UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
CENTRAL DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

LOS ANGELES PRESS CLUB et al.,

Plaintiffs,

v.

KRISTI NOEM et al.,

Defendants.

Case No. 2:25-cv-05563-HDV-E

ORDER GRANTING CLASS CERTIFICATION [100]

1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 Last summer, the Department of Homeland Security (“DHS”)<sup>1</sup> began a campaign of 3 aggressive immigration enforcement in this District. The community protested, and journalists and 4 regular citizens alike began documenting what unfolded throughout Southern California. This 5 putative class action arises out of federal agents’ violent response to those demonstrations, and what 6 happened when those matters of public importance were recorded. The operative complaint states 7 claims for violations of the First, Fourth, and Fifth Amendments and the Administrative Procedure 8 Act (“APA”). First Amended Complaint (“FAC”) [Dkt. 67] ¶¶ 275–306.

9 Plaintiffs’ Motion to Certify Class (“Motion”) [Dkt. 100] asks the Court to certify a class 10 comprising “[a]ll people who do or will, without using force or threat of force, record [or 11 photograph] DHS immigration enforcement and removal operations or protests of those operations 12 in this District since June 6, 2025.”

13

15 <sup>1</sup> The Defendants named in the First Amended Complaint are DHS; Kristi Noem, Secretary of 16 Homeland Security; Gregory Bovino, Border Patrol’s “Commander-at-Large,” Commander of 17 DHS’s Operation at Large in California and Los Angeles, and Chief Patrol Agent for the El Centro 18 Sector of Customs and Border Patrol (“CBP”); Todd Lyons, Acting Director of Immigration and 19 Customs Enforcement (“ICE”); Ernesto Santacruz Jr., Acting Field Office Director for the Los 20 Angeles ICE Enforcement and Removal Operations (“ERO”) Field Office; Eddy Wang, Homeland 21 Security Investigations (“HSI”) Special Agent in Charge for Los Angeles; Mario Canton, Regional 22 Director for Region 9 of the Federal Protective Service (“FPS”); and Kevin Green, Office of Field
23 Operations Special Response Team (“SRT”) Commander. (“FAC”) [Dkt. 67] ¶¶ 17–24. ICE, CBP, 24 HSI, ERO, SRT, and FPS are all within DHS. Id. ¶ 17.

25 All of the individual Defendants are sued in their official capacity. Id. ¶¶ 18–24. Such a suit is 26 treated as an action against the governmental entity of which the named official is an agent. Hafer v.
27 Melo, 502 U.S. 21, 25 (1991). As a result, when officials sued in this capacity leave office, “their 28 successors automatically assume their roles in the litigation.” Id.; see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 25(d).
Markwayne Mullin is thus substituted for Kristi Noem as Secretary of Homeland Security, Opposition [Dkt. 103] at 2 n.1; Daniel Parra for Gregory Bovino as Acting Chief Patrol Agent for the El Centro Sector of CBP, Declaration of Daniel Parra (“Second Parra Decl.”) [Dkt. 114-2] ¶ 1; David Venturella for Todd Lyons as Acting Director of ICE, Heather Hollingsworth & Mike Catalini, Former Private Prison Executive David Venturella Will Become ICE’s Acting Leader, Associated Press (May 13, 2026), <https://apnews.com/article/trump-ice-leader-lyons-venturella-immigration-4996875a8d3296ccc1735798e2428d98>; Andre Quinones for Ernesto Santacruz Jr. as Acting Field Office Director for the Los Angeles ICE ERO Field Office, see Opposition at 2 n.1; etc.

1 After careful consideration of the requirements of Rule 23, the Court finds class certification 2 appropriate. Plaintiffs have sufficiently shown for present purposes that Defendants have a policy of 3 treating the recording of their agents as an unlawful threat that may be responded to with force.
4 Plaintiffs’ challenge to that policy, seeking declaratory and injunctive relief, satisfies commonality, 5 typicality, and the requirements of Rule 23(b)(2). The class is undoubtedly numerous, and the 6 proposed class representatives and class counsel are more than adequate. The Motion is granted.

7 II. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

8 Plaintiffs initiated this action in June 2025. Complaint [Dkt. 1].

9 After a temporary restraining order was denied, they moved for a preliminary injunction in 10 July, contending that they were likely to succeed on the merits of their First Amendment right of 11 access and retaliation claims. Motion for Preliminary Injunction (“PI Motion”) [Dkt. 34]. This 12 Court agreed, and issued a preliminary injunction in September. Order Granting Plaintiffs’ Motion 13 for Preliminary Injunction (“PI Order”) [Dkt. 55]. Defendants promptly appealed. Notice of Appeal 14 [Dkt. 57].<sup>2</sup>

15 On October 16, Plaintiffs amended their complaint. FAC. The FAC asserts claims on behalf 16 of several putative classes for First Amendment right of access and retaliation, Fourth and Fifth 17 Amendment excessive force, and violation of the APA. Id. ¶¶ 256–306. This Court substantially 18 denied Defendants’ motion to dismiss the FAC. Order Denying Defendants’ Motion to Dismiss 19 (“MTD Order”) [Dkt. 89]. It rejected Defendants’ standing and First Amendment arguments for 20 reasons similar to those articulated in its prior orders. Id. at 2, 5–10. The Court likewise rejected 21 Defendants’ arguments regarding Plaintiffs’ excessive force claims, finding that Plaintiffs had 22 plausibly alleged at least some physically-incapacitating uses of force that may constitute 23 unreasonable seizures under applicable Fourth Amendment jurisprudence, and others that “shock the 24 _____

25 <sup>2</sup> Defendants also sought a stay pending appeal. This Court denied Defendants’ stay request. Order 26 Denying Defendants’ Ex Parte Application to Stay Preliminary Injunction Pending Appeal (“Stay 27 Order”) [Dkt. 74]. The Ninth Circuit granted it as to certain “injunctive provisions that by their 28 terms apply to protesters who are not parties to this litigation” and “only to the extent that they apply to” such non-party protesters. L.A. Press Club v. Noem, No. 25-5975 (9th Cir. Dec. 18, 2025) [Dkt. 66.1] (“9th Cir. Stay Order”) at 1.

1 conscience” under the substantive due process test. Id. at 2, 10–14. As to Plaintiffs’ third cause of 2 action under the APA, the Court concluded that Plaintiffs had not plausibly alleged final agency 3 policies regarding uses of force, but had plausibly alleged such a policy with respect to how 4 Defendants treat the recording of their agents. Id. at 2, 14–18. Finally, the Court declined to dismiss 5 Plaintiffs’ claim for declaratory relief. Id. at 2–3, 18.

6 On March 5, Plaintiffs Charles Xu, Lexis Olivier-Ray, Sean Beckner-Carmitchel, Los 7 Angeles Press Club (“L.A. Press Club”), and NewsGuild – Communications Workers of America 8 (“NewsGuild”)<sup>3</sup> filed the present Motion. They seek to represent “All people who do or will, 9 without using force or threat of force, record [or photograph] DHS immigration enforcement and 10 removal operations or protests of those operations in this District since June 6, 2025.” Motion at 1 & 11 n.2.<sup>4</sup>

12 On April 1, the Ninth Circuit published its opinion in the appeal from the PI Order. L.A.
13 Press Club v. Noem, 171 F.4th 1179 (9th Cir. 2026). The panel affirmed this Court’s grant of the 14 preliminary injunction, finding that it did not abuse its discretion in its analysis of the Winter factors.
15 Id. at 1187–90. But the panel held that the specific injunction issued was overbroad, vacated it, and 16 remanded the case to this Court to fashion a narrower injunction. Id. at 1190–92.

17 On May 7, the Court heard oral argument on both class certification and the remand of the 18 preliminary injunction. Minutes [Dkt. 115].

19 III. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

20 The Court’s previous orders, especially its PI Order, laid out much of the factual background
21 of this case. See PI Order at 4–18; see also Stay Order at 3–4; MTD Order at 4 & n.2.<sup>5</sup> The Court

23 <sup>3</sup> There are other named Plaintiffs (and potential future class representatives) in this case. The full 24 list of Plaintiffs is: organizations L.A. Press Club and NewsGuild; journalists Sean Beckner-25 Carmitchel, Ryanne Mena, and Lexis-Olivier Ray; legal observer Charles Xu; and protesters Benjamin Adam Climer, Abigail Olmeda, and Maria-Alejandra Paz. FAC ¶¶ 8–16.

26 <sup>4</sup> The Motion and Opposition [Dkt. 103] were both filed before the Ninth Circuit’s opinion on the 27 preliminary injunction was issued. The Reply [Dkt. 107] was filed afterwards.

28 <sup>5</sup> Several of the new declarations submitted with the present Motion either add additional color and detail to events already described in the earlier declarations, or provide sworn testimony supporting

1 incorporates its previous factual findings and does not repeat them here, but will discuss particular 2 facts as relevant in the analysis infra Part V.

3 A. Recent Incidents

4 With the present Motion, Plaintiffs introduce additional evidence of injuries that they and 5 other similarly-situated individuals suffered at the hands of DHS agents after the filing of the First 6 Amended Complaint and the stay briefing. Defendants do not rebut these. The Court discusses 7 them briefly.

8 On the morning of October 29, 2025, ICE conducted an enforcement operation in Oxnard.
9 Supplemental Declaration of Diane Alvarez (“Second Alvarez Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-12] ¶¶ 4–8; 10 Declaration of Noah Frost (“Frost Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-16] ¶¶ 23–25. DHS agents<sup>6</sup> taped-off an area, 11 with around 25 agents deep inside this area, 5–6 at each of the northern and southern boundaries, and 12 50 peaceful protestors outside. Second Alvarez Decl. ¶¶ 5–8; Frost Decl. ¶¶ 25, 27. Sometime 13 between 8:30 and 9:00 a.m., the agents prepared to leave and headed north. Second Alvarez Decl.
14 ¶¶ 4, 8–9; Frost Decl. ¶ 28. On the north side of the taped-off area, roughly ten agents formed an 15 informal skirmish line opposite protestors. Frost Decl. ¶ 28. A government vehicle attempted to 19 parking lot of her church in Downey on June 11, 2025); Declaration of F.C. (“F.C. Decl.”) 20 [Dkt. 100-9] ¶¶ 4, 10–13 (agent pointing a gun at someone photographing the license plate of the 21 agent’s car in Pasadena on June 17, 2025); Declaration of Ernest Herrera (“Herrera Decl.”) 22 [Dkt. 100-17], Ex. A (agents arresting a person filming agents arrest someone else in Hollywood on 23 June 19, 2025); Declaration of Vladimir Carrasco (“Carrasco Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-11] ¶¶ 2, 4, 6–10 24 (agents threatening and pointing guns at people recording them in MacArthur Park on July 7); 25 Declaration of Eric Ares (“Ares Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-14] ¶¶ 2, 15–23 (similar); Declaration of Cindy 26 Lin (“Lin Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-8] ¶¶ 6, 13–14 (agents shoving person filming in Little Tokyo on August 14); Declaration of Philip Meyer (“Meyer Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-23] ¶¶ 2, 9–19 (agents brandishing and then deploying chemical irritants on people filming them in Westlake on August 28); Declaration of Mel Buer (“Buer Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-13] ¶¶ 7–8, 14–23, 26, 43, 48–52 (events in downtown L.A. on August 30 and September 1); Declaration of Kayjel Mairena (“Mairena Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-15] ¶¶ 2, 10, 18–20 (agents shooting photographer in the head with a pepper ball while he was recording agents escorting a protestor they had arrested in downtown L.A. on September 1).

27 <sup>6</sup> Two witnesses declare that there were agents wearing badges from ERO, ICE, HSI, and the 28 Internal Revenue Service (“IRS”). Second Alvarez Decl. ¶ 7; Frost Decl. ¶ 26. The IRS is not a DHS component or a Defendant here.

1 make an announcement, and agents started pulling down the caution tape and gesturing for people to 2 move to the sidewalk. Id. ¶¶ 29–30. The protestors slowly moved off to the side of the road to clear 3 a path for the agents, and DHS vehicles started to leave. Id. ¶¶ 31–32. At that point, a person in an 4 unmarked Dodge Durango drove from the previously taped off area and directly pepper sprayed—at 5 close range—two protestors who were recording with phones in their hand. Id. ¶¶ 33–36. Another 6 agent on foot also deployed pepper spray on the same group. Id. ¶ 37. None of them had engaged in 7 any violent conduct or confronted DHS officers before they were sprayed. Id. ¶¶ 35, 38.

8           Meanwhile, on the south side of the taped-off area, the caution tape came down and people 9 started following and recording the DHS officers and vehicles moving northbound. Second Alvarez 10 Decl. ¶ 9. An ICE agent used a baton to strike a protester who was recording the agent with his 11 phone. Id. ¶ 10. The protester had not done anything violent or threatening; he was simply 12 recording the officer. Id. Other protestors rushed to help him; they, too, were hit with the baton. Id.
13 ¶¶ 10–11. Another DHS agent stepped out of a car and pepper sprayed that same group from “just 14 over an arm[’]s length away.” Id. ¶ 11. “The spraying was crazy and indiscriminate,” and struck 15 people on the sidewalk. Id. ¶¶ 12–13, 15. DHS agents ultimately deployed several flash bang 16 grenades on both the north and south ends of the area, and left. Id. ¶¶ 16–17, 22; Frost Decl. ¶¶ 39– 17 41, 43, 45.

18           In another troubling incident, protestors gathered on January 9, 2026 outside the Santa Ana 19 Federal Building to protest the killing of Renee Good.<sup>7</sup> Declaration of Sean Garcia-Leys (“Garcia-20 Leys Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-18] ¶¶ 5, 10. Officers shot at least two anti-ICE protestors in the face with 21 less lethal rounds. Id. ¶¶ 20–22, 24, 26. DHS then fired projectile weapons at media and a legal 22 observer who were using their phones and/or professional-looking cameras to record, photograph, 23 and take notes. Id. ¶¶ 21–28. These individuals were shot from approximately 50 feet away, even 24 though they—and the people near them—were not doing anything violent or making any threats. Id.
25 ¶¶ 27–28.

[Dkt. 100-3], Exs. 15, 17, 25.

1 Several weeks later, on the evening of January 31, 2026, protestors met across from the 2 Metropolitan Detention Center (“MDC”) in downtown Los Angeles. Supplemental Declaration of 3 Lexis-Olivier Ray (“Second Ray Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-19] ¶¶ 2, 7. Around 8:45 p.m., someone threw a 4 firework over a line of DHS agents who were standing in front of the entrance to MDC. Id. ¶ 16.
5 That firework did not hit or land near the DHS agents. Id. ¶ 17. Nevertheless, the DHS agents 6 started shooting pepper balls, throwing tear gas cannisters, and throwing or shooting flash bangs into 7 the crowd. Id. ¶ 19. The crowd began to disperse and scatter to the south on Alameda Street. Id.
8 ¶ 21. Plaintiff Lexis Olivier-Ray, who was there as a journalist to cover the protest, followed. Id.
9 ¶¶ 2–8, 21. While he was using his phone to film the line of agents who were shooting the LLMs, he 10 was shot six times in the leg with pepper balls. Id. ¶¶ 21, 23. This was despite the fact that he was 11 more than 40 feet away from the agents, identified himself as press, was clearly filming, and was not 12 near anyone else. Id. ¶¶ 7, 21–24, 27.

13 On the afternoon of February 2, 2026, DHS officers arrested a man in the Ventura County 14 Pre-Trial Detention Facility. Declaration of Tomás Rebecchi (“Rebecchi Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-20] ¶¶ 4, 15 6. A group of community members and demonstrators had gathered there to document and protest 16 DHS activities. Id. ¶ 4. As four agents—two holding the handcuffed man and two trailing behind—17 walked out of the lobby of the jail and towards the parking lot, some of these community members 18 followed. Id. ¶¶ 6–7, 10. Many were filming with their phones. Id. ¶¶ 8–9. One agent pepper 19 sprayed a woman at the front of the group, and then threw her to the ground. Id. ¶ 11. He then 20 pepper sprayed a different community member who had filmed that interaction and was trying to 21 help the woman. Id. ¶¶ 12–16.<sup>8</sup>

26 <sup>8</sup> Plaintiffs also introduce evidence of similar events in Chicago and Minnesota. See Third

1           B.       Official DHS Positions

2           In addition to these recent declarations, Plaintiffs have introduced evidence of official DHS 3 positions vis-à-vis the recording of its agents’ actions. Multiple news outlets have reported that DHS 4 appears to have opened investigations into social media accounts and websites that post photos, 5 recordings, and other information about its agents and operations. See Declaration of Matthew 6 Borden in Support of Plaintiffs’ Motion (“Borden Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-3], Exs. 21 (Jireh Deng, These

8 11, 2025), https://lapublicpress.org/2025/09/dhs-wants-ice-raid-warning-group data/), 24 (Ryanne

12           On October 20, 2025, CBP Commander Kevin Harvick testified that no DHS agents had 13 been discharged or reprimanded for conduct in this District, and that agents received no additional 14 training between their deployment in this District and in Chicago. Declaration of Peter J. Eliasberg 15 in Support of Plaintiffs’ Motion (“Eliasberg Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-4], Ex. R at 4, 18, 44–45, 49.

16           In December, DHS’s Office of Public Affairs indicated in an email that “following or 17 recording a federal law enforcement officer” “sure sounds like obstruction of justice.” Borden Decl., 18 Ex. 7 (C.J. Ciaramella, DHS Says Recording or Following Law Enforcement ‘Sure Sounds Like 19 Obstruction of Justice,’ Reason (Dec. 22, 2025), https://reason.com/2025/12/22/dhs-says-recording-

21           And in January, DHS agents indicated that DHS was putting together a database of people 22 who record their activities. See Borden Decl., Exs. 8 (Ken Klippenstein, ICE Making List of Anyone 23 Who Films Them, (Jan. 23, 2026), <https://perma.cc/9FNP-32KP>); 9 (C.J. Ciaramella, ICE Tells Legal 26 secretary for public affairs, denying that such a database exists).

1 IV. LEGAL STANDARDS

2 “The decision to grant or deny class certification is within the trial court’s discretion.” Evon
3 v. L. Offs. of Sidney Mickell, 688 F.3d 1015, 1028 (9th Cir. 2012). Class actions are the “exception 4 to the usual rule that litigation is conducted by and on behalf of the individual named parties only.”
5 Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. v. Dukes, 564 U.S. 338, 348 (2011) (citation omitted). To justify departure 6 from the rule, “a class representative must be part of the class and possess the same interest and 7 suffer the same injury” as fellow class members. Id. at 348–49 (citation omitted).

8 More specifically, a motion for class certification involves a two-part analysis. First, the 9 plaintiffs must demonstrate that the proposed class satisfies Rule 23(a): (1) the members of the 10 proposed class must be so numerous that joinder of all members would be impracticable; (2) there 11 must be questions of law or fact common to the class; (3) the claims or defenses of the 12 representative parties must be typical of the claims or defenses of absent class members; and (4) the 13 representative parties must fairly and adequately protect the interests of the class. Fed. R. Civ. P.
14 23(a).

15 Second, the plaintiffs must meet the requirements for at least one of the three subsections of 16 Rule 23(b), which define three different types of classes. Olean Wholesale Grocery Coop., Inc. v.
17 Bumble Bee Foods LLC, 31 F.4th 651, 663 (9th Cir. 2022) (en banc). Here, Plaintiffs seek 18 certification under Rule 23(b)(2). Motion at 1, 3, 25. That subsection allows class treatment when 19 “the party opposing the class has acted or refused to act on grounds that apply generally to the class, 20 so that final injunctive relief or corresponding declaratory relief is appropriate respecting the class 21 as a whole.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2) (emphasis added).

22 The plaintiffs bear the burden of demonstrating, by a preponderance of the evidence, that 23 Rule 23 is satisfied. Dukes, 564 U.S. at 350 (“Rule 23 does not set forth a mere pleading standard. A 24 party seeking class certification must affirmatively demonstrate his compliance with the Rule—that 25 is, he must be prepared to prove that there are in fact sufficiently numerous parties, common 26 questions of law or fact, etc.”); Olean, 31 F.4th at 664–65 (“[P]laintiffs wishing to proceed through a 27 class action must actually prove—not simply plead—that their proposed class satisfies each 28 requirement of Rule 23” and can do so “us[ing] any admissible evidence.”). The court must

1 rigorously analyze whether the plaintiffs have met the prerequisites of Rule 23. Dukes, 564 U.S. at 2 350 (citing Gen. Tel. Co. v. Falcon, 457 U.S. 147, 161 (1982)). The court must consider the merits
3 only to the extent that they overlap with Rule 23(a)'s requirements. Olean, 31 F.4th at 667 4 (plaintiffs need not “show at certification that they will prevail on the merits”); Amgen Inc. v. Conn.
5 Ret. Plans & Tr. Funds, 568 U.S. 455, 465–66, 476–77 (2013).

6 V. DISCUSSION

7 A. Standing

8 Defendants repeat their arguments that the named Plaintiffs do not have standing.
9 Opposition at 22–23. This Court has rejected this argument multiple times already. PI Order at 22–
10 26; Stay Order at 5–9; MTD Order at 5–8. So, too, did the Ninth Circuit. L.A. Press Club, 171 F.4th 11 at 1187–88. Although Defendants are correct that the standard is slightly different at this stage of 12 the proceeding, see Opposition at 22, the argument still fails.

13 “There are two ways for plaintiffs seeking prospective injunctive relief to establish standing.
14 First, they can show that defendants’ past conduct is having ‘continuing, present adverse effects,’ 15 that is to say, plaintiffs continue to suffer ongoing, concrete harm. Second, plaintiffs can show there 16 is ‘a sufficient likelihood that [they] will again be wronged in a similar way.’” L.A. Press Club, 171 17 F.4th at 1187 (quoting Villa v. Maricopa Cnty., 865 F.3d 1224, 1229 (9th Cir. 2017)). Under the 18 first prong, “‘a chilling of the exercise of First Amendment rights is, itself, a constitutionally 19 sufficient injury.’” Id. (quoting Libertarian Party of L.A. Cnty. v. Bowen, 709 F.3d 867, 870 (9th 20 Cir. 2013)). “Government conduct that induces reporters to modify their coverage or protesters to 21 alter or limit their methods of protest chills First Amendment expression when based on a reasonable 22 fear that government reprisals are likely to occur. Stated another way, adverse changes to First 23 Amendment activities, when adopted because of fear of government punishment, demonstrate 24 chilled and diminished First Amendment speech. That reduction of speech to the public establishes 25 continuing, present adverse effects sufficient to confer standing.” Id. at 1188 (citing Index 26 Newspapers LLC v. U.S. Marshals Serv., 977 F.3d 817, 826 (9th Cir. 2020)).

27 “Here, some Plaintiffs have been injured more than once and have sworn under oath that the 28 physical injuries inflicted upon them by Defendants will cause them to stand further away from

1 future protests or to wear restrictive protective equipment—to the detriment of their news coverage 2 and other First Amendment activities. Others have attested that the injuries they sustained have 3 made them hesitant to participate in or cover future protests.” Id. “Against this backdrop, Plaintiffs’ 4 fear of reprisal and physical injury is reasonable because Defendants have inflicted such injuries on 5 Plaintiffs as they engaged in First Amendment activities at varied locations on different days.” Id.<sup>9</sup>

6 To the extent Defendants are understood to argue that Plaintiffs no longer have standing 7 because the past injuries are now a few months old, see Opposition at 22, the position is not well-8 taken. First, plaintiffs must have “standing at the outset of the litigation.” Friends of the Earth, Inc.
9 v. Laidlaw Env’t Servs. (TOC), 528 U.S. 167, 180 (2000) (emphasis added). Second, Plaintiffs in 10 fact continue to introduce, with every new brief, additional evidence of recent injuries to themselves 11 and other similarly-situated individuals.<sup>10</sup> Finally, to the extent the recent incidents are (ostensibly) 12 not as physically harmful as the earlier ones, that makes perfect sense—the Court’s PI Order 13 enjoined Defendants from much of the worst conduct. If Defendants seek to argue that their recent 14 compliance with the law and the PI Order means that Plaintiffs are no longer likely to be injured and 15 thus no longer have the personal interest necessary to maintain this suit, they “bear[] the formidable 16 burden of showing” mootness by voluntary cessation, which they have not met. Laidlaw, 528 U.S.
17 at 190; see also FBI v. Fikre, 601 U.S. 234, 241 (2024).

18 Defendants also contend that, even if the named Plaintiffs have standing, not every class 19 member does. Opposition at 23–24. Even if Defendants were right, it would not interpose a hurdle

21 <sup>9</sup> The Ninth Circuit also found that this Court “correctly held that [the] Organizational Plaintiffs had 22 made their requisite showing on standing.” L.A. Press Club, 171 F.4th at 1188.

1 at this stage. “In a suit with multiple plaintiffs, generally only one plaintiff need have standing for 2 the suit to proceed.” L.A. Press Club, 171 F.4th at 1187 (quoting Mecinas v. Hobbs, 30 F.4th 890, 3 897 (9th Cir. 2022)). At the class certification stage, only “at least one named plaintiff”—not the 4 entire class—must “demonstrate evidence of standing.” Healy v. Milliman, Inc., 164 F.4th 701, 706
5 (9th Cir. 2026) (collecting cases); see, e.g., DZ Reserve v. Meta Platforms, Inc., 96 F.4th 1223, 6 1239–41 (9th Cir. 2024) (examining the standing of the named Plaintiffs only). And in a class action 7 seeking only equitable relief, as opposed to damages, the named plaintiffs’ standing is sufficient 8 “even at the final stage of a case when relief is awarded.” See Healy, 164 F.4th at 706; see also 9 Olean, 31 F.4th at 682 n.32.

10 Standing thus does not pose a bar to class certification here.

11 B. Rule 23(a) Prerequisites

12 1. Numerosity

13 Rule 23(a)(1) requires that a class be sufficiently numerous such that it would be 14 impracticable to join all members individually. There is no set number required to satisfy the 15 numerosity requirement; the court must examine the specific facts of each case. Gen. Tel. Co. v.
16 EEOC, 446 U.S. 318, 330 (1980). Broadly, however, “courts find the numerosity requirement 17 satisfied when a class includes at least 40 members.” Rannis v. Recchia, 380 F. App’x 646, 651 (9th 18 Cir. 2010) (citation omitted).

19 Numerosity is easily satisfied here. At least 41 different people have already submitted 20 declarations testifying that they or others have recorded DHS immigration enforcement and removal 21 operations or protests of those operations in this District since June 6, 2025.<sup>11</sup> L.A. Press Club and

4 Defendant’s argument against numerosity, then, is that Plaintiffs have not proven the actual 5 size of the class with any precision. Opposition at 6–7. But Plaintiffs have provided a non-6 speculative estimate of a lower bound of the class’s size. And that the class contains unknown and 7 future members makes joinder even more impracticable and cuts in favor of class certification, not 8 against it. See Karen L. Stevenson & James E. Fitzgerald, Rutter Group Practice Guide, Federal 9 Civil Procedure Before Trial (Calif. and 9th Cir. Edition) (2026 ed.) (“Rutter”) ¶ 10:262; Doe v.

14 proposition that certification under Rule 23(b)(2) is permissible even when the members cannot be 15 specifically enumerated).

16 The Court finds that the proposed class satisfies the numerosity requirement of Rule 23(a)(1).

17 2. Commonality

18 Rule 23(a)(2) requires that there be questions of law or fact common to the class. A common 19 question “must be of such a nature that it is capable of classwide resolution—which means that 20 determination of its truth or falsity will resolve an issue that is central to the validity of each one of 21 the claims in one stroke” such that “common answers [will] drive the resolution of the litigation.”
22 Dukes, 564 U.S. at 350; see also DZ Reserve, 96 F.4th at 1233. The commonality requirement does 23 not “mean that every question of law or fact must be common to the class; all that Rule 23(a)(2) 24 requires is ‘a single significant question of law or fact.’” Abdullah v. U.S. Sec. Assocs., Inc., 731 25 F.3d 952, 957 (9th Cir. 2013); accord Dukes, 564 U.S. at 359.

26 The commonality analysis is less demanding than the predominance analysis, DZ Reserve, 96 27 F.4th at 1233 (quoting Amchem Prods., Inc. v. Windsor, 521 U.S. 591, 624 (1997)); Gonzalez v.
28 USCIS, 975 F.3d 788, 808 (9th Cir. 2020), but it is not trivial, Dukes, 564 U.S. at 359 (“We consider

1 dissimilarities not in order to determine . . . whether common questions predominate, but in order to 2 determine . . . whether there is even a single common question.” (cleaned up)). The question 3 is “whether the evidence establishes that a common question is capable of class-wide resolution, not 4 whether the evidence in fact establishes that plaintiffs would win at trial.” Olean, 31 F.4th at 667. A 5 court “cannot decline certification merely because it considers plaintiffs’ evidence relating to the 6 common question to be unpersuasive and unlikely to succeed in carrying the plaintiffs’ burden of 7 proof on that issue.” Id.; see also id. (plaintiffs need not “show at certification that they will prevail 8 on the merits”); Amgen, 568 U.S. at 459, 465–66, 476–77; Gonzalez, 975 F.3d at 807.

9 Plaintiffs argue that Defendants have a policy of treating the recording of their agents as an 10 unlawful threat that may be treated as criminal and responded to with force. See Motion at 2, 15, 19, 11 21, 25. They further allege that this amounts to a policy of retaliation against recording, in violation 12 of their First Amendment rights. See id. at 7–8, 18–19, 21. Plaintiffs thus identify the existence, 13 legality, and chilling effect of this alleged policy as questions common to the class. Id. at 15. The 14 Court analyzes these potential common questions below.

15 a. Plaintiffs have sufficiently shown the existence of a policy.

16 Plaintiffs submit extensive and persuasive evidence of Defendants’ alleged policy in the form 17 of (1) Defendants’ public statements, (2) Defendants’ agents’ widespread practice, and (3) DHS’s 18 adoption and ratification of its agents’ actions. See Motion at 5–12, 15–21; supra Part III.

19 This Court’s PI Order found that similar evidence before the Court at that stage suggested a 20 policy or custom of First Amendment retaliation. PI Order at 33–34 (citing Menotti v. City of 21 Seattle, 409 F.3d 1113, 1148 (9th Cir. 2005); Breathe v. City of Detroit, 484 F. Supp. 3d 511, 519 22 (E.D. Mich. 2020), order clarified, No. 20-12363, 2020 WL 8575150 (E.D. Mich. Sept. 16, 2020)).
23 That evidence included federal officials’ statements, evidence of how federal officers behaved on 24 numerous occasions, and the absence of evidence that officers were discharged or reprimanded.
25 This Court’s conclusion was based on “well-supported factual findings” made after “carefully 26 review[ing] each incident” and “reject[ing] Defendants’ alternative explanations for their use of 27 force.” L.A. Press Club, 171 F.4th at 1189. And the Ninth Circuit affirmed, finding “no clear error 28 in the district court’s finding that Defendants acted with retaliatory intent.” Id.

1 This Court similarly found, in its MTD Order, that Plaintiffs had sufficiently alleged a policy 2 regarding how DHS treats the recording of its agents. MTD Order at 16. The Court based that 3 conclusion on allegations regarding internal bulletins and statements by government officials, as 4 well as factual allegations of DHS agents using force against individuals at the precise moment that 5 they began recording the agents. Id. (citing FAC ¶¶ 94–95, 97, 100–01).

6 All of the evidence and allegations the Court relied on in its previous decisions finding the 7 existence of a policy are still before the Court and equally relevant to the certification analysis.<sup>12</sup> 8 And Plaintiffs have submitted additional evidence with this Motion that only reinforces this same 9 conclusion.<sup>13</sup> Defendants, on the other hand, do not submit any new evidence or proffer alternative 10 explanations for any of the more recent incidents that Plaintiffs and other declarants describe.<sup>14</sup> 11 Instead, they cite to their written official policies that expressly forbid retaliation for protected First 12 Amendment activity. Opposition at 11. But this Court and the Ninth Circuit have already rejected 13 that argument: “Defendants cannot avoid potential liability by pointing to DHS policies that 14 correctly set out the bounds for the use of less lethal munitions, when their actions were inconsistent 15 with those policies.” L.A. Press Club, 171 F.4th at 1189 (citing Castro v. Cnty. of Los Angeles, 833 16 F.3d 1060, 1075 n.10 (9th Cir. 2016)).

17 Plaintiffs have thus sufficiently established, for purposes of this Motion, the existence of a 18 policy within DHS that treats the mere public recording of its agents as a threat that may be viewed 19 as criminal in nature and responded to with force at the scene.

1                   b. Because Plaintiffs challenge a common policy, commonality is satisfied.

2           Plaintiffs here challenge that system-wide policy. See FAC ¶¶ 275–83, 300–03; Motion at 2, 3 22–23; Minutes (Plaintiffs’ counsel indicated that the present class definition was tethered to the 4 First Amendment retaliation claim). When a lawsuit challenges a system-wide policy that affects all 5 of the putative class members, commonality is satisfied. See Owino v. CoreCivic, Inc., 60 F.4th 437, 6 444 (9th Cir. 2022) (“Commonality is necessarily established where there is a class-wide policy to 7 which all class members are subjected.”); Gonzalez, 975 F.3d at 808–09 (“[C]laims concerning 8 government policies, practices or procedures . . . are plainly suitable for classwide resolution.”); 9 Parsons v. Ryan, 754 F.3d 657, 678 (9th Cir. 2014) (“The putative class . . . members thus all set 10 forth numerous common contentions whose truth or falsity can be determined in one stroke: whether 11 the specified statewide policies and practices to which they are all subjected . . . expose them to a 12 substantial risk of harm.”). The authorities Defendants cite, such as Dickinson v. Trump, 174 F.4th
13 634, 646–47 (9th Cir. 2026) and Black Lives Matter L.A. v. City of Los Angeles (“BLM”), 113 F.4th 14 1249, 1258–66 (9th Cir. 2024)<sup>15</sup> are distinguishable.

15           Most importantly, the commonality analysis by the Ninth Circuit in Dickinson was 16 predicated on its conclusion (after independently reviewing the record) that there was in fact no such 17 policy. 174 F.4th at 642 (“The district court erred in ruling that there was . . . an unwritten 18 governmental policy of retaliation.”); see also id. at 646–47. And in BLM, the relevant point was 19 simply that class-wide proof—as opposed to mere pleading—is necessary to show commonality.
20 113 F.4th at 1264 (“[T]he plaintiffs cannot simply allege that a policy applies class-wide—they have 21 to present evidence that it does.”); see also id. at 1265 (“The Injunctive Relief Class does not bring a 22 Monell claim, so” the district court’s findings involving those policies “do not apply.”).

24 _____
25 <sup>15</sup> Defendants’ Opposition also relies heavily on Tincher v. Noem, 164 F.4th 1097 (8th Cir. 2026).
26 That case is an out-of-circuit motions panel decision that does not bind this Court. And it was not 27 actually at the class certification stage. The opinion’s discussion of the considerations at class 28 certification was a breezy two paragraphs that concluded that the broader class there “ha[d] no chance of getting certified.” Id. at 1089–99. For these reasons, the Court does not find it especially persuasive here.

1 That is not the case here. Plaintiffs do not proffer the inference of a policy from disparate 2 incidents of excessive force. The policy in question here is based on direct statements from 3 responsible agency heads about the unlawfulness of recording DHS agents.<sup>16</sup> That is precisely the 4 class-wide proof that was missing in Dickinson and BLM.

5 As a result, the fact that First and Fourth Amendment claims may involve some fact-specific 6 inquiries, and that the class covers all kinds of “different conduct, by different officers, at different 7 times, in different places, in response to different behavior,” does not defeat commonality. See 8 Opposition at 8–10, 12–15; see also Dickinson, 174 F.4th at 647; BLM, 113 F.4th at 1258–60; 9 Tincher, 164 F.4th at 1099. Gonzalez and Parsons are instructive. Gonzalez challenged, on behalf 10 of a class, ICE’s policy of issuing immigration detainers based solely on searches of electronic 11 databases. 975 F.3d at 797, 801. Even though “probable cause is a highly fact specific inquiry” 12 which “depends on the totality of the circumstances,” the Ninth Circuit nonetheless found that 13 commonality was satisfied. Id. at 809. It did so because it recognized that the relevant question was 14 not whether there was probable cause in a particular case, but instead involved the “adequacy of the 15 procedures” on which the government relied to make detention decisions. Id. Parsons involved 16 policies governing medical care and conditions of confinement in a prison system. 754 F.3d at 662.
17 There, too, the Ninth Circuit found commonality satisfied, because “[t]he Complaint does not allege 18 that the care provided on any particular occasion to any particular inmate (or group of inmates) was 19 insufficient, but rather that ADC [Arizona Department of Corrections] policies and practices of 20 statewide and systemic application expose all inmates in ADC custody to a substantial risk of serious 21 harm.” Id. at 676. “[A]lthough a presently existing risk may ultimately result in different future 22 harm for different inmates—ranging from no harm at all to death—every inmate suffers exactly the 23 same constitutional injury when he is exposed to a single statewide ADC policy or practice that 24 creates a substantial risk of serious harm.” Id. at 678. A similar point applies here. Even if First 25 Amendment retaliation and Fourth Amendment excessive force are generally fact-specific, totality-26 of-the-circumstances inquiries, Plaintiffs here are not trying to prove that any particular past act

1 against someone recording DHS was retaliatory or excessive. See Reply at 5. Instead, they argue 2 that the policy of treating recording as a threat is itself unlawful, and that it chills all people who 3 might record. Whether Plaintiffs are right or wrong about that question can be determined with 4 common proof across the class.

5 That Plaintiffs seek only forward-looking declaratory and injunctive relief, not damages, 6 further underscores the point that no fact-intensive, backwards-looking inquiry about what happened
7 to certain individuals on certain dates is necessary to proving Plaintiffs’ entitlement to relief. And it 8 means Plaintiffs need only prove commonality, not predominance. Compare Fed. R. Civ. P.
9 23(b)(2) with id. 23(b)(3). Indeed, because the discussion of predominance in BLM arose in the 10 discussion of Rule 23(b)(3) classes, see 113 F.4th at 1258–63, that portion of the decision is not 11 relevant here.

12 3. Typicality

13 Rule 23(a)(3) requires that “the claims or defenses of the representative parties [be] typical of 14 the claims or defenses of the class.” The inquiry “focuses on the nature of the claim . . . of the class 15 representative, and not . . . the specific facts from which it arose.” Gonzalez, 975 F.3d at 809 16 (alteration in original) (citation omitted). The analysis is informed by considering “whether other 17 members have the same or similar injury, whether the action is based on conduct which is not unique 18 to the named plaintiffs, and whether other class members have been injured by the same course of 19 conduct.” Id. (citation omitted). “Under the rule’s permissive standards, representative claims are 20 ‘typical’ if they are reasonably co-extensive with those of absent class members; they need not be 21 substantially identical.” DZ Reserve, 96 F.4th at 1238 (citation omitted).

22 The requirements of typicality and commonality “occasionally merge: ‘Both serve as 23 guideposts for determining whether . . . maintenance of a class action is economical and whether the 24 named plaintiff’s claim and the class claims are so interrelated that the interests of the class members 25 will be fairly and adequately protected in their absence.’” Parsons, 754 F.3d at 685 (quoting Duke, 26 564 U.S. at 349 n.5). Typicality is satisfied here for much the same reason that commonality is met.
27 Plaintiffs seek injunctive relief against a policy that they allege is unlawful, and the Court has found 28 that they have sufficiently shown the existence of such a policy. “Where the challenged conduct is a

1 policy or practice that affects all class members . . . the typicality inquiry involves comparing the 2 injury asserted in the claims raised by the named plaintiffs with those of the rest of the class. We do 3 not insist that the named plaintiffs’ injuries be identical with those of the other class members, only 4 that the unnamed class members have injuries similar to those of the named plaintiffs and that the 5 injuries result from the same, injurious course of conduct.” Id. (quoting Armstrong v. Davis, 275
6 F.3d 849, 868–69 (9th Cir. 2001)); see also Just Film, Inc. v. Buono, 847 F.3d 1108, 1117–18 (9th 7 Cir. 2017).

8 As a result, factual variations in how each named Plaintiffs’ physical injuries arose or their 9 specific role at an event do not defeat typicality. Neither does the fact that some putative class 10 members “may have suffered no injury or different injuries.” Opposition at 18. On Plaintiffs’ 11 theory, all putative class members experience First Amendment chill as a result of Defendants’ 12 policy, regardless of their role and whether they have in fact already been injured. And injunctive 13 relief would alleviate that chilling effect for the entire class. Defendants have not identified any 14 defenses they have that are unique to the named Plaintiffs here. All class members have thus 15 suffered a “similar injury,” as a result of the “same course of conduct,” “which is not unique to the 16 named plaintiffs,” and typicality is met. Gonzalez, 975 F.3d at 809.

17 4. Adequacy

18 Rule 23(a)(4) requires that the representative party “fairly and adequately protect the interests 19 of the class.” This requirement is grounded in due process concerns—absent class members must be 20 afforded adequate representation before they are bound by a judgment. Rodriguez v. West 21 Publishing Corp., 563 F.3d 948, 959 (9th Cir. 2009); Hansberry v. Lee, 311 U.S. 32, 37, 42–43 22 (1940). A named plaintiff satisfies the adequacy test if she (and her counsel) has no conflict of 23 interest with other class members and if they will prosecute the action vigorously on behalf of the 24 class. Ellis v. Costco Wholesale Corp., 657 F.3d 970, 985 (9th Cir. 2011).

25 There is no suggestion of a conflict of interest between the proposed class representatives (or 26 their counsel) and absent class members here. See Motion at 24; Opposition at 19; Reply at 7.

1 Plaintiffs and their counsel have prosecuted this action vigorously thus far, devoting 2 substantial resources and skill, developing a very thick record,<sup>17</sup> and securing several rulings in their 3 favor.<sup>18</sup> Counsel are experienced in civil rights litigation, class actions, and disputes involving 4 journalist and protestor rights. Borden Decl. ¶¶ 5–7, 10–15; Eliasberg Decl. ¶¶ 5–8; Declaration of 5 Carol A. Sobel (“Sobel Decl.”) [Dkt. 100-5] ¶¶ 2–21; Declaration of Peter Bibring (“Bibring Decl.”) 6 [Dkt. 100-6] ¶¶ 2–9.

7 Defendants’ only argument regarding adequacy is that Plaintiffs’ declarations do not 8 establish that they are aware they are class representatives or know about their responsibilities.
9 Opposition at 19. Supplemental declarations submitted with the Reply address any such concerns.
10 See Fifth Beckner-Carmitchel Decl. ¶¶ 3–9; Second Supplemental Declaration of Lexis Olivier-Ray 11 (“Third Ray Decl.”) [Dkt. 107-4] ¶¶ 3–9; Supplemental Declaration of Charles Xu (“Second Xu 12 Decl.”) [Dkt. 107-5] ¶¶ 3–10; Second Supplemental Declaration of Jonathan Schleuss (“Third 13 Schleuss Decl.”) [Dkt. 107-3] ¶¶ 3–9; Third Supplemental Declaration of Adam Rose (“Fourth Rose 14 Decl.”) [Dkt. 107-6] ¶¶ 4–10.

15 The Court thus finds that the proposed class representatives and their counsel are adequate.

16 C. Rule 23(b)(2)

17 Rule 23(b)(2) allows class treatment when “the party opposing the class has acted or refused 18 to act on grounds that apply generally to the class, so that final injunctive relief or corresponding 19 declaratory relief is appropriate respecting the class as a whole.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 23(b)(2).

20 “These requirements are unquestionably satisfied when members of a putative class seek 21 uniform injunctive or declaratory relief from policies or practices that are generally applicable to the 22 class as a whole.” Parsons, 754 F.3d at 688. That is exactly the case here. A declaratory judgment

24 <sup>17</sup> See Application for Temporary Restraining Order [Dkt. 6] (submitting 23 expert and fact 25 declarations); PI Motion (25 non-counsel declarations); Preliminary Injunction Reply [Dkt. 49] (10 26 non-counsel declarations); Opposition to Stay Application [Dkt. 64] (2 fact declarations); Motion (18 non-counsel declarations); Reply (6 non-counsel declarations).

27 <sup>18</sup> See PI Order (granting preliminary injunction); Stay Order (denying stay of preliminary injunction 28 pending appeal); L.A. Press Club, 171 F.4th at 1187–90 (affirming issuance of preliminary injunction).

1 that Defendants’ policy violates the First Amendment, and an injunction against it, would provide 2 relief to every class member. It is not true, as Defendants assert, that each individual class member 3 would be entitled to a different injunction or declaratory judgment. See Opposition at 20–21. That 4 argument assumes that there is no common policy, and discounts chill as a First Amendment 5 injury.<sup>19</sup>

24 <sup>19</sup> Defendants also argue that “[t]he equitable principles laid out in” Trump v. CASA, Inc., 606 U.S.
25 831 (2025), “support denying class certification here.” Opposition at 6. Not so. CASA involved the 26 propriety of universal injunctive relief in the absence of a certified class, not the standard for class 27 certification. 606 U.S. at 837. The Supreme Court majority expressed concern that universal 28 injunctions were a “shortcut” or “workaround” that circumvented Rule 23’s procedural limits on class actions. Id. at 849–50. That is not happening here. This Court has engaged in the “rigorous” analysis required by Rule 23, and found that its requirements are satisfied. And this Order does not issue any injunctive relief. Even if it did, “CASA did not affect district courts’ ability to issue class-wide injunctive relief.” Pacito v. Trump, 169 F.4th 895, 939 (9th Cir. 2026).
