the class waiver ruling alone, 20 without even getting into the normal challenges of satisfying the elements of class certification; (ii) on a 21 summary judgment motion on the case law about the sole purpose of SIE's change of retail sales model;
22 and (iii) the Aspen Skiing /Qualcomm standards. Moreover, Chief Judge Seeborg's motion to dismiss 23 rulings foreshadowed the difficulties of these types of claims. In addition, Plaintiffs' undisclosed 24 economic expert was of the private view that the case, as plead, would produce nominal damages. All 25 these factors combined indicated that the proposed Settlement would be a very good result relative to the 26 risk of recovering nothing. This proposed Settlement also provided the opportunity to cut off significant 27 discovery expenses that would be requested to be paid from any future award. Plaintiff's counsel 28 concluded that it is in the best interests of the Class to present this proposed Settlement to the Court for

1 consideration rather than face the uncertainty and time delay of future litigation and risk of no recovery 2 at all.

3 7. The Presence of Governmental Participation

4 At all relevant times, this case has been prosecuted by private plaintiffs. There is no known 5 government effort.

6 8. The Reaction of the Class Members to the Proposed Settlement

7 No notice, with an objection or opt-out period, has been issued from which one can glean the 8 reaction of the Class until a final approval hearing.

9 The Bluetooth case identifies three warning signs of a potentially collusive settlement: (i) 10 whether counsel receives a disproportionate distribution of the settlement, or the class receives no 11 monetary distribution but class counsel are amply rewarded; (ii) when the parties negotiate a clear 12 sailing arrangement providing for the payment of attorneys' fees separate and apart from class funds, 13 which carries the potential of enabling a defendant to pay class counsel excessive fees and costs in 14 exchange for counsel accepting an unfair settlement on behalf of the class; and (iii) when the parties 15 arrange for fees not awarded to revert to defendants rather than being added to the class fund.

16 Here, the Class is receiving the placement of cash equivalent credit in their PSN accounts for use 17 at the PlayStation Store. The Class is receiving a monetary benefit that is larger than the proposed 18 twenty-five percent fee that will be requested in this case. The requested fee is well below the 19 approximately $8 million in actual time Class Counsel has spent litigating this case. Counsel obtained 20 this benefit for the Class at a loss to themselves. The parties have not negotiated a "clear sailing" 21 provision as part of the proposed Settlement. And there is no reversion of any monies to SIE. For any 22 deactivated accounts entitled to receive a check from SIE, any monies which cannot be distributed may 23
24
25
26
27
28

1 be donated, with the Court’s approval, to either: (i) Code.Org⁶; or (ii) Girls Who Code.⁷ Thus, there are 2 no collusion “red flags” under Bluetooth, and Plaintiffs’ counsel readily represent directly to the Court
 3 that there was no collusion. See Buchman Decl., Exhibit D, Hockett Declaration ¶¶ 5-8.

4 In sum, the parties engaged in good faith, arm’s-length settlement negotiations through Mr.
 5 Hockett. Id. This case involved three years of hard-fought litigation involving: (i) two fully briefed and 6 argued motions to dismiss; (ii) a motion to preemptively deny class certification which deferred ruling
 7 on a key issue that the Court signaled could ultimately preclude class treatment; (iii) two discovery 8 related motions to compel (related to additional custodians and the relevant time period) where the 9 Plaintiffs’ requests were scaled back by the Court; and (iv) challenging damages.

10 D. Whether The Settlement’s PSN Credits Are “Coupons” Under Ninth Circuit Law

11 The Court has expressed a view that it considers that PSN account credits akin to “coupons” and 12 raised the issue whether they are disfavored. Order at 2; see also 28 U.S.C. § 1712. Under the Class 13 Action Fairness Act, Congress required heightened scrutiny of coupon-based settlements although 14 Congress did not define the term “coupon” in 28 U.S.C. § 1712. When assessing whether settlement 15 relief constitutes a “coupon,” the Ninth Circuit established the following three factors for courts to 16 consider in totality: (i) whether class members have ‘to hand over more of their own money before they 17 can take advantage of the relief; (ii) whether the relief is only valid for ‘select products or services’; and 18 (iii) how much flexibility the relief provides, including whether it expires or is freely transferrable.⁸ No

1 single factor is dispositive. McKnight, 54 F. 4th at 1075. Plaintiff respectfully submits that when the 2 Ninth Circuit test is applied, the PSN account credits are not “coupons”, and even if viewed as coupons
3 they should not be disfavored because of their positive characteristics in light of this Ninth Circuit test.
4 The credits here are fair, reasonable, and adequate relief in this case.

5 The following is an analysis to determine if the settlement credits are coupons under the 9th 6 Circuit’s three factors.

7 The First Factor: Class members will have a credit deposited directly into their respective PSN
8 account(s) without the burden of completing and mailing a claim form. Thus, the credits are readily 9 available for purchases and not subject to potential loss of use for failure to complete a claim form, or 10 inability to evidence a purchase. The estimated range of recovery for each eligible account is $0.91 to 11 $33.66 dollars assuming the attorneys’ fee is 25% of the proposed settlement, expenses are 12 approximately $660,000, Named Plaintiff service awards are $10,000 each and settlement administration 13 expenses are $160,000. The average recovery is estimated to be $1.14.

14 A Class member does not need to hand over more of their money to take advantage of the PSN 15 account credit. There is PSN digital content that Class Members have been historically purchasing (i.e.
16 games and add-on content) at the PlayStation Store that costs less than $1.⁹ See also Hendricks, 754 F.
17 App’x at 512 (finding vouchers for Tuna “had sufficient value that class members could use them to 18 purchase [the product] without additional out-of-pocket expense.”). Here, it bears mentioning that PSN
19 digital games are prone to frequent purchases by consumers. According to SIE, on average the accounts 20 covered by the proposed Settlement Agreement purchased 22.2 games and 43.5 distinct products during 21 the Class Period. To be sure, this factor weighs against calling the credits a coupon. Class members can 22 avoid spending additional out of pocket money on products to use their credits and take advantage of 23 this proposed Settlement. Settlement Class members will also benefit from the administrative ease of 24 having the credit automatically deposited into their account and applied to the next purchase they are 25 already prone to make on their own. Additionally, Class members who no longer maintain a PSN
26 account can contact the Settlement Administrator to obtain their entitlement as a check, which augers 27

28 _____
⁹ See n.11(providing example games and prices).

1 against deeming this credit a coupon. See McKnight, 54 F. 4th at 1075-76 (a coupon settlement does not 2 arise under the first factor where class members can request their reward up-front in cash).

3 The Second Factor: the credit which will be placed in the PSN accounts of eligible Class
4 members is not limited to “select products or purchases.” McKnight, 54 F.4th at 1075. The PSN account
5 credits can be freely used by the eligible Class member concerning any digital game or add-on content
6 available for sale at any time on the PlayStation Store. There are no product, price, timing, black-out 7 dates or other restrictions. Indeed, once the credit is deposited into a Class member’s account, it is 8 immediately part of the other funds that a Class member may have in her/his digital wallet for general 9 use. Simply put, the proposed Settlement consideration provided to Settlement Class members may be 10 used whenever and however an eligible Class member decides without restriction in the PlayStation 11 Store. This factor weighs against being considered a coupon.

12 The Third Factor: this factor concerns the flexibility the credit provides such as whether it 13 expires or is freely transferrable. Here, although the PSN account credit is not transferable, the credit 14 never expires. Lack of expiration weighs against being a coupon when considered with lack of 15 transferability, this factor is at worst neutral as to the two indicators split.

16 For many of the reasons elucidated above, the Ninth Circuit has affirmed district court 17 determinations that a Settlement does not constitute a form of coupon relief. In Henricks v. Ference, for 18 example, the Ninth Circuit agreed that a voucher for tuna should not be deemed a coupon Settlement.
19 Hendricks v. Ference, 754 F. App'x 510, 512 (9th Cir. 2018). There, as is the case with PlayStation 20 Network credits, vouchers never expired. See id. Class members could purchase the tuna product without 21 additional out-of-pocket expense. See id. Here, because there is digital gaming content available for 22 nominal amounts, a class member can purchase PlayStation digital gaming content without additional 23 out-of-pocket expense. The Ninth Circuit similarly affirmed the district court’s ruling in In re Online 24 DVD-Rental Antitrust Litig., finding that the settlement gift cards in question were not coupons because 25 class members could use the gift card “on any item carried on the website of a giant, low cost retailers” 26 and a “class member need not spend any of his or her own money and can choose from a large number of 27 potential items to purchase.” In re Online DVD-Rental Antitrust Litig., 779 F.3d 934, 949-51 (9th Cir.
28 2015). These facts are just as true for the Settlement here. Class members can apply these settlement

1 credits to purchase any item on the PlayStation Store—which is a large online retailer of digital gaming
2 content. As noted above, because content is available for nominal PlayStation gaming credits, a class 3 member can procure gaming content through the use of these credits alone (i.e. without the use of 4 additional funds).

5 Should the Court determine that the Settlement here constitutes a form of coupon relief, then 6 CAFA requires that before a district court may approve a “coupon settlement,” it must “determine 7 whether, and mak[e] a written finding that, the settlement is fair, reasonable, and adequate for class 8 members.” 28 U.S.C. § 1712(e). If, and after, a determination is made that the settlement relief consists 9 of coupons, courts typically identify “three primary concerns with coupon settlements”: (1) they can fail 10 to provide meaningful compensation to class members; (2) they can fail to disgorge ill-gotten gains from 11 the defendant; and (3) they can require class members to do future business with the defendant in order 12 to receive compensation.¹⁰ None of these concerns is a reason to deny preliminary approval here.

13 First, the settlement provides meaningful compensation to class members. There are games and 14 add-on items available on the PSN Store that cost less than $1 at any given time.¹¹ Games and other 15 content regularly go on sale on the PSN Store, so class members have a constantly changing selection of 16 low-price content available for purchase. Given the “low prices common to much of [SIE’s] inventory,” 17 the credits give class members “adequate purchasing power.” Rael, 2021 WL 1226475, at *8. Indeed, 18 class members can use the credits to purchase content from the PSN Store without spending any of their 19 own money—one of the main factors in determining whether settlement relief even constitutes a coupon 20 subject to heightened scrutiny. See McKnight, 54 F. 4th at 1075.

23 ¹⁰ Rael v. Children's Place, Inc., 2021 WL 1226475, at *8 (S.D. Cal. Mar. 30, 2021) (citing Figueroa v.
24 Sharper Image Corp., 517 F. Supp. 2d 1292, 1302 (S.D. Fla. 2007)).

25 ¹¹ For example, as of August 15, 2025, the following games are all available on the PSN Store for less 26 than $1: World Explorer Challenge (Sale Price: $0.49; Regular Price: $0.99); Twins of Legacy: 27 Elemental (Sale Price: $0.49; Regular Price: $0.99); and Simple Dominoes (Sale Price: $0.74; Regular 28 Price: $2.49). PSN Store, World Explorer Challenge (accessed Aug. 15, 2025), <https://store.playstation.com/en-us/concept/10012969>; PSN Store, Twins of Legacy: Elemental (accessed Aug. 15, 2025), <https://store.playstation.com/en-us/concept/10012150>; PSN Store, Simple Dominoes (accessed Aug. 15, 2025), <https://store.playstation.com/en-us/concept/10012348>. Of the approximately 10,000 games on the PlayStation Store there have been approximately 1,200 games for $1.99 or less, approximately 504 games under $1.00 and approximately 118 games for .91 cents or less.

1 Second, SIE incurs a financial loss in profit equal to the amount of each redeemed credit, which 2 “adversely impacts [SIE’s] bottom line.” Rael, 2021 WL 1226475, at *8. Where, as here, the alleged 3 “ill-gotten gains” imposed “little cost on class members,” this is more than sufficient to mitigate this 4 concern. Salmonson v. Bed Bath and Beyond, Inc., 2013 WL 12171817, at *5 (C.D. Cal. Mar. 14, 5 2013).

6 Third, while class members receiving PSN credits necessarily will have to conduct business with 7 SIE to spend the credit, nearly all these class members already have an ongoing consumer relationship 8 with SIE given their selection of the PlayStation platform to play games. Only class members with 9 active PSN accounts will receive credits. All other class members will be entitled to a check in the 10 amount of the credit. In other words, the credits are going to class members who previously elected to 11 do business with SIE. The credit is not forcing any class member to do continue business with SIE who 12 would rather have no relationship with SIE.

13 Ultimately, “one must ask whether the value of relief in the aggregate is a reasonable 14 approximation of the value of plaintiffs’ claim.” See In re Mexico Money Transfer Litigation, 267 F.3d 15 743, 748–49 (7th Cir. 2001) (approving a coupon settlement which was likely to provide only 10% net 16 value of the face value of the coupons); Mendez v. C-Two Group, Inc., 2017 WL 1133371, at (N.D. Cal.
17 Mar. 27, 2017) (preliminarily approving settlement where coupon value was “substantially lower than 18 their ... face value” given the “substantial unlikelihood that Plaintiff would survive Defendant’s motion 19 for summary judgment”). Given the significant litigation risk Plaintiffs face and the resulting value of 20 Plaintiffs’ claims, Plaintiff believes the settlement provides meaningful value to class members similar 21 to the value of their claims. Thus, the proposed Settlement Agreement warrants preliminary approval 22 regardless of whether it involves “coupons.”

23 E. The Settlement Is Fair, Reasonable and Adequate/Procedural Guidance

24 On December 13, 2024, Plaintiff filed a motion for preliminary approval of the proposed 25 Settlement with SIE, preliminary approval of the form and manner of notice to the Class, preliminary 26 approval of a plan of allocation, to schedule a fairness hearing for final approval and certification of a 27 proposed Settlement Class. ECF No. 191. Following scheduling direction from the Court, Plaintiff 28 refiled that motion on March 13, 2025 and noticed the motion for a new hearing date on July 17, 2025.

1 ECF No. 195. The hearing, initially set for July 17, 2025, was vacated by the Court which later issued an 2 Order on the motion on July 17, 2025. ECF No. 199.

3 The Order denied Plaintiff's motion with leave to refile by August 18, 2025. Id. at 3. The motion
4 was denied for not adequately addressing the Procedural Guidance. Id. at 1. Plaintiff files this renewed 5 motion to strictly adhere to the Court's directive, address the substantive issues raised by the Court in 6 the Order, at the last hearing on January 29, 2026 and to comprehensively address seriatim each 7 Procedural Guidance.

8 As demonstrated below, Plaintiff respectfully submits that the Procedural Guidance factors are 9 satisfied in this case and preliminary approval should be granted.

10 1. Identity of the Settlement Class – Procedural Guidance 1(a)

11 This Court's Procedural Guidance requires that where, as here, a class has not been certified, a 12 motion for preliminary approval must state "any differences between the settlement class and the class 13 proposed in the operative complaint ... and an explanation as to why the differences are appropriate."
14 Procedural Guidance § 1(a).

15 The Settlement Class appropriately differs from the class initially proposed by Plaintiffs.
16 Plaintiffs originally defined the proposed class (the "Original Class") as follows:

17 All persons in the United States, exclusive of Sony and its employees, agents and affiliates, 18 and the Court and its employees, who purchased any digital video game content directly 19 from the PlayStation Store at any time from April 1, 2019 through the present.

19 CACAC ¶ 78.

20 After conducting extensive discovery, the parties stipulated to the filing of a Second 21 Consolidated Amended Class Action Complaint containing an amended class definition, which this 22 Court Ordered. ECF Nos. 188-189. The proposed Settlement Class is identical to the now-operative 23 class definition and is defined as follows:

24 All persons in the United States who purchased through the PlayStation Network ("PSN") 25 Store one or more video games for which a game specific code voucher ("GSV") was 26 available at retail prior to April 1, 2019, for which a total of at least 200 GSV redemptions 27 were made prior to April 1, 2019, and for which the post-discount price increased by at 28 least fifty cents from: (a) the period between January 1, 2017 and March 31, 2019; as compared to (b) the period between April 1, 2019 and December 31, 2023. The class period shall be April 1, 2019 to December 31, 2023.

1 Buchman Decl., Exhibit C, Second Revised Settlement Agreement at 3; see also SCACAC ¶ 78.

2 The primary differences between the Original Class and the Settlement Class are as follows: (1) 3 the Settlement Class is limited to persons who purchased a video game through the PSN Store for which 4 a GSV was once available at retail, whereas the Original Class included all persons who purchased any 5 digital video game content through the PSN Store regardless of whether that content was ever
6 purchasable via a GSV; (2) the Settlement Class requires that the purchased game had at least 200 GSV 7 redemptions prior to April 1, 2019; and (3) the Settlement Class requires that the post-discount price of 8 the purchased game increased by at least fifty cents between the pre-period (January 1, 2017 to March 9 31, 2019) and the class period (April 1, 2019 to December 31, 2023).¹²

10 Plaintiff alleges that SIE's decision to discontinue the sale of GSVs eliminated retail competition 11 for digital video game content and allowed SIE to sell such content on the PSN Store at 12 supracompetitive prices. However, discovery revealed that a number of persons who purchased digital 13 video game content from the PSN Store were not harmed by SIE's decision to halt the sale of GSVs, 14 and, therefore, the Original Class was overbroad for two reasons. First, discovery showed that SIE only 15 stopped selling GSVs for digital video games, rather than for all digital video game content, and that 16 many of the digital video games available on the PSN Store were never capable of being purchased via 17 GSV. Persons who did not purchase a digital video game on the PSN Store, or who purchased a digital 18 video game that was never offered as a GSV, therefore, do not appear to have been harmed by SIE's 19 decision to stop the sale of GSVs. The presence of uninjured class members can render a class definition 20 overbroad, and "can and often should be solved by refining the class definition", which is the approach 21 Plaintiff has taken here.¹³ Had these persons remained in the Settlement Class, then they would have 22 been required to release their claims without any entitlement to recovery because class members may 23 not recover under a settlement unless they were legally harmed by the alleged conduct. See In re Citric
24 Acid Antitrust Litig., 145 F. Supp. 2d 1152, 1155-1156 (N.D. Cal. 2001) (recognizing that "a class 25
26

27 ¹² The only other difference between the Original Class and the Settlement Class is the class period, 28 which was revised to include an end date.

¹³ Olean Wholesale Grocery Coop., Inc. v. Bumble Bee Foods LLC, 31 F.4th 651, 669 n.14 (9th Cir. 2022) (quoting Messner v. Northshore Univ. HealthSystem, 669 F.3d 802, 825 (7th Cir. 2012)).

1 member should be legally harmed in order to recover, a principle in keeping with other courts”).¹⁴
2 Amending the Class definition was the appropriate way to resolve this concern while allowing non-class 3 members to pursue their claim if they so desire without giving a release here.

4 Even for the digital video games that had been purchasable via a GSV, Plaintiffs learned that 5 there is a significant number of digital games for which there were de minimis GSV redemptions during 6 the two-year pre-period. Many digital games were purchased almost exclusively on the PSN Store even 7 though they could be purchased at retail. SIE’s decision to halt the sale of GSVs thus would have had 8 very little—if any—impact on the price of such games because there already was no actual retail 9 competition. In recognition of this fact, Plaintiff agreed to a nominal GSV-redemption requirement to 10 ensure the Class is limited to persons with colorable legal claims. The parties concluded that digital 11 games with fewer than 200 GSV redemptions could not support a colorable legal claim because the PSN 12 Store accounted for more than ninety-nine percent of total sales of these games before SIE decided to 13 stop the sale of GSVs. Second, the Original Class was overbroad in that it included persons who only 14 purchased digital games on the PSN Store whose post-discount price went down between the pre-period
15 and the Class Period. Discovery showed that the average post-discount purchase price of PSN Store
16 games decreased after April 1, 2019, which ran counter to Plaintiffs’ theory that PSN Store games
17 would become more expensive once retail competition was eliminated. To the extent the average post-
18 discount price increased at all, the change was minimal. To ensure the Class is limited only to persons 19 who potentially paid a supracompetitive (i.e., higher) price for a digital game because of SIE’s decision
20 to stop the sale of GSVs, the parties agreed to impose a de minimis price-increase threshold of fifty 21 cents. Fifty cents was selected as the threshold to reduce the potential that small price fluctuations 22 between the pre-period and the class period—in other words, noisy data—would have a significant 23 impact on the Settlement Class and the amount each class member would recover.

24 In addition to resolving concerns that the Original Class included persons who experienced no 25 legal harm, the differences between the Original Class and the Settlement Class also ensure that 26

27 ¹⁴ See also In re Chicken Antitrust Litig. Am. Poultry, 669 F.2d 228, 238 (5th Cir. 1982) (finding it 28 “would have been an abuse of the court’s discretion” to allow persons “without any colorable legal claims” to receive settlement proceeds).

1 Settlement Class members will obtain a more meaningful recovery.¹⁵ Indeed, not imposing these de 2 minimis requirements would significantly increase the size of the Settlement Class and reduce the 3 recovery for persons with colorable legal claims. Removing the GSV-redemption requirement would 4 add more than two million class members and result in most class members receiving a credit of less 5 than a dollar. Removing the price-increase threshold would have even more significant repercussions, 6 adding approximately twenty million class members and reducing the average recovery to less than a 7 quarter. Removing both requirements would further reduce class member recovery and result in a 8 settlement class consisting mostly of persons who could not have been plausibly harmed by the decision 9 to stop selling GSVs. Because the differences between the Settlement Class and the Original Class are 10 tailored to ensure the Class encompasses the persons who may have been harmed by SIE’s conduct and 11 to provide a meaningful recovery for those persons, the changes to the Class definition are appropriate.

12 2. Release of Claims – Procedural Guidance 1(b)

13 The Procedural Guidance requires Plaintiff to state any differences between the claims to be 14 released and the claims in the complaint and explain why the differences are appropriate. Procedural 15 Guidance §1(b).

16 The Settlement Agreement provides that Plaintiff and Class members will release:
17 SIE and its respective past, present, and future, direct and indirect, parents, subsidiaries, 18 divisions, affiliates, predecessors, successors, assigns, insurers, joint ventures, and 19 stockholders, and their respective past, present, and future officers, directors, management 20 companies, financial or investment advisors, co-investors, bankers, accountants, executors, 21 trustees, administrators, supervisory boards, insurers, general or limited partners, 22 employees, agents, trusts, trustees, associates, attorneys and any of their legal 23 representatives, or any other representatives thereof ... from any and all past, present, or 24 future liabilities, claims, demands, obligations, suits, injuries, damages, levies, executions, 25 judgments, debts, charges, actions, or causes of action of every nature and description, at 26 law or in equity, whether arising under federal, state, common, or foreign law, whether 27 class, individual, or otherwise in nature, and whether known or unknown, foreseen or 28 unforeseen, suspected or unsuspected, contingent or non-contingent, arising out of or relating to any of the allegations, transactions, facts, matters, occurrences, representations, or omissions involved, set forth, or referred to in any complaint, pleading, or motion filed in this action at any time prior to October 10, 2024.

Buchman Decl., Exhibit C, Second Revised Settlement Agreement ¶ 16.

¹⁵ See In re Chrysler-Dodge-Jeep Ecodiesel Mktg., Sales Pracs., & Prods. Liab. Litig., 2019 WL 536661, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 11, 2019) (granting preliminary approval of settlement in which the class was narrowed to ensure “sufficient compensation remains available” for class members).

1 The released claims differ from the claims asserted in the Complaint only in that the Settlement
2 Agreement releases claims arising out of or related to the allegations in the Complaint that could have 3 been, but were not, asserted against SIE or other released parties. The scope of the release is consistent 4 with governing standards in this Circuit.¹⁶ Class Recovery – Procedural Guidance 1(c).

5 3. Class Recovery – Procedural Guidance 1(c)

6 Had Plaintiffs fully prevailed on each of their claims, Plaintiff believes the potential recovery on 7 the original claims nonetheless would have been nominal, at best, as explained in Section II.E(1). The 8 $7,850,000 settlement amount, less fees and costs, represents an excellent recovery for the proposed 9 Class, with Plaintiffs’ anticipated damages models estimating a ceiling of $29.6m based on the number 10 of existing games that increased in price at least $5 post April 2019. This approximately 25% single 11 damages recovery falls within the range of reasonableness.

12 4. Cases Affected by the Settlement - Procedural Guidance 1(d)

13 To the best of Plaintiff’s knowledge, there are no other presently filed cases which will be 14 affected by the settlement in this case. Counsel for SIE confirmed that this is SIE’s belief as well.

15 5. Allocation Plan - Procedural Guidance 1(e)

16 The Agreement provides for a fair allocation of the Settlement Amount among all Class 17 Members whether they have an active PSN account or not. The parties propose that the Settlement 18 Amount will be distributed pro rata based on the number of eligible games (“Covered Games”) 19 purchased by each Settlement Class member. Buchman Decl., Exhibit E. Covered Games are defined as 20 games for which there were at least 200 GSV redemptions on the PlayStation Store prior to April 1, 21 2019, and which increased in average post-discount price by at least fifty cents between: (a) the period 22 between January 1, 2017 and March 31, 2019; as compared to (b) the period between April 1, 2019 and 23 December 31, 2023. Based on SIE’s preliminary analysis, there are approximately 103 Covered Games.

25 ¹⁶ See e.g., In re Anthem, Inc. Data Breach Litig., 327 F.R.D. 299, 327 (N.D. Cal. 2018) (approving 26 class settlement release of claims “related to or arising from any of the facts alleged in any of the 27 Actions”); Custom LED, LLC v. eBay, Inc., 2013 WL 6114379, at *4 (N.D. Cal. Nov. 20, 2013) 28 (approving release of claims “arising out of or relating in any way to any of the legal, factual, or other allegations made in the Action, or any legal theories that could have been raised based on the allegations of the Action.”); see also Hesse v. Sprint Corp., 598 F.3d 581, 590 (9th Cir. 2010) (claims appropriately included in scope of release can include any claim “based on the identical factual predicate as that underlying the claims in the settled class action”).

1 SIE will identify all PlayStation accounts that have purchased Covered Games and will directly 2 distribute, with the assistance and oversight of a Court appointed Settlement Administrator, the 3 Settlement credits—net of Court-approved attorneys’ fees, costs, expenses, and services awards for the 4 Named Plaintiffs—to each eligible PSN account. Id. Based on SIE’s preliminary analysis, 4,407,533
5 individual PSN accounts purchased at least one Covered Game during the Class Period. Some class
6 members may have multiple eligible PlayStation accounts, so the number of Class members may be less 7 than 4.4 million persons.

8 This amount will be distributed in the form of PSN account credits, which can be redeemed for 9 any content available for purchase in the PlayStation Store, and will be deposited directly in Settlement 10 Class members’ PSN accounts. Any Settlement Class member who previously had a PSN account, but 11 who deactivated that account can contact the case 877 number, the case specific email address, or the 12 case specific mailing address to provide qualifying account and game purchase information as well as a 13 current mailing address to obtain monies, via U.S. mail, under the proposed Settlement.

14 6. Submission of Claim Form - Procedural Guidance 1(f)

15 No claim form is required to collect under the proposed Settlement. Class members who 16 maintain an active PSN account will have credits automatically deposited into their accounts. Funding 17 the PSN accounts under the proposed Settlement to the eligible class members is frictionless.
18 As referenced immediately above, the Class members who do not maintain a current PSN account may 19 contact the Settlement Administrator to request a check for their respective portion of the Settlement 20 benefit. Accordingly, Class members who will likely receive their settlement benefit in this case is close 21 to 100%, the exception being only those individuals who closed accounts and either: (i) did not leave
22 current contact information; or (ii) do not contact the Claims Administrator based upon publication 23 notice.

24 7. Reversions - Procedural Guidance 1(g)

25 No money will revert to SIE under the proposed Settlement.

26 8. Settlement Administration – Procedural Guidance 2

27 A.B. Data is the proposed Settlement Administrator. A.B. Data was selected based upon a two 28 firm competitive bidding process. A.B. Data was ultimately selected following evaluation of the bids

1 based upon its years of experience, work with Plaintiffs' Counsel, and also the willingness and 2 confidence of SIE to rely on A.B. Data to competently administer the settlement and handle SIE's 3 confidential customer data related to administration.

4 This case presents a rather unique situation where the Settlement Administrator will be working 5 closely with Plaintiff's Counsel, but more importantly directly with SIE in connection with the funding 6 of Class members' PSN accounts. This will be necessary to ensure most Class members will, without 7 any effort, receive their settlement allotment automatically in their PSN account. The Settlement 8 Administrator will also work closely with SIE to administer settlement funds to Class members who no
 9 longer possess active PSN accounts. The need for seamless coordination with both counsel for Plaintiff 10 and SIE is an important consideration here. A.B. Data has worked with Plaintiffs' Counsel on other 11 matters over the past two years which will ensure the level of coordination and accuracy necessary to 12 distribute the settlement credits to Class members' PSN accounts.¹⁷

13 A.B. Data possesses the administrative tools, physical controls, retention, destruction, audit and 14 crisis response ability, requested by the Court in the Procedural Guidance. See Buchman Decl., Exhibit 15 F, Declaration of Elaine Pang dated February 26, 2026 ("Pang Decl.," ¶¶ 22-24. A.B. Data also accepts 16 responsibility for maintaining Class member information and data while also maintaining adequate 17 errors and omissions insurance, a fidelity bond for employee dishonesty and network/information 18 liability coverage. The anticipated administrative costs in this case are estimated to be $160,000.00. The 19 proposed Settlement placing PSN credits directly into eligible Class members' accounts is the most 20 administratively feasible and cost effective manner to effectuate the settlement. Absent this present 21 approach, administrative costs would expand considerably.

22 9. Notice – Procedural Guidance 3

23 The Notices have been prepared in plain language which can be easily understood by potential 24 Class members. See Buchman Decl., Exhibit F, Pang Decl., ¶ 20. Paragraphs 6-14, 16 and 19 of the 1 Pang Declaration provide the manner in which the proposed notice shall be effectuated in this case.

2 Direct mail notice will be provided through email communications with specific Class members who 3 hold PSN accounts. This is robust direct contact since SIE has confirmed that the e-mail address bounce-
4 back rate is approximately 10% or less. This direct email notice will be coupled with paid and earned 5 media notice in order to effectuate comprehensive notice and the best notice practicable. The paid 6 media, print and digital advertising will complement the email notice. This component of the notice will 7 involve publication of a one page, full-page publication of the Short Form Notice in PC Gamer
8 Magazine with a circulation of 158,767. Digital banner advertisements will appear on targeted gaming
9 related websites such as Wired.com, PC Gamer.com and others with an estimated 1.5 million
10 impressions electronically delivered to potential Settlement Class members. The banner advertisements 11 will include an embedded link to the case specific website in order to provide more detailed information.
12 A news release will also issue on PR Newswire's US1 Newswire and reach traditional television, radio, 13 newspaper and magazine, media outlets across the United States. News of the settlement will also be 14 tweeted on X, formerly known as Twitter, and on PR Newswire and A. B.'s Data's X accounts. Notably,

9 12. Attorneys’ Fees and Costs – Procedural Guidance 6

10 Plaintiff will respectfully seek the payment of attorneys’ fees not to exceed 25% of the 11 Settlement Amount. The estimated lodestar is approximately $8.7 million. Even if the Court were to 12 award a 25% fee, that fee award would be $1,962,500.00 which is well below the $8.7 million estimated 13 lodestar and would result in a negative multiplier. Costs and expenses are estimated to be approximately 14 $670,000.00. Pursuant to the Court’s Order below is a chart identifying the potential attorneys’ fees, 15 costs, service awards, and administrative costs:

Attorneys’ Fees (25%)	$1,962,500.00
Costs/Expenses	Approx. $670,000.00
Service Awards	$30,000.00 ($10,000 each)
Administration Costs	Approx. $160,000.00

20 13. Service Awards – Procedural Guidance 7

21 Plaintiff will respectfully request service awards not to exceed $10,000.00. With regard to 22 Messrs. Caccuri, and Neumark if the Court is not inclined to allow the service award from the settlement 23 fund then counsel propose a reduction in the amount of the attorneys’ fees to create a separate fund for 24 their service awards Preliminary approval of this settlement should not depend on whether this Court 25 agrees that Messrs. Cacurri, Cendejas or Neumark are entitled to receive a service award.

26 The amount of the proposed awards are consistent with similar service awards regularly 27 approved in class actions in this district.¹⁸ Messrs. Cacurri, Cendejas and Neumark worked with Class

 2 documents; and (iii) deposition preparation for their appearance at a deposition. Messrs. Caccuri, 3 Cendejas, and Neumark spent considerable time and effort throughout this litigation complying with 4 discovery propounded on them, which included imaging of their phones and computers, and conferring 5 about case status and the settlement discussions. They attended the ENE while facing the risk of 6 negative publicity and notoriety. Their collective participation enabled this case to proceed for the 7 benefit of the proposed Settlement Class and facilitated this proposed Settlement. While only Mr.
 8 Cendejas is in the Settlement Class, they all participated in the case to achieve this result for the benefit 9 of the proposed Settlement Class. See also p. 33, Section 2(c) below.

10 14. Cy Pres – Procedural Guidance 8

11 In the rare event that a Settlement Class member no longer has a PSN account and the Settlement 12 Administrator/SIE is unable to distribute a check to that Class Member, monies will not revert to SIE.
 13 Any monies which cannot be distributed may be donated, with the Court’s approval, to either: (i)
 14 Code.Org; or (ii) Girls Who Code. unless the Court desires that the money be distributed to some other 15 charitable organization. See n 6 & 7.

16 15. Timeline – Procedural Guidance 9

17 The proposed opt-out and objection period in this case complies with the Procedural Guidance of 18 at least a 35-day requirement. Here, it has been proposed that the Class members have 85 days after 19 entry of the Preliminary Approval Order to opt-out or object to the proposed Settlement.

20 16. CAFA – Procedural Guidance 10

21 SIE timely provided notice of Plaintiffs’ prior motion for preliminary approval of the Settlement
 22 (ECF No. 195) as required by the Class Action Fairness Act (“CAFA”), 28. U.S.C. § 1711 et seq. Upon 23 filing of the instant motion, SIE will again provide timely notice of such motion as required by CAFA.

F. The Court Should Preliminarily Approve the Proposed Settlement

The Ninth Circuit maintains a “strong judicial policy that favors settlements” in class actions. Class Plaintiffs v. City of Seattle, 955 F.2d 1268, 1276 (9th Cir. 1992). At the preliminary approval stage, the Court “need not make a final determination regarding the fairness, reasonableness or adequateness of the proposed settlement.” In re High-Tech Emp. Antitrust Litigation., No. 11-cv-02509, 2015 WL 12991307, at *1 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 3, 2015). To grant preliminary approval, the Court need only determine that the proposed settlement substantively falls “within ‘the range of reasonableness.’” Id. (quoting 4 Albert Conte & Herbert Newberg, Newberg on Class Actions § 11.25 (4th ed. 2002)).²⁰ The proposed Settlement is well within the range of fair, reasonable, and adequate. See Section II.C.

1. Procedural Considerations

The Court may consider whether “the class representatives and class counsel have adequately represented the class” and whether “the proposal was negotiated at arm’s length.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(2)(A)-(B). As the Advisory Committee notes suggest, these are “matters that might be described as ‘procedural’ concerns, looking to the conduct of the litigation and the negotiations leading up to the 1 proposed settlement.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(2)(A)-(B) advisory committee’s note to 2018 amendment.

2 These concerns implicate factors such as the non-collusive nature of the negotiations, as well as the 3 extent of discovery completed and stage of the proceedings. See Hanlon v. Chrysler Corp., 150 F.3d
4 1011, 1026 (9th Cir. 1998). See Section II. B., and C.

5 a. Adequate Representation of the Class

6 As described above, Plaintiff is an adequate representative of the proposed Settlement Class. Mr.
7 Cendejas and the proposed Settlement Class members suffered the same injuries in the form of 8 overcharges and have the same interest as every other member of the proposed Settlement Class in 9 proving that Defendant acted unlawfully. Furthermore, Plaintiff is represented by seasoned counsel with 10 extensive antitrust and complex litigation experience. The three primary lawyers on this case each have:
11 (i) more than twenty-five years of class action antitrust experience; (ii) worked at two of the largest class 12 action firms in the country; and (iii) have been involved in some of the largest U.S. antitrust and 13 complex litigations. Counsel here have tenaciously pursued Plaintiff’s claims, and those of the Class, for 14 over three years. The efforts undertaken thus far in this case should give the Court confidence in the 15 adequate representation of the proposed Settlement Class.

16 2. Substantive Considerations

17 Rules 23(e)(2)(C) and (D) set forth factors for preliminarily conducting “a ‘substantive’ review 18 of the terms of the proposed settlement.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(2)(C)-(D) advisory committee’s note to 19 2018 amendment. In determining whether “the relief provided for the class is adequate,” courts 20 consider: “(i) the costs, risks, and delay of trial and appeal; (ii) the effectiveness of any proposed method 21 of distributing relief to the class, including the method of processing class-member claims; (iii) the 22 terms of any proposed award of attorney’s fees, including timing of payment; and (iv) any agreement
23 required to be identified under Rule 23(e)(3).” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(2)(C). In addition, the Court 24 must consider whether “the proposal treats class members equitably relative to each other.” Fed. R. Civ.
25 P. 23(e)(2)(D).

26 a. Strength of Class Plaintiffs’ Case and Risks of Continued Litigation

27 In determining the likelihood of a plaintiff’s success on the merits of a class action, “the district 28 court’s determination is nothing more than an amalgam of delicate balancing, gross approximations and

1 rough justice.” Officers for Justice v. Civil Serv. Comm’n, 688 F.2d 615, 625 (9th Cir. 1982) (internal 2 quotations omitted). The court may “presume that through negotiation, the Parties, counsel, and 3 mediator arrived at a reasonable range of settlement by considering Plaintiff’s likelihood of recovery.”
4 Garner v. State Farm. Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 2010 WL 1687832, at *9 (N.D. Cal. Apr. 22, 2010) (citing 5 Rodriguez, 563 F.3d at 965).

6 Here, a favorable outcome at class certification and trial, and a damages award against Defendant 7 was far from assured and there were significant uncertainties and difficult issues as detailed above. In 8 addition, Defendant, and experts it is likely to offer, would surely contest every theory of liability and 9 measure of damages. There are, for example, substantial disputes as to: (i) whether the alleged market 10 for digital PlayStation games is a valid antitrust market; (ii) whether SIE monopolized or attempted to 11 monopolize the alleged market for digital PlayStation games; (iii) whether Plaintiffs and members of 12 any certified class suffered causal antitrust injury as a result of SIE’s alleged monopolization of the 13 alleged market for digital PlayStation games; and (iv) whether there was an established Section 2 14 refusal-to-deal claim based on the termination of GSVs at retailers when general purpose voucher codes 15 (gift/cash cards) were still available that could be used to buy any game in the PlayStation Store rather 16 than just specific named games. There was also the additional question of the quantum of damages given 17 that retailers were charging consumers SIE’s manufacturer’s suggested retail prices or prices higher than 18 SIE was charging.²¹ The discovery revealed that potential damages in this case were, therefore, smaller 19 than initially contemplated. See also Section II.B.2.

20 b. The Settlement Provides Adequate Relief to the Settlement Class

21 The proposed Settlement provides substantial consideration for the benefit of the Settlement
22 Class. The Settlement Amount ($7,850,000) is constituted in the form of cash-value PSN account credits 23 to be distributed directly to the PSN accounts of the eligible members of the proposed Settlement Class.
24 See Buchman Decl., Exhibit C, Second Revised Settlement Agreement ¶ 1. Significant discovery has 25 been conducted in this case to afford counsel the ability to understand the pros and cons of proceeding 26

27 _____
28 ²¹ Expert analysis from data provided by GameStop and Amazon (which, according to SIE documents, together account for over 95% of SIE digital game retail sales) found that in over 99% of sales, the sales price was the same or higher than the price SIE charged in the PlayStation Store.

1 with the litigation.²² Relying on years of experience and extensive efforts in this litigation, counsel
2 recommend approval of the proposed Settlement. Given the uncertainties facing class certification and 3 establishing damages using economic experts, this proposed Settlement is far more attractive than no 4 settlement at all given the potential looming difficulties on the horizon.

5 c. Attorney Fees and Service Awards

6 Plaintiff intends to move for an award of reasonable attorneys' fees, costs, and expenses²³ as well
7 as service awards. Plaintiff will respectfully seek an award of attorneys' fees not to exceed twenty-five 8 percent of the Settlement Amount. This is not the product of a "clear sailing" arrangement and SIE 9 reserves the right to challenge the amount of attorneys' fees, costs, and expenses should it so choose. As 10 to service awards, Plaintiff will seek modest awards for Agustin Caccuri, Adrian Cendejas, and Allen 11 Neumark, not to exceed $10,000 each, which SIE also reserves the right to challenge. The service
12 awards are subject to this Court's discretion, and their approval (in whole or in part) is not a material 13 term of the Settlement. Service awards are appropriate to compensate Messrs. Caccuri, Cendejas, and 14 Neumark for the substantial time and effort they spent participating in this litigation, including the risk 15 of negative publicity and notoriety. They have each collected and produced documents in response to 16 Defendant's discovery requests and each was prepared to appear for a deposition in this matter. Their 17 participation facilitated this proposed Settlement. The remainder of the Settlement Amount, after 18 deducting notice and administration fees, would be directly distributed to Settlement Class members'
19 PSN accounts in the form of credits pursuant to a Plan of Allocation ordered by the Court. See Section 20 II.E.4. At the January 29, 2026 preliminary approval hearing, the Court raised the issue whether: (i) 21 individuals no longer in the Class may receive a service award for their efforts; and (ii) the award should

25 view of the fact that competent and experienced counsel have been able to conduct ample discovery 26 which allowed them to properly assess the probability of success on the merits of the putative class claim 27 . . . their recommendation should be entitled to substantial weight").

28 ²³ A preliminary estimation of Plaintiff's time (including Attorney, Contract Attorney, and Staff time) indicates approximately 13,700 hours were spent pursuing this action. The estimated loadstar is approximately $8.7 million. If the Court awards a 25% fee award, that fee award would be $1,962,500 which is well below the $8.7 million estimated loadstar and would result in a negative multiplier. Costs incurred are estimated to be around $660,000.

2 has identified the following cases which support the issuance of service awards to Messrs. Caccuri and 3 Neumark despite the fact that they are no longer members of the Class. Chambers v. Whirlpool Corp., 4 980 F.3d 645, 670 (9th Cir. 2020) (presupposing that granting incentive awards to non-class members is 5 proper since the Ninth Circuit held "non-class members receiving service awards are not considered
6 class representatives under the settlement, [therefore] their receipt of payments is irrelevant to the Rule
7 23(a) typicality and adequacy analyses"); In re Apple Inc. Device Performance Litig., No. 5:18-MD-
8 02827-EJD, 2023 WL 2090981, at *20 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 17, 2023) ("Service awards to non-class 9 members are permitted."). There are, however, cases which go the other way. See Juarez v. Soc. Fin., 10 Inc., No. 20-CV-03386-HSG, 2023 WL 3898988, at *9 (N.D. Cal. June 8, 2023); In re Sonic Corp.

13 second question, the payment of service awards out of a fund resulting from the reduction of Class 14 counsel's attorneys' fees would ensure that the Class members receive the greatest recovery possible.

18 d. Equitable Treatment of Settlement Class Members

19 The Settlement Amount will be distributed to members of the Settlement Class in accordance 20 with the Plan of Allocation which governs that distribution will be based directly on the overcharges to

24 ²⁴ The Court also inquired whether the Messrs. Caccuri and Neumark's claims would be dismissed with 25 prejudice. The parties were unable to reach agreement. Messrs. Caccuri and Neumark are not seeking to 26 recover PSN credits under the proposed settlement, but are respectfully requesting a service award under 27 these circumstances. Should the Court decide they are not entitled to a service award they are prepared to 28 timely stipulate to the voluntary dismissal of their claims without prejudice with the parties to bear their own costs and expenses. In light of the Court's stated preference at the last hearing, Plaintiff Adrian Cendejas has simultaneously filed a Motion to Amend the Caption to substitute his name as the sole Class Representative Plaintiff in this matter. See ECF No. 218. The papers submitted herewith have been modified to reflect this change given the uncontroversial nature of the issue and to avoid filing another set of papers.

1 each claimant, thus ensuring equitable treatment among Settlement Class members. See Fed. R. Civ. P.
 2 23(e)(2)(C)(iv). See Section II.E.5.

3 G. The Plan of Allocation is Fair, Reasonable, and Adequate

4 The standard for approving a plan of allocation for a settlement amount in a class action, like the 5 one governing approval of the settlement as a whole, is that the plan must be fair, reasonable, and 6 adequate. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(2). Generally, when recommended by competent and experienced 7 counsel, counsel’s assessment is entitled to considerable weight and the plan of allocation need only 8 have a reasonable, rational basis.²⁵

9 The parties propose that the Settlement Amount will be distributed pro rata based on the number 10 of eligible games (“Covered Games”) purchased by each Settlement Class member. See Buchman Decl., 11 Exhibit E, 4,1-4; and the discussion of the plan of allocation under the N.D. Procedural Guidance 1(e), 12 above. For these reasons, Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court approve the Plan of Allocation.

13 H. The Proposed Form and Manner of Notice Should be Approved

14 Members of the proposed Settlement Class are entitled to reasonable notice of the Settlement
 15 before the Court, including notice of the Fairness Hearing. See Manual for Complex Litigation §§
 16 21.312, 21.633 (4th ed. 2004). Plaintiff has prepared Short and Long Form Notices to advise Class
 17 members of the proposed Settlement. See Buchman Decl., Exhibit F, Pang Decl., Exhibits C & D. Rule 18 23(e)(1) instructs the Court to “direct notice in a reasonable manner to all members of the Class who 19 would be bound by the proposal.” To meet Rule 23(e) and due process requirements, “all that the notice 20 must do is fairly apprise the prospective members of the class of the terms of the proposed settlement so 21 that members of the class may come to their own conclusions about whether the settlement serves their 22 interests.” In re Outer Banks Power Outage Litig., Docket No. 4:17-CV-141, 2018 WL 2050141, at *6

1 In this case, the proposed Settlement Agreement provides for direct notice to eligible Settlement 2 Class members to the email address associated with her or his PSN Account. Notice and the manner of 3 notice are fully discussed under the Procedural Guidance Section II. E.7. above.

4 In sum, this tailored and robust Notice Plan provides for favorable notice anticipated to reach 5 upwards of 70% of Settlement Class members.²⁶ This frequency is similar to those that other courts have 6 approved that are recommended by the Federal Judicial Center's Judges' Class Action Notice and 7 Claims Process Checklist and Plain Language Guide (2010). Id. at 8 n.3. Accordingly, the Proposed 8 Form and Manner of Notice should be approved.

9 I. The Court Should Approve A.B. Data, Ltd. as Notice and Settlement Administrator

10 Plaintiff respectfully requests that the Court appoint A.B. Data as the Notice and Settlement 11 Administrator in connection with the proposed Second Revised Settlement Agreement. The bidding 12 selection and qualifications of A.B. Data are discussed above. See Section II.E.6. Accordingly, A.B.
13 Data should be appointed the Notice and Settlement Administrator in the case.

14 J. The Court Should Adopt a Schedule for Final Approval of the Proposed Settlement

15 The proposed Preliminary Approval Order details a proposed schedule with the hearing date to 16 be set at the Court's preference. This proposed schedule is fair to Settlement Class members and 17 provides to each member of the Class an opportunity to review the Preliminary Approval papers and the 18 proposed Settlement as well as the amount of attorneys' fees, costs, expenses and service awards before 19 an objection is due. See Buchman Decl., Exhibit A at ¶ 21.

20 III. The Proposed Settlement Class Should be Preliminarily Certified

21 A. Legal Standard

22 At the preliminary approval stage, the Court may direct notice of a proposed settlement to the 23 Class if it concludes that it will likely be able to certify the settlement class under Rule 23(e)(1) and to 24 approve the settlement as fair, reasonable, and adequate under Rule 23(e)(2).

25 To assess the proposed settlement Class under 23(e)(1), the Court conducts a two-step analysis under 26

27 _____
28 ²⁶ Plaintiffs understand from SIE that it validates email addresses from customers upon account setup, and that it anticipates a relatively low bounce back rate—likely under 10%—based on its experience sending emails to comparable groups of its customers.

1 Rules 23(a) and 23(b). First, the Court must determine whether the proposed class meets the Rule 23(a) 2 requirements:

- 3 (1) the class is so numerous that joinder of all members is impracticable;
- 4 (2) there are questions of law or fact common to the class;
- 5 (3) the claims or defenses of the representative parties are typical of the claims or defenses of the 6 class; and
- 7 (4) the representative parties will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class.

8 Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a).

9 Second, if those four conditions are satisfied, the Court considers whether the proposed 10 settlement class satisfies one of the requirements listed in Rule 23(b). In relevant part, under Rule 11 23(b)(3), a proposed settlement class may be maintained if “questions of law or fact common to class 12 members predominate over any questions affecting only individual members, and . . . a class action is 13 superior to other available methods for fairly and efficiently adjudicating the controversy.” Fed. R. Civ.
14 P. 23(b)(3). The predominance inquiry is less demanding in the settlement context than in the litigation
15 context. See In re Hyundai & Kia Fuel Econ. Litig., 926 F.3d 539, 556-57 (9th Cir. 2019) (en banc) 16 (finding that manageability concerns are not an issue for a settlement class).

17 1. The Proposed Class Satisfies Fed. R. Civ. P. 23.

18 The proposed Settlement Class should be certified because it meets all the requirements under 19 Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(e)(1). The proposed Settlement Class is cohesive and objectively defined. See Fed. R.
20 Civ. 23(e)(1).

21 a. The Proposed Settlement Class Satisfies Rule 23(a)’s Requirements.

22 Under Rule 23(a), certification is appropriate where: (i) the class is so numerous that joinder of 23 all members is impracticable; (ii) there are questions of law or fact common to the class; (iii) the claims 24 or defenses of the representative parties are typical of the claims or defenses of the class; and (iv) the 25 representative parties will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class. Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a).
26 Because settlement classes are routinely certified,²⁷ the proposed Settlement Class, which satisfies all 27 Rule 23 requirements, should be certified as demonstrated below.

28 _____
²⁷ See, e.g., In re Aggrenox Antitrust Litig., No. 14-MD-2516 (D. Conn, Mar 6, 2018) (ECF No. 766);

1 i. Numerosity

2 Rule 23(a)(1) requires that members of a class must be “so numerous that joinder of all members
3 is impracticable.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(1). While numerosity does not require a specific number of class
4 members, courts in the Ninth Circuit generally agree that numerosity is satisfied if the class includes 40
5 or more members. See In re JUUL Labs, Inc., Mktg. Sales Pracs. & Prod. Liab. Litig., No. 19-MD-6 02913-WHO, 2022 WL 2343268, at 959 (N.D. Cal. June 28, 2022). The proposed settlement Class is 7 comprised of more than 4 million accounts with purchases of one or more digital games on the PSN
8 Store for which a GSV was available at retail prior to April, 2019, for which at least 200 GSV 9 redemptions were made prior to April 1, 2019, and for which the post-discount price increased by at 10 least fifty cents from: (a) the period between January 1, 2017 and March 31, 2019; as compared to (b) 11 the period between April 1, 2019 and December 31, 2023. SIE’s data confirms that approximately 12 4,407,533 individual accounts meet this definition. Given the size of the proposed Settlement Class, 13 which exceeds forty persons, the proposed Settlement Class easily satisfies Rule 23(a)(1).

14 ii. Commonality

15 Rule 23(a)(2) requires “questions of law or fact common to the class.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(2).
16 A common question is one that “is capable of classwide resolution—which means that determination of 17 its truth or falsity will resolve an issue that is central to the validity of each one of the claims in one 18 stroke.” Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v. Dukes, 564 U.S. 338, 350 (2011). For purposes of Rule 23(a)(2), even 19 a single common question will suffice to satisfy the requirement. Id. at 359; In re Solodyn (Minocycline 2004); In re Lorazepam & Clorazepate Antitrust Litig., 205 F.R.D. 369, 374, 396 (D.D.C. 2002).

1 “Antitrust liability alone constitutes a common question that ‘will resolve an issue that is central to the 2 validity’ of each class member’s claim ‘in one stroke’” because proof of the violation “‘will focus on 3 defendants’ conduct and not on the conduct of individual class members.” In re High-Tech Employee 4 Antitrust Litig., 985 F. Supp. 2d 1167, 1180 (N.D. Cal. 2013) (citing Dukes, 564 U.S. at 349).

5 This case presents numerous common questions of fact and law that relate to the Defendant’s 6 alleged anticompetitive conduct, including whether Defendant: (i) unlawfully created, maintained and 7 continues to maintain monopoly power in the relevant market; (ii) unlawfully maintained a monopoly 8 which caused anticompetitive effects in the relevant market; (iii) has procompetitive justifications or 9 whether there were less restrictive means of achieving them; and (iv) caused antitrust injury through 10 overcharges to the business or property of Plaintiff and the proposed Settlement Class members. The 11 same questions of law and fact also apply to all members of the Settlement Class who will necessarily 12 use the same evidence to prove the Defendant’s alleged conduct “‘in one stroke.’” Dukes, 564 U.S. at 350.
13 Thus, the proposed Settlement Class satisfies Rule 23(a)(2).

14 iii. Typicality

15 Rule 23(a)(3) requires that “the claims or defenses of the representative parties are typical of the 16 claims or defenses of the class.” Castillo v. Bank of America, NA, 980 F.3d 723, 729 (9th Cir. 2020).
17 Class Plaintiffs’ claims are typical of the class when they “arise[] from the same event, practice or 18 course of conduct that gives rise to the claims of the absent class members” and is “based on the same
19 legal or remedial theory.” In re Dynamic Random Access Memory (DRAM) Antitrust Litig., 2006 WL 20 1530166, at *4 (N.D. Cal. June 5, 2006) (alteration in original) (citation omitted). “[C]laims are ‘typical’
21 if they are reasonably co-extensive with those of absent class members; they need not be substantially 22 identical.” Hanlon, 150 F.3d at 1020.

23 Here, the alleged claims are typical of the claims of the proposed Settlement Class because their:
24 (i) injury (supracompetitive prices) arises from the same course of alleged conduct (Defendants’ 25 anticompetitive conduct); (ii) claims rely on the same legal theories (alleged violation of the antitrust 26 laws) and (iii) claims allege damages in the form of overcharges. Thus, the Rule 23(a)(3) requirement is 27 satisfied.
28

1 iv. Adequacy

2 Rule 23(a)(4) requires that “the representative parties will fairly and adequately protect the 3 interests of the class.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(a)(4); see also Amchem Products, Inc. v. Windsor, 521 U.S.
4 591, 625 (1997) (finding Rule 23(a)(4) “serves to uncover conflicts of interest between named parties
5 and the class they seek to represent”). To determine whether the representation meets this standard, 6 courts ask two questions: (i) do representative plaintiffs have any conflicts of interest with other class
7 members; and (ii) will they prosecute the action vigorously on behalf of the class. See Boston Retirement
8 System v. Uber Technologies, Inc., 19-cv-06361-RS, 2022 WL 2954937, at * 4 (N.D. Cal. July 26, 2022)
9 (Seeborg, C. J.).

10 No conflicts of interest exist between Class Representative Plaintiff and the proposed Settlement 11 Class members. Mr. Cendejas and the Settlement Class members have the same objectives: to prove that 12 Defendant acted unlawfully and that Settlement Class members paid supracompetitive prices for 13 PlayStation digital games as a result. And adequacy is also presumed where, as here, a fair settlement 14 was negotiated at arm’s length with the assistance of a mediator. 2 Newberg on Class Actions, § 11.28, 15 11-59.

16 2. The Settlement Class Satisfies Rule 23(b)(3)’s Requirements.

17 Under Rule 23(b)(3), certification is appropriate where “questions of law or fact common to 18 class members predominate over any questions affecting only individual members, and that a class 19 action is superior to other available methods for fairly and efficiently adjudicating the controversy.” Fed.
20 R. Civ. P. 23(b)(3). The proposed Settlement Class easily satisfies these requirements.

21 a. Predominance

22 Predominance exists when plaintiffs’ claims “depend upon a common contention . . . of such a 23 nature that it is capable of classwide resolution—which means that determination of its truth or falsity 24 will resolve an issue that is central to the validity of each one of the claims in one stroke.” Wal-Mart, 25 564 U.S. at 350. “Even if just one common question predominates, ‘the action may be considered proper 26 under Rule 23(b)(3) even though other important matters will have to be tried separately.’” Hyundai & 27 Kia, 926 F.3d at 557 (quoting Tyson Foods, Inc. v. Bouaphakeo, 577 U.S. 442 (2016)).
28 “[M]onopolization claims readily lend themselves to common evidence. They require: (i) the possession

1 of monopoly power in the relevant market; and (ii) the willful acquisition or maintenance of that power 2 as distinguished from growth or development as a consequence of a superior product, business acumen, 3 or historic accident. So, the state of the market and defendants’ use and maintenance of monopoly
4 power, as opposed to individual plaintiff’s conduct, drives the claim.” In re Glumetza Antitrust Litig., 5 336 F.R.D. 468, 475 (N.D. Cal. 2020).

6 The predominance inquiry is less demanding in the settlement context because, unlike 7 certification for litigation, “manageability is not a concern in certifying a settlement class where, by 8 definition, there will be no trial.” In re Hyundai & Kia Fuel Econ. Litig., 926 F.3d 539, 556-57 (9th Cir.
9 2019). The predominant question at this stage will be whether this settlement is fair, adequate, and 10 reasonable. See, e.g., Just Film, Inc. v. Buono, 847 F.3d 1108, 1117 (9th Cir. 2017).

11 The focus is on Defendant’s conduct and the effect on the market which is common to all 12 Settlement Class members. The focus is not on the actions of individual Settlement Class members. See 13 In re Glumetza Antitrust Litig., 336 F.R.D. 468, 475 (N.D. Cal. 2020) (citing Alaska Airlines v. United 14 Airlines, 948 F.2d 536, 540 (9th Cir. 1991)).

15 b. Superiority

16 The “superiority” requirement of Rule 23(b)(3) “ensures that litigation by a class action will 17 ‘achieve economies of time, effort, and expense, and promote . . . uniformity of decision as to persons 18 similarly situated, without sacrificing procedural fairness or bringing about other undesirable results.’” 19 Solodyn, 2017 WL 4621777, at *21 (quoting Amchem, 521 U.S. at 615). But in a certification for 20 settlement, “a district court need not inquire whether the case, if tried, would present intractable 21 management problems, see Fed. Rule Civ. Proc. 23(b)(3)(D), for the proposal is that there be no trial.”
22 Amchem, 521 U.S. at 620.

23 Certifying the Settlement Class is superior to resolving Settlement Class members’ claims 24 through individual litigation. Considerations of judicial efficiency favor concentrating this litigation in 25 one forum. Allowing this case to move forward as a class action would: (i) avoid congesting a court with 26 the need to repetitively adjudicate such actions; (ii) prevent the possibility of inconsistent results; and 27 (iii) allow class members an opportunity for redress they might otherwise be denied.
